

Sunday in Bend Churches

Presbyterian Church.
If you are interested in the present day happenings, you will find something of special attraction at the Presbyterian church in every service.
A series of expository addresses will begin next Sunday morning. This series will be on the book of Ephesians, which is the great book of church truth. Come and bring your Bible. Write your questions down and hand them in for answering.
At the 7:30 service there will be an illustrated lecture, on the Tabernacle. This lecture will be illustrated by highly artistic slides that are made according to Biblical description. The members of the A. F. & A. M. will attend this service in a body. If you want a seat you had better come early.
Just a word about our morning services. Much of the material that is being given in these Bible studies will appear in book form under the caption of "Analysis of the Bible." The gathering of this material represents years of hard study and difficult research work, and we say without hesitation, or without any thought of boasting, that it is all worthy of one's attention.
H. C. HARTRANFT, Pastor.

Episcopal Church.
On Sunday evening at 8 p. m., in the Masonic hall, the Rev. Dr. Van Waters, general missionary, will conduct the service. Special music.

The Wright Hotel will serve an old-fashioned chicken and dumpling and gravy supper, Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, for 50 cents.—Adv.

POLICE OUTWITTED BY CLEVER RUSE AT PRIZE FIGHT

By H. C. Hamilton,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, April 14.—A story of how the Cuban secretary of the interior, all unconscious of it, helped a bunch of Cuban fight fans out of a hole, was brought here recently by a traveller from Havana. The fight was staged in Havana over the protests of the mayor and the chief of police, much to the satisfaction of the promoters—and to the extreme chagrin of the secretary, who found out about it later.
The fight was advertised to take place, the hall was packed, the cigars were going big and the Cubans were happy. Just as the announcer was telling his audience what a fine pair of scrappers the two antagonists were, and how the fur was going to fly, in clumped a sergeant and ten toy soldiers, designated police.
Down the aisle they marched in precise military formation and were brought to an abrupt halt at ringside by the sergeant, who, with a flourish, informed the audience and the promoters that, by order of the mayor, no fight was to be held.
"But I have the authorization of the secretary of the interior to hold this fight," the promoter protested.
"Can't help it," replied the sergeant. "Orders are orders and I work for the mayor. Clear out."
The debate grew and the words were flying fast.
"Suppose I should show you a letter from the secretary of the interior. You know his signature, do you not?"
And the promoter produced his letter.
"That's his signature, all right," replied the policeman, "but the fight can't go on."
"If I should get the secretary on the telephone and he should tell you to allow the fight to proceed would you change your mind?"
This was agreed to and someone rang up the secretary, who informed the policeman that the fight must be held.
The policeman made his apologies, bowed very low a lot of times and he and his men took front seats and watched the show.
Next day it was found the secretary was out of town.

BEND AUTOISTS MEET Decision On Joining State Organization Is Deferred.

Whether or not the Bend Auto club should affiliate with the Oregon State Motor association was the chief topic for discussion this noon, when the club members met at luncheon at the Pilot Butte Inn. J. W. Morris, of Portland, representing the state association, explained the advantages of membership in the larger organization, but no action was taken by the club other than to grant him permission to secure individual memberships here.

"greatest ever" or guaranteed to embody all the reforms and dogmas of civilization, the play will afford stirring scenes and a gripping interest that has seldom been reflected upon the screen. Its scenes are laid in San Francisco at a period just preceding the great earthquake and consequent fire. This catastrophe is used as the climaxing incident of a series of sensational events that lead to the Presidio, where refugees congregated in thousands after the night of terror and destruction. Dorothy Phillips, one of the most famous emotional stars the screen has ever introduced, will play the leading role—the daughter of "Hell" Morgan, keeper of one of the most notorious spots in San Francisco's Barbary Coast. Her leading man will be William Stowell, and Lon Chaney, a clever actor of villainous parts, will provide the counterbalance to Stowell's manliness in the principal role.

The film is starting from the standpoint of the exceptional scenes portrayed of the San Francisco fire and earthquake, the realistic scenes of Barbary Coast and its attendant conditions. It has been conceded that the art of film trickery has been applied to the highest degree in this picture. Dorothy Phillips has a wonderful emotional personality which is given ample opportunity to manifest itself in this great picture.

CHAPLIN TONIGHT—If there is anyone who contemplates seeing Charley Chaplin tonight at the Grand Theatre, that person had better store up all the possible energy, for there are at least a hundred laughs in store for the one who attends. Chaplin has appeared in almost every role up to this release except a policeman, and the policeman is enacted in "Easy Street." It is full of good humor, without much of the slap attack.

Tomorrow, Virginia Pearson will be seen again at the Grand Theatre. The new release, "The War Bride's Secret," is an unusually appropriate picture at this time. The story deals with the marriage of a young girl, Jean MacDougal, to a young man she loves, in secret just before he leaves for the war. Soon after he leaves, the news comes to Jean that her husband has been killed in action. Realizing that she must have a father for the baby she expects, she turns to a man who was a former suitor. This man is a wealthy Scotch farmer, by whom she is accepted as his wife. When the child is born he thinks that it is his own babe. A few months later Jean's first husband returns from the front. He was merely wounded in battle, and returns to Scotland to see his wife. The meeting of the two brings the realization of the truth to the Scotch farmer. He leaves Jean and her first husband and goes back to seek happiness elsewhere. The play is cleverly acted out in every detail.

Fortified by Federal Reserve and Federal Farm Loan Acts

The Comptroller of the Currency recently made the following report to Congress:
"We now have the Federal Reserve System, which we believe assures us against panics and fears, such as have in the past, at intervals, disturbed our commerce and paralyzed our industries. The Rural Credits, or Federal Farm Loan System, will aid in securing permanent commercial strength, and safety, based on the sure foundations of prosperous and thriving communities of farmers, held to the soil by ties of ownership and encouraged and aided to secure constantly increasing results per man, per acre, and per day."
"In reviewing our banking and fiscal situation we seem now to be entrenched financially almost as firmly as it is possible to provide for whatever increases of army and navy the Congress may think to be necessary."
This bank is a member of the Federal Reserve System.
