UNIONS' SECRETARY QUESTIONS SPOKANE

P. H. Pierson, of Bend Central Council Endeavors to Ascertain if Labor Will Aid I. W. W.

PORTLAND, Aug. 24.—Portland organized labor has repudiated the reported stand of the Spokane unions in sympathy with the demands of the I. W. W. for the release of imprisoned members of the organization. President Howard discourages any agitation sympathetic to I. W. W. activities.

The following telegram has been sent from Bend:

"Bend, Ore., Aug. 23.—A. J. Germain, Pres. Central Labor Council, Spokane, Washington: Does Union Labor of Spokane intend to strike for I. W. W. Answer. P. H. PIERSON, "Sec. Central Labor Council."

Mr. Pierson states that local organized labor is entirely out of sympathy with any such strike as is reported from Spokane, and that the American Federation is absolutely opposed to such action.

PLEADS GUILTY TO CATTLE SHOOTING

Albert E. Stevens Decides Not to Fight Case, and is Let Off With Payment of $10 Fine.

Albert E. Stevens, of Bend, defendant in the action brought on the complaint of Andrew E. Nirschel, charging the shooting of cattle, changed his plea to guilty and is at liberty today after paying a $10 fine. Stevens was at first inclined to fight the case, but later entered a plea of guilty in order to secure a light penalty.

Stevens was alleged to have shot three of Nirschel's cattle which had strayed on his homestead some 60 miles from here on the Bend-Burns road.

CATCHES BIG TROUT

One of the largest trout taken from the Deschutes in this vicinity this year was caught yesterday by T. O. Grinstead, of Bend, just above the Tumalo bridge. The fish was 19 inches long and weighed three pounds. To say that Mr. Grinstead was pleased at his luck would be putting it mildly.

FRY AT HATCHERY MAKING PROGRESS

Distribution From Bend Will Be Made Next Month—Season Favorable for Rainbows.

The 350,000 Rainbow trout fry at the Bend hatchery are progressing finely, says Pearl Lynes, who has charge of the hatchery in the employ of the State Fish and Game Commission. Commencing next month the fry will be distributed and an effort will be made to scatter them as widely as possible and place them where they are especially needed.

The fry at present are from an inch and a half to two inches long. This year the Rainbow seem to be doing better than ever before, and there have been but slight losses. The only great danger comes from the nature of the ponds, which will have to be lined with concrete before they will be absolutely safe.

The recent heavy rain, reports Mr. Lynes, washed out the road leading to the hatchery, so that until it is repaired autos can not be driven in. The eggs from which the local fry were hatched came from Odell Lake and doubtless some of the fry will be planted there. However, already 40,000 fry have been put in the lake this season, from the car which was distributed from Bend some time ago. This carload came from the main hatchery at Bonneville.

Vera liked Jack, but she liked him more as a son than as a husband. She could have mothered him without a fortune; but to have married him without it seemed criminal to her. She decided to save Jack from certain ruin.

In league with Casey (Cecil Holland), Vera contrived to abstract Jack's funds from the bank. He had recently thrown a hundred thousand away; he had invested in a toy submarine which did nothing but whirl about like a top, and never thought of getting to England in eight hours, as its inventor claimed it would do.

Casey was a handwriting expert he said; perhaps in the old days he had been a forger. Nobody was exactly certain about his past, except Casey himself; and even he had misgivings.

When Casey and Vera got Jack's $600,000 from the bank, where he had it stored, they wrote a letter to all his friends saying he had gone to Europe. Then they put his money away until such time as Vera deemed he would be worthy to get it back. Meanwhile Jack returned to town.

AT THE MOVIES

Grand Theatre.

The story of a man saved from himself is the story of "Melting Millions." George Walsh, who plays the star role, outdoes the high standard of good work he has been doing for William Fox pictures; and Anna Luther, the winsome and charming heroine, is more winsome and charming than ever.

Just because Jack Balentine had money he thought that he had to spend it. The mere fact that his father (Sidney Deane) had left him about a million dollars was incentive enough to his spendthrift powers. He did his utmost to show himself unworthy of his legacy.

In leaving the money, Jack's father had also left something else, Vera Morton (Velma Whitman), a widow, to whom old Balentine had given minute instructions. She was to consider herself officially engaged to Jack; and she was to marry him and his money at such time as she considered him worthy.

after a long and interesting stay at the country house of old Billon (Frank Alexander). But friends in the city spurned him. The real Jack Balentine had gone to Europe they said, and this one was only a rank imposter. Then it was up to Jack to prove who he was. Yes, he proved, but the method of proving it came near being costly, not in dollars but in another way. It is all told at the Grand Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Liberty Theatre.

Douglas Fairbanks in a Fairbanks comedy produced by the Fairbanks company in typical Fairbanks style is what the Liberty Theatre will offer as its big attraction Sunday matinee and night and Monday, when "In Again, Out Again" makes its appearance here. "Doug" is known to be the best medium for the removal of wrinkles the country has ever known, which means that he is a tonic for young and old alike. His latest screen effort, the first Fairbanks release of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, is 50 reels of joy boiled down into six.
