SENATOR SCOFFS AT SCIENTIFIC FARMERS

(By United Press to The Daily Bulletin.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 21.—Senator Sherman, of Illinois, born and raised on a farm, does not think much of the government experts. He said so during discussion of the agriculture appropriation bill.

"These alleged scientific farmers know more about ward politics than they do about farming," said Sherman. "If they attempted to put into practice their scientific farming stunts they would starve to death in 12 months. I'll bet ninety per cent of them don't know hard cider from creek water. They would know a Jersey cow only if she introduced herself."

EDUCATORS CONVENE IN INDIANA CAPITAL

(By United Press to The Daily Bulletin.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 21.—Four thousand delegates came here today for the tenth annual meeting of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education.

Indiana surveys for vocational education by the State Board of Public Instruction will be the main topic of discussion. Report will be made on surveys conducted in several Indiana cities and advocates of the new system will show how schools in this state are meeting requirements to prepare for vocational education.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield, president of the organization, will talk on the Smith-Hughes bill, which has passed the Senate and is now before the House. The bill calls for an appropriation for the promotion of vocational education.

A. L. FRENCH RETURNS
A. L. French returned Tuesday morning from a five weeks' business trip to Chicago and other middle-west centers where he did considerable buying for his spring and summer trade. Mr. French reports the market conditions, although prosperous, in a most unusual condition. Merchandise is hard to obtain, and jobbers are none too anxious to contract for future orders. Weather conditions, says Mr. French, have been severe in the middle western states for several weeks.

At the Movies

Grand Theatre.

"The Sultana," a beautifully colored Pathe picture, is to be shown tonight for the second time at the

William Duncan and Mary Anderson in "THE LAST MAN"

Grand Theatre. The Pathe Film Co. is noted for its wonderful picturization of films in artistic colors and this film is one of the best that has yet been produced.

Tomorrow afternoon, the children of Bend will have a feast for their eyes when "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," will be presented at two matinee performances, the first at 2:30 p. m. and the second at 3:45 p. m. This film is a dramatization of one of Grimm's best known fairy tales and the scenes are laid in nature's beauty spots of Northern Ohio, in which 300 children participate.

For the title role in the new picture play version of Grimm's fairy tale, "Snow White," Aimee Erlica was selected, for her grace, her beauty and her dancing ability. Although still a little girl, she had several years of experience in stage-work, having played the Queen, in "Little Nemo," and other leading parts in Klaw & Erlinger's productions. Her resemblance to Marguerite Clark is marked, and several months ago she won the first prize as the child most like the other famous actress in appearance.

Thursday evening Mary Anderson and William Duncan appear in "The Last Man," a story which has for its setting the Philippines. The story is even as dramatic as "God's Country," in which these characters appeared at the Dream Theatre several months ago.

In the madness of a native uprising in the Philippines he meets the woman who was his wife—and the man who wrecked his home. Army men, both of them—and the women, beautiful, but like another Helen of Old. Between them lies the hate and passion of the unpaid debt of honor. Like a tower of strength he withstands the storm from without, a bulwark and shelter for those who wronged him. And with the passing of the storm he exacts from them a penalty worse than death—plants in their hearts the embers of remorse that shall smoulder always, searing their souls for all time.

A wonderful picture is "The Last Man"; big, vital, pulsing with the primitive passions of the race; a picture such as comes but seldom—and endures.

Bend Theatre.

On Thursday evening Manager F. A. Perin will open a brand new serial, "The Shielding Shadow," reputed to be one of the best and most high class pictures yet produced for the lovers of the continued story. Hazel Darmond and One Lamp Louie are featured in this extremely mysterious and intriguing story. On the same night the last chapter of "The Lass of the Lumberlands" will be shown. This picture has had a long life in Bend and has been appreciated by a large number of patrons.

Plan to attend the Colonial ball at the Hippodrome, Feb. 22. 61-50
