

LEAGUE UNITS NOT BALANCED

STEPS STILL LACKING, HOWEVER, TO PUT CLUBS IN WESTERN DIVISION ON PAR WITH EASTERN TEAMS.

By H. C. Hamilton, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—In spite of loud walls from western baseball clubs and the admission of President Tener, of the National league, and others that the help was badly needed, steps to put those teams on a par with the powerful eastern entrants still are lacking.

St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, and Pittsburgh are almost, if not entirely, in just as bad shape as they were when the season opened. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati may possibly be taken out of such a sweeping statement, for both Jimmy Callahan and Christy Mathewson had begun to get a little baseball out of their teams before the end of last season.

Nothing can be said so far for Chicago. Fred Mitchell is new and he will have to prove his right to battle the issue with such leaders as Moran, McGraw, Stallings and Robinson. He has some young material, but it isn't all good enough for the majors. He has plans for improvement, but they cannot be carried out unless the other managers are willing to part with the players he wants.

Miller Huggins is making no improvements in the Cardinals. They will be back in their favorite second division at the end of the season unless seven other clubs in the older league suffer apoplexy or smallpox.

Cincinnati has a chance to finish out of eighth place, at the probable expense of the Cardinals or Cubs. Mathewson has put some pep into the infield and he undoubtedly has a fair pitching staff. His own pitching smartness probably will help him round out a staff that should go a long way toward success. Then, he has Hal Chase.

In the outfield Callahan made an improvement when he obtained Carson Bigbee, hailed as the Ty Cobb of the northwest. Bigbee showed hitting ability last year, and everyone expects him to continue smacking the ball with big league regularity.

It is hard to see, however, where these clubs will be able to hold their own against New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia.

PENROSE FORCES ARE SEEKING TO CONTROL

Conflict in Pennsylvania Legislature Becomes Heated, With Senator's Power in Balance.

(By United Press to The Daily Bulletin.)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 22.—Pennsylvania's legislature reassembled today with the power of the so-called boss, United States Senator Boies Penrose, leader of the Republican organization since Matthew Stanley Quay died in 1904, in the balance.

By electing Richard J. Baldwin speaker of the House three weeks ago, Penrose men defeated the opposition led by Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh and the Vares.

The speakership was only incidental to the battle. The real struggle was for control of the state organization and control of next year's primaries, when candidates are to be nominated for governor, congress, the legislature. Armed with the veto power, Governor Brumbaugh may spoil enemy plans. Penrose must get a two-thirds vote to override a veto.

Penrose lieutenants have been talking "investigation" and "impeachment" of the governor. Declarations that he will be "sulzerized" have been made more or less openly. Assemblyman Isadore Stern, of Philadelphia, has repeatedly declared he will introduce impeachment proceedings.

BASKETBALL TEAM NOW TAKING FORM

Local Quintet Has Enlisted Some Speedy Stars and Will Be On for Games Next Week.

Much real class is being shown in the lineup of the Bend basketball five, which is now getting under way in great good style. Last Thursday night's practice brought out many more men who did not show up at the first turnout.

"Shorty" Foster has definitely lined up with the Bend basket tossers and indulged in his first basket shooting with the local team last Thursday night and said at that time he would make the trip from his ranch near Redmond, every Monday and Thursday night to work out with the Bend team. Mervin Horton, who has been ill for the last two weeks, and unable to turn out, will be out this week and will work to get into form for the first game, which will be in Prineville in about a week. The Prineville team has been in action for several weeks and is in mid-season form.

With the enlistment of Foster and Horton to the lineup already out, Bend will have the fastest and most experienced team in this part of the state. It was evident that Reed has not lost his eye for distance in shooting baskets, and his speed in covering distance on the floor. Roy Keizer, who has played a lot of basketball, is going to give aspirants for the position of guard a lot of trouble when it comes to selecting a team. Hans Nelson, an aggressive player, handles the ball, and is a regular leech when it comes to guarding. Ernest Bell, and H. Ketchum put in their first appearance at last week's turnout and were given a whirl at the game. It is expected that three full teams will be out for practice tonight in the Hippodrome.

HUDSON MARU CREW VERGING ON MUTINY

(By United Press to The Daily Bulletin.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—Consul Stewart, of Pernambuco, cabled the State Department today, that the crew of the captured Japanese steamer, Hudson Maru, are on the point of mutiny.

HIGH SCHOOL VS. HIPPODROME

The Bend High School basketball team will meet the Hippodrome five tonight in the Hippodrome at 7 o'clock. No admission will be charged. The high school five has been practicing for the last two weeks and now are ready for games. The Hippodrome quintet organized last week and is made up of men averaging about 135 pounds, and are fast. The high school will play the Redmond high school team at Redmond next Friday night.

GREAT YEAR FOR PINE PREDICTED

ments during the first 60 days of 1917.

"The car shortage has affected us quite materially and has resulted in considerable business which would naturally be placed out here being placed in other sections where the car shortage is not as acute.

Will Share Prosperity.

"However, I believe that the cry which was put up earlier in the season before the car shortage really became as bad as it now is, has affected some of the business which would have come west and could have been taken care of earlier, as the buyers figured they could not get the stock.

"My prediction for 1917 would be the greatest year for western pine in the history of the country and no more than probable for all lumber. The country is so uniformly prosperous that some of it has got to get to the lumber business, and the high prices of all commodities render absolutely necessary the high price on lumber."

At the Movies

Grand Theatre.
Virginia Pearson proved to be a big drawing card at the Grand Theatre last night, in "A Tortured Heart," one of the best of the films recently put out by the Fox Film corporation. The play will be seen again tonight, for the last time. The story of the photo drama is as follows:

Rev. Joseph Lorimer lives alone in the rectory with his sexton, Samuel. One night when he was offering up his accustomed prayer for his dead wife, a woman looks in the window of the rectory. A few moments later the minister goes to the door. On the porch is a bundle containing a small baby girl. The minister and Samuel care for the baby, with the assistance of Liza, a colored mammy.

The minister christens the baby, naming her "Margery," after his dead wife.

In the parish there is only one person who looks upon the minister's act with sympathy. This is Miss Darrell, a wealthy spinster. She offers her fortune that the girl might be brought up properly.

Margery acquires a good education. The minister sends her to a professor of French, Leon Causidiere. The man is in reality a gambler and a crook, who has been mixed up in a shooting affair. In getting away he wounds a man, who swears revenge.

Bob Saunders, a young fellow who lives in the same town, of good family and some talent as a painter, is in love with Margery. But when he proposes she refuses him. Leon pays a visit to the town. His attentions to Margery are disapproved by both the minister and Miss Darrell. Indignant to think that a stranger interferes, Leon goes to Miss Darrell's house. While waiting, he takes a letter from a private desk. This reveals that Miss Darrell is Margery's mother.

Leon again approaches Miss Darrell, extorts money and forces her to keep silent. Margery elopes with Leon. Bob Saunders goes to Miss Darrell to break the news. Hysterically, she confesses to the minister and Bob. Leon enters upon a debauch. Margery is neglected. In a poker game one night Leon again comes face to face with the man he had shot in a previous affair. He makes his escape but is followed by a band of enraged men who surround him on the top of a mountain after a long chase. He is thrown over the side and dashed to pieces on the rocks below. Margery writes to the minister and asks him to take her back. When the news of Leon's death is broken to her, Margery turns to her mother. All the love of her nature is lavished upon the woman who has sacrificed everything in life for her. Later, Margery marries Bob.

Bend Theatre.
Founded on an old fairy tale of two children who climbed from their little cottage to the house on the hill only to discover that the golden windows were made of nothing but the sun shining on broken window panes, and looking back they could see the same golden effect on the panes of the windows in their own little home, L. V. Jefferson and Charles Sarver have constructed a splendid photodrama, "The House of the Golden Windows," a Paramount picture, which will be seen at the Bend Theatre tomorrow night, by Cleo Ridgley and Wallace Reid, the Lasky stars, in the leading roles.

Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgley in "The House of the Golden Windows" (Lasky)

The story is a modern version of this old fairy tale and the scenes are laid in the green fields of California and show in a striking manner how true happiness is really at one's own fireside.

The cast supporting the two artists includes James Neill, Mabel Van Buren, Horace Carpenter, Little Billy Jacobs and Margery Daw.

Mary Pickford, in "Hulda From Holland," is probably one of the most delightful pictures that has yet been shown this season at the Bend Theatre. Mary Pickford enters quite a different role from her usual characterizations. As a little Dutch maid, Mary Pickford is a star. The picture is genuinely Dutch, and leaves a good taste in one's mouth. This film will
