

At the Liberty Theatre, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE MOVIES

Grand Theatre.

In the east you've probably heard of how they pay for street car rides with onions and get into movies with potatoes and similar garden products since the cost of living has gone up. But that hasn't come to Bend, yet—at least it will not have until tomorrow afternoon. Saturday, for the first time, mother can get out her large cretonne shopping bag which she received for Christmas, fill it up with spuds and take the children to the show.

The Grand Theatre is putting on a special children's matinee tomorrow afternoon, with the admission price set at one large potato. The child presenting the largest one will receive 10 matinee tickets as a prize.

Little Mary McAllister, the six-year-old child, who is already an accomplished screen actress, will be shown in a two-reel feature, "Do Children Count?" This is one of a series of patriotic plays designed to encourage recruiting. In addition to this, a one-reel "Katzenjammer Kids" comedy and a scenic picture will complete the bill. Tomorrow night and Sunday matinee Frederick Warde will be seen in "Hinton's Double."

Grand Theatre.

From Washington to Wilson, all of the Presidents of the United States were shown at the Grand Theatre last night. They will be there again tonight in pictures, every one of them with a brief sketch of the notable events of the life of each of them. Then there are more war pictures, showing the devastation that was left in reconquered France after the so-called "strategic" retreat of the Germans earlier this summer. The other pictures depict home scenes in the training camps, the boys over there and the troops from the front that have returned to help with the recruiting.

The special feature is the drama, "Her Secret," with Alice Joyce and Harry Morey leading. How we repay for our sins is strongly portrayed in this thrilling story of what some call Fate, others speak of as Nature's Law of Compensation, but what few, if any, dare deny, in some power, some all-seeing force that pays us back measure for measure for the sins we do. See how one man harvested in the very sanctity of his home, the seeds of the sin he had sowed years before.

JUMBLE CONCERT TONIGHT AT CLUB

Lyric School to Make First Appearance in Entertainment, Directed by Mrs. L. L. Holloway.

"The Jumble Concert," as Mrs. L. L. Holloway has named her musical evening, will take place tonight at the Emblem Club rooms and will present for the first time the Lyric school children's orchestra. A variety of numbers will be offered, including folk dancing, a chorus, club swinging, piano and orchestra selections and a harmony competition for which prizes are to be offered.

Between 30 and 40 children compose the orchestra, many of them tiny tots. Only two have had more than six months' training. The violin is the most popular musical instrument among them, but the group also boasts two mandolins.

Another feature of the entertainment will be the original selections by the Misses Florence and Evelyn Holloway, who have composed both songs and instrumental pieces.

- The program is as follows:
1. Prologue—Violin selections by the Misses Holloway.
 - a. "The Merry Hunter,"
 - b. "Cricket and the Grasshopper."
 2. "Grandpa's Farm Waltz," orchestra.
 3. Scales in C, G and D major, orchestra.
 4. "Flag Song," lyric students.
 5. Piano and violin selections by beginners on the piano, accompanied by William Nelson on violin.
 6. "Nelly Bly," orchestra.
 7. Competitions in elementary harmony and ear training.
 8. "The Village Fiddler," Misses Holloway, on violin and piano.
 9. Original compositions—a. "From Morn Till Eve," Evelyn Holloway; b. "The Butterflies," Florence Holloway; c. "Falling Snow Waltz."
 10. Exercises on F and G strings, orchestra.
 11. Club swinging, Misses Holloway.
 12. "Jolly Game," orchestra seniors.
 13. Folk Dancing, Mary Logan, Mammie Erickson, Helen Wooley, Edna Fox and Florence Holloway.
 14. "In the Boat," orchestra seniors.
