La Sarranita, Spanish Dansuese, at the Liberty Theatre tonight and Sunday.

about 40 minutes, is given in addition to the usual run of pictures.

The picture for tonight is "A Girl's Folly," in which Robert Warwick and Doris Kenyon do something entirely different from anything that any picture actors have ever done in "A Girl's Folly." In this newest World Picture Brady-Made, they take the parts of motion picture actors. This is the first time that a film feature has been woven about the romance of a motion picture studio and the result is a big success which every film fan in the entire country will wish to see. It is a picture that can be unqualifiedly recommended as being utterly different from the ordinary run of pictures and as containing a delightful and thrilling story which will grip the attention of all beholders.

The Sunday photoplay is one of the strongest and most inspiring photodramas ever presented to the Paramount patrons. In it Kathryn Williams appears in the Oliver Morosco production of Maud E. Corsan's story, "Out of the Wreck," a story taken from a page of real life and written especially for Miss Williams. The story is one especially appealing to women and children, and might be entitled "The Memories of the Forget-Me-Nots," as the influence of this tender flower guides the destiny of the girl in the picture. "Out of the Wreck" will be repeated on Monday night, but without the Spanish entertainers, who complete their engagement with the Sunday night performance.

Grand Theatre.

This is the night that all of the children should see the pictures at the Grand Theatre. First, there is the "Modern Mother Goose" picture, with over a hundred children to make the picture as a Mother Goose picture should be. Then there is Charles Chaplin in "The Immigrant." Every one knows Charlie, but there are a lot of new stunts in this picture that make it different from the average comic picture. These two pictures are also shown Sunday afternoon. Sunday night there is "The Scarlet Letter." The picture is a dramatization of the novel by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and all who have ever read the book will want to see the film drama. The story is based on one of the old New England laws, which was enacted in Plymouth in 1658. The law says:

"It is enacted by the Court and the Authorities thereof that whosoever shall commit Adultery shall be severely whipped, two several times, viz: Once while the Court is in being at which they are convicted of the fact, and the second time as the Court shall order, and likewise were two Capital letters, viz: A. D. cut out in cloth and sewed on their uppermost garments on their arms or backs; and if at any time they shall be taken without said letters, whiles they are in the Govtment see, worne, to be forthwith Taken and publicly whipt."

Liberty Theatre.

The Bend theatre-goers who attended the Liberty Theatre last night were certainly given a treat in the presentation of the Spanish Troubadours, who appearing in a revue of Spanish songs, music and native dances. They are a company of artists worthy of much more than passing mention. Of particular note is Nello Villa, the Spanish Caruso, whose singing alone is an evening's entertainment. He was followed by Varda, the Egyptian dancer, in a beautiful barefoot dance of the Nile. Carlos Haro with his violin, spoke in a language that was more universally understood than that of the Spanish tongue and was more than well received, although every number was liberally applauded. Their artistic work will be long remembered by those who see them.

It is announced that they will appear again tonight and Sunday night, as well as at the Sunday matinee, with a complete change of numbers each time. The act, which occupies
