

Sunday in Bend Churches

Methodist Episcopal Church.
Ten o'clock a. m., Sunday school. The new contest is on, the classes are all assigned their places and the report will be handed in Sunday. A new class was formed this week and will begin its work at this time. For a long time the pastor has felt the need of a Men's Bible class. At the social meeting last Tuesday evening the formation was effected, and Rev. W. C. Stewart was made teacher temporarily. We invite the men of the city to membership in this class. Topics of special interest will be discussed. Men's work in a community, community betterment, the world situation, etc., will have a place here. The class meets at 7:30 a. m.

At 11 a. m. the pastor will preach on "A Young Man With a Stiff Backbone." This is the beginning of a series of men and their doings. The series is as follows:
1. A young man with a stiff backbone.
2. A young man who turned defeat into victory.
3. A young man whose pace was too swift.
4. A young man who wouldn't play the game.
5. A young man who had his eyes opened.
6. A young man who made good.
7. The matchless young man.
The choir will render fine music. At 3 p. m. the Kenwood school will meet.

Seven o'clock p. m. is the time for the Epworth league. A new set of officers have been elected. We bespeak for them much success. We urge the attendance of the young people.
At 8 p. m. the pastor will preach on "My Amusements, Have I a Clear Conscience Toward Them?" A series for the Sunday evening will also begin on personal problems. This is one of them. Following they are:
2. My life work; have I found my right place?
3. My companions; have I chosen wisely?
4. My habits, have I formed the best?
5. My religious life; do I give it first place?
6. My sin; have I conquered them?
You will find a warm welcome at the First Methodist church.

At the Movies

Grand Theatre.
A motive of revenge, which leads a woman to seek the unhappiness of her husband by humiliating her own unknown daughter, gives a startling and vivid background to the work which Valeska Suratt does for William Fox in her new picture, "The Straight Way," to be seen Sunday night at the Grand Theatre. Miss Suratt plays Mary Madison, a woman who has been wronged by her husband and cannot forgive.
When the story begins, Mary's relations with another man are unjustly suspected by her husband. He casts her off, and she, brokenhearted, leaves her baby daughter in the care of a sister. Later, when the husband, John Madison (Herbert Keyes) hears that Mary has been killed in a railroad wreck, he takes the daughter to his home.
Many years later, Mary hears that Madison has been elected governor of his state. She determines to have her vengeance on him for wrecking her life. She makes a plot with Dan Walters (Glen White), a former convict. Walters is marry Madison's daughter, Marion (Elsie Balfour). Mary does not know that Marion is her own child, but believes she is Madison's daughter by a second marriage.
After the marriage of Walters and Marion, Mary goes to Madison and tells him the whole story. Then he informs her that Mary is her own daughter.
Mary sees then that her plot has acted as a boomerang. Her only child has become the bride of an ex-convict. But the situation is cleared when subsequent events prove that Walters had been innocent of the crime for which he was punished, and had gone to prison for a friend.

Bend Theatre
William S. Hart, to be seen Sunday matinee, Sunday and Monday nights at the Bend Theatre, is a striking character in "Hell's Hinges." It is the story of the reformation of a "bad western town," by one man. In a western town full of gamblers there came from the east a minister. He was not welcome in the place and went through all sorts of dangers to save his life and the life of his sister. The reformation of the town came through the conversion of the worst gambler in the crowd, who started in to clean up the town. There are several exciting scenes in this play which give William Hart an opportunity to display his exceptional personality.
With this picture will be shown Willie Collier in the comedy, "Wife and Auto Trouble," and a film of the Calgary irrigation project.

DAVENPORT'S ESCAPE ALMOST MIRACULOUS
Burly Pitcher for Browns Dons Uniform Again After Accident Thought Fatal.
By H. C. Hamilton.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Dave Davenport, burly pitcher of the Browns, is wearing a Brownie uniform today to the surprise of several hundred thousand fans, who expected to mourn the death of one of the game's greatest iron men, when they read that he had dropped a gun and received a wound in his huge frame above the waist.
Perfect physical condition probably has helped him out considerably, for he declared a few days ago that he would be ready to help Fielder Jones' team this year just as much as ever.

That statement is probably stretching it a little, for there are few men who can receive the wound that Davenport did and live to tell about it. He can hardly be just as good as ever.
Davenport is weak and he walks with a limp, but the news that he was going to take a whirl at baseball again this summer was considerably encouraging to the Browns.
It is possible Davenport will carry the marks of his accident all his life. He can't move his body in the long, swinging motion essential to pitching. He can't open his mouth to its full extent because he received part of the charge of shot in his chin. Outside of that he's nearly all right. The wound didn't hurt his heart any. The grit that carried him through a double-header last summer is still there. If he can pitch with anything like his former form the Browns will be much more dangerous than anyone has expected.

ST. PAUL WOMEN TO DO WORK ON FARM
(By United Press to the Bend Bulletin)
ST. PAUL, Minn., April 21.—Two St. Paul women have answered the call of Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, for a million women to solve the problem of helping to feed America and her allies by volunteering for farm work.
They are Miss Ruth Hillman, who developed a 27,000 acre farm in Canada through her own hard work and ability, and Miss Edythe Jenks, who declares she has plowed, pitched hay and done all kinds of farm work.

Canadian women set an example for American women to follow when they went into the fields as their men left them to go to the front, Miss Hillman declared today.
Both offer their services in organizing a "back to the soil" movement among the women of the northwest.

RESCUES GERMANS; FORFEITS OWN LIFE

(By United Press to the Bend Bulletin)
PARIS, April 21.—The written testimony of two German prisoners of war is on record here today to show the heroism of a French under officer who saved them from certain death. The latter is dead.
The two prisoners, Alfred Wendt, of Berlin, former officer of the German steamer Wallo, and Edmond Tugles, Frankfurt, marine machinician, were aboard the French steamer "Athos," on route for France, when the latter was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, on February 17. They were locked in a cabin on the lower deck. When they had given themselves up for lost, the door of their cabin opened suddenly and the under officer, who had made his way to their prison with the greatest difficulty, guided them to the safety of the upper deck. They were put in a boat and escaped. The under officer remained on board the sinking ship helping save the others and was lost.
It was on the "Athos" that Robert A. Haddon, an American missionary, returning from Foochow, China, was lost.

GOOD ROAD SIDELIGHTS

A dollar's worth of road for a dollar's worth of expenditure is assured at the hands of the State Highway Commission which is charged with disbursing the funds raised from the proposed $5,000,000 good roads bonds.

The question involved in the proposed issue of $5,000,000 road bonds is simply this: Do the people of Oregon desire to approve and inaugurate a comprehensive system of state-wide highway development. If the bond issue is approved, taxes will not be increased one cent on that account. Both the principal and the interest on the bonds will be paid from the fund created by doubling the automobile license and adding thereto the quarter of a mill state road tax already provided.

In the last ten years approximately $40,000,000 has been expended on roads in this state. What is there to show for it? Support the $5,000,000 bond issue on June 4th and let's take up road building on a practical and comprehensive basis.

Friends of good roads who desire to assist in the campaign for the $5,000,000 bond issue can do so by forwarding subscriptions to Bruce Dennis, Executive Secretary, at Good Roads Headquarters, 310-311 Selling Building, Portland, Oregon. The members of the campaign committee have refused contributions from paying concerns and are relying entirely on free will offerings from good roads enthusiasts to meet the expenses of the vigorous campaign that has been outlined in behalf of the road bond bill.

If the $5,000,000 bond issue and the highways designated therein are approved, comprehensive provision for construction of highways will have been provided. Road construction will have been standardized; Federal aid and co-operation secured; the cost of efficient engineering will have been minimized; co-operation between State, Government and counties, together with genuine competitive bidding for construction will have become a reality. The acquirement of funds for road construction at a low rate of interest and a method of paying both interest and principal of state bonds out of current revenues already imposed will also have been secured, and this without additional tax burden and with proper safeguards to the general taxpayer.

The Highway Commission has gone on record on this score. Unless contractors are reasonable in their bids, the Commission has announced that it will install a paving plant and go into the paving business itself.

War Financing

Inventory of the nation's assets for preparedness has disclosed only one satisfactory item.
The financial system is competent and the banks are ready.
There are no soldiers, but there is great wealth.
There is a shortage of guns, but a surplus of dollars.
Ships must be built in the navy, but the banks are in commission.
THE MILITARY SYSTEM MUST BE RECONSTRUCTED, BUT THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM IS WORKING.
Men must be trained for the army, but the men who handle finances are already skilled.
THIS BANK IS A MEMBER OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM.
