

BILLY GEORGE IS FIGHT WINNER

the local favorite at the ropes for a good portion of the period. George drew first blood in the sixth, tapping Trambitas' nose with an ugly left, and landing rights and lefts to the chin repeatedly. Trambitas rallied in the seventh, and took a draw, becoming the aggressor for the early part of the round, but apparently weakening as it drew to a close.

Ninth is Decisive.

The ninth was the most decisive round, for George sent the Portland boy to his knees with a left hook to the jaw, and a few seconds afterward, dropped him to his hands. This time he assisted his adversary to rise. Trambitas proceeded to walk into a series of two-handed punches, and clinched time after time to save himself from further punishment. George took the tenth with little difficulty, by a resumption of his battering ram tactics, although Trambitas at first took the offensive in an evident endeavor to annex a victory via the knockout route.

Of the preliminaries, a six-round fight between Fred Gilbert, at 150 pounds, and F. McKim, at 155, aroused as keen, if not keener, interest among the spectators. It was no boxing match, but a fight from the first tap of the bell. McKim

LIGHTWEIGHT MATCH WILL BE PROMOTED

Benny Leonard, by Virtue of Recent Showing Thought Ready For Trial With Champion.

By H. C. Hamilton

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—When Benny Leonard, with an injured hand, fought a pair of scraps a couple of weeks ago in this city and pated Phil Bloom and Frankie Callahan all over the same number of rings he proved conclusively to New York fight fans that he is ready for another crack at Champion Welsh.

Efforts undoubtedly will be made to get the two lightweights together in a twenty-round match. If they do mingle over the marathon route it is freely predicted here that Leonard is bound to win.

It is pointed out with considerable seriousness that, even if Leonard didn't lay a glove on the elusive Britisher in the first ten rounds, he would be certain to catch up before the score was over. And when he did! They point to the deadly execution of Leonard's right hand.

In the bout with Bloom, Leonard's left hand was absolutely helpless. The best he could do with it was a very poor attempt at guarding. He couldn't stab with it. He made a show of holding it in front of him, but it did little good. But, in no less than three rounds he had Bloom in a very bad way. And Bloom is one of the toughest lightweights in the game.

Frankie Callahan found the same conditions. He discovered that Leonard's left hand was in bad shape and he directed his efforts toward that side of his opponent, with some success. He made a better showing than Bloom, but in the end he was just as badly cut up by the vicious uppercuts and crosses from the Harlem boxer.

Leonard was fast, had an excellent judge of distance, and he stopped numerous heavy blows from the gloves of his opponent.

Such a showing as this entitles Leonard to some consideration from the champion. Welsh has engaged in only one twenty round contest since he won his title. He never has risked it more than that one time in a decision bout. It is time another real match was made for him and Leonard apparently is the man.

BEAR SHARES STRIFE WITH RUSS SOLDIERS

Huge Mascot From Caucasus Mountains Enjoys Sojourn on the Western War Front.

By Henry Wood

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE RUSSIAN ARMY ON THE FRENCH FRONT, Feb. 12.—Fighting with the Russian army in France today is a huge bear from the Caucasian mountains who seems to enjoy his sojourn on the French front fully as much as his masters enjoy theirs.

He is mascot of one of the Russian regiments that was transported half way round the world from the Russian to the French front to show the solidarity of the allies.

When the times comes for the bear's regiment to go in the front line trenches for its six days of duty, the bear goes along. He keeps the all night vigils with the sentinels and as there is nothing else to eat but the regular rations brought up from the rear he permits the soldiers to divide their share with him. The Russian army has brought with it into France its own cuisine, and the soups and dishes prepared would appear to be, judging from the appearance both of the soldiers and the bear, of a highly nourishing character.

When the bear has finished his time in the front line, he accompanies the regiment to the rear for the customary six days of repose. He is always ready to go anywhere provided he remains with the men of his particular regiment.

closed Gilbert's left eye in the first and jammed him to the ropes in the second, administering punishment which would have decided the match then and there, but for the unusual stamina of the smaller lad.

In the third, honors were even, and in the fourth, with McKim tiring from using Gilbert as a human punching bag, the latter took the lead and forced McKim to adopt a strictly defensive campaign of dodging and clinching.

In the fifth, McKim was floored twice, and each time dragged himself to his feet by a sheer effort of will, just in time. Again he was dropped in the sixth, but saved him-
