MUNITIONS IN GRAVE DANGER

MANUFACTURERS WOULD HAVE CARRYING OF MATCHES, AND LIGHTING CIGARETTES LISTED AS CRIME.

By J. W. Pegler,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Feb. 19.—Warning placards are not enough to prevent workers from endangering thousands of lives by carrying matches into the shell factories. Fines imposed on offenders are laughed at and paid by subscription among the imperial toilers.

Prison sentences for "murderous carelessness" are now demanded by the heads of the big explosives plants. It required the disastrous earth-rocking blast in South London to illustrate the peril. No one knows how that fire started. One version gives the blow-out of a light fuse as the cause. Deadly vapors caught fire, small explosions followed and then came the big detonation that swayed all London and made a Verdon of the neighborhood.

"Some workers change their outer clothing for asbestos suits, and put on protecting veils, gloves and boots on starting work," said one manufacturer today. "Can men who take such precautions argue for a moment that they don't appreciate the danger?"

"All are searched before going to work, their matches and smoking materials being placed in lockers outside the works. But now and then a factory hand gets away with a few matches.

"They must be sent to prison. It is not mere folly. It is a murderous crime."

Supervisors have to contend with girls as well as male workers because cigarette smoking is almost as prevalent among the feminine munition makers. One girl was caught actually smoking in a munition plant and sentenced by her fellow-workers to a sound thrashing. She got it, too, but that form of punishment is not approved by the plant directors.

Their demand for imprisonment will probably be well received by the courts and is expected to reduce the offenses.

Fifteen men, in all, are at work.

Ditching is going on from the power plant to Wall street, near the old Pilot Butte Inn, to connect with the Wall street main. The pump for the new improvement has not yet arrived.

BRAZIL ON EVE OF BIG CARNIVAL

ALL NATIONS ARE WORSHIPPING AT SHRINE OF GOD OF FUN FOR THREE DAYS OF MERRY-MAKING.

By H. H. Robertson
RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 19.—Momo, "god of fun," rules supreme in Brazil. A fat jolly god, free from care, whose worshippers include every soul in the land.

Come rain, shine, prosperity or poverty every Brazilian has laid his troubles on the shelf for three days of utter abandon to play and fun. For three months "Momo" has been testing out marching clubs, music and dancers. Every "bairro" or suburb and section in the city has had its preliminary battles of confetti, colored illumination, street dancing and general gaiety. For six months the people have been saving their money for the big event.

Avenida Rio Branco, the Broadway of Brazil and its extension "Boira Mar," is the scene of the principal activities. Fully 500,000 persons will be crushed into the short mile of thoroughfare, half of them are masked and all of them playing. A huge parade of decorated automobiles and vehicles, carrying the society of Brazil, open the fun in quadruple lines down the wire avenue.

The parade moves slowly because every inch of space is occupied by the seething crowd on foot. Battles of confetti, duels with "lanes," (siphons), of perfume, and bombardments with "serpentina" (long ribbons of colored paper) mark the progress of the parade.

Before the autos and carriages have more than begun their march they become interlaced with masses paper ribbons. Serpentinae thrown from the windows of the building festoon the balconies, trees and street lamps. The air becomes heavy with perfume and the confetti underfoot drifts and deepens like snow in an American winter.

At night three huge spectacular parades given by clubs competing for a prize offered by the municipality satiate the Latin taste for show. Floats, some of them a hundred yards long, represent fairy stories and the events of the day.

One great float carries a rose tree branch whose buds burst into flower and close to buds again as it moves along. Nestling in the hearts of the roses and wafting kisses to the clamoring crowds are girls who rival real roses in beauty.

Another car carries a kneeling giant who curiously turns a sea shell in his enormous paw. A lovely girl in the center of the shell justifies the giant's and the crowd's delight.

Caricatures of political events, the war and men in the public eye furnish subjects for other floats. The parades are miles in length.

Mounted bands of music, military display, marching clubs of hundreds of uniformed members, drum and bugle corps, fire departments, contingents from battle ships, and everything that may contribute to the spectacle are in the parades.

Tracery of fireworks against the sky, colored and fantastic illumination, blazing windows, sweeping searchlights from the ships in the bay and from building tops weld into kaleidoscopic beauty. The blast of bugles, thud of drums, crash of cymbals, braying of bands, and the singing of masses of people make an indescribable din.

A band playing a popular air raises the voices of the crowd in songs that soars the length of the avenue. A dance tune is the signal for all to swing into rhythm on the street. Nobody in a stranger to anybody and nobody cares. They dance in couples, in circles, in groups and in mass.

Windows along the avenue are sold for outlandish prices to those who can only watch the fun. Ten and $20 an hour will hire an automobile for those who wish to join the society parade. A stairway entrance on Avenida will often rent for several thousands of dollars to the vendors of confetti and perfume. Many thousands are given employment for months before the carnival, making masquerade costumes. Cafes, dance halls, bars (permanent and impromptu), theaters, rinks and all amusement places are full to overflowing.

Mardi Gras at New Orleans, Venice, Rome and other European cities attract tourists from far countries, but those who have seen the carnival at Rio say it is greater than any of these.

The composite headache of Brazil on February 21 is the one institution possible greater than the carnival.

HIGH SCHOOL VS. HIPPIE TONIGHT

The Bend high school basketball team will meet the Hippodrome five tonight at the Hippodrome in the final contest of the season. Both teams are keen for the game. POLO TOURNAMENT TO END THURSDAY
Noted Players Assembling in California for Match Between English and Americans.

By H. C. Hamilton
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The big polo tournament which has been going on at Riverside, Cal., since the 12th will wind up Thursday with a big international championship, the British-American game.

This gathering probably has witnessed as great a collection of American polo stars as ever was gotten together in the United States, not even excepting the galaxies of stars sometimes at Meadowbrook field, Long Island.

In the match of England vs. America, Hugh Drury, the noted English player now living at Riverside and playing with the Riverside club, has organized a team of Britishers to go against the American team captained by Malcolm Stevenson, and the fact that the aggregate handicap rating of the players will be in excess of 25 goals for each team indicates to a polo enthusiast that it will be some game.

The scene of play will be at Chomawa park, the beautiful turf field on Magnolia avenue, considered by poloists as one of the best and scenically most attractive fields in the west.

Among the noted players already on the coast for this tournament are Malcolm Stevenson, Perry Beadleston, G. M. Heckscher, C. C. Rumsey, Thos. Le Boutillier, of New York; W. Balding, a noted English player; Earl
