SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1917

What have you done today to help win the war?

To save food the housewife must learn to plan economical and properly balanced meals, which, while nourishing each member of the family properly, do not encourage over-eating or offer excessive and wasteful variety. It is her duty to use all effective methods to protect food from spoilage by heat, dirt, mice, or insects.—The Secretary of Agriculture.

MILK.

Here's another saving suggestion from the Department of Agriculture: "Half a cup of milk—whole, skimmed, or sour—a seemingly trifling matter—hardly worth the trouble to keep or use.

"In many house holds quite a little milk is wasted—left uncovered in glasses—regarded as useless because the cream has been skimmed off—allowed to sour—poured down the sink or thrown out.

"Now, if every home—there are 20,000,000 of them—should waste on the average one-half cup daily, it would mean a waste of 2,500,000 quarts daily—912,500 quarts a year—the total product of more than 400,000 cows.

"It takes a lot of grass and grain to make that much milk—and an army of people to produce and deliver it.

"But every household doesn't waste a half cup of milk a day? Well, say that one-half cup is wasted in only one out of a hundred homes. Still intolerable—when milk is so nutritious—when skim milk can be used in making nutritious soups and cereal dishes—when sour milk can be used in bread making or for cottage cheese."

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR MOOSE CARNIVAL

Annual Jubilation Will Be Even Better Than Last Year Is Promise—Details Being Completed.

Plans are being rapidly formulated for the second annual Moose Carnival to be held in the Hippodrome next month under the auspices of the local Moose lodge, and preparations indicate that this year's event will be even more successful than that staged last December.

Committees are hard at work preparing programs, arranging stunts and securing prizes to be drawn by patrons of the Carnival, and details concerning the entertainment to be given will be made public within a short time. A number of the chief features, however, will be kept secret to be turned loose as surprises to the public, when the doors of the Hippodrome are thrown open.

RAISING THE CENTER SPAN OF THE GREAT QUEBEC BRIDGE

One year after the fatal accident at the Big Quebec bridge another attempt to raise into place the center span that fell was made, and it was successful. The span is 122 feet above the St. Lawrence river. It is 640 feet long and was brought down the river to the bridge site on pontoons. It was suspended from the opposite ends of the bridge by chains and raised into place by powerful jacks.

PROCLAMATION

Salem, Oregon, October 10, 1917.

Whereas, the American people have set themselves the task of raising a second Liberty Loan of from three to five billion dollars. Twentieth century war requires vast sums of money. The requirements are far beyond what the wealthiest country can raise by taxation. The great nations of Europe have been at war for three years. They have floated loan after loan successfully. It is unthinkable that this country should fail with its second loan, six months after the declaration of war; and

Whereas, failure to provide the necessary money would mean failure properly to provision and equip our troops. An army insufficiently equipped and supplied is led to unavailing slaughter. We owe to those who are to do the fighting to stand behind them loyally, to give them everything which will add to their efficiency and bring nearer the day of victory. Let us not fight this war half-heartedly, with one hand behind our backs. Let us fight it manfully in a manner worthy the best traditions of the Republic; and

Whereas, Oregon's share of the fund required is sixteen and a half to twenty-four million dollars. This is a sum too large to be raised without the cooperation of the whole people. Every Oregonian with an income should consider it a duty and a privilege to purchase one or more bonds, in proportion to his means. The government asks us not to contribute, but to invest. There is no safer investment in the world than a loan to the United States;

Now, Therefore, by virtue of the authority in me vested, as Governor of the State of Oregon, I, James Withycombe, Governor, do hereby proclaim the week of October 14 to 20, 1917, as Patriotic Week. Oregon has thus far responded to every appeal. We have given the flower of our young manhood. Let us not be a sordid people. Let us not place greater store by our money than by our men. If our people can only be aroused to the necessities of the situation, we cannot fail to have the cooperation which will spell success.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the State of Oregon to be hereunto affixed, this 10th day of October, A. D., 1917. JAMES WITHYCOMBE, Governor.

AT THE MOVIES

Liberty Theatre.

To you remember Little Hal, the son of "The Squaw Man"? Well, Hal is a young man now and will appear at the Liberty Theatre Sunday night and Monday. The picture, "The Squaw Man's Son."

Lord Effington, the little Hal of "The Squaw Man," has left his estates and his wife in England and is chief of the Indian police on a western reservation. He has deserted his wife because she is addicted to the use of morphine. She has fallen in love with young Lord Yester. David Ladd, the Indian agent and also secret representative for the asphalt trust, has discovered asphalt on the reservation. Hal made the survey and knows the asphalt belongs to the Indians. Ladd and the Indian medicine man, as well as Hal, are in love with Wah-na-gi. Ladd gives Hal fifteen thousand dollar's worth of asphalt stock, but Hal exposes the plan to the Indians and for a time the trust is halted.

Hal is called back to England and leaves the stock with John McCloud the agency missionary, to be turned over to the department of justice. McCloud is taken ill and is at the point of death when Appah comes in to steal Wah-na-gi. McCloud raises himself and kills the Indian. Hal is about to return when he discovers his wife is a morphine fiend and he decides to remain and care for her although he has agreed to divorce her so that she can marry Lord Yester. The department of justice persuades him to return and assist in the prosecution of the asphalt trust. He reaches the ranch on Xmas eve just in time to stop Ladd from stealing the stock from the dead missionary's effects. He tells Wah-na-gi of his love for her but that he must go back to England. She goes out into the snow to kill herself by the grave of Nat-u-rich, Hal's Indian mother who killed herself for his father. Hal receives a message that his wife has taken an overdose of morphine and he is free to marry the Indian girl.

Grand Theatre.

Just what is "Within the Law?" We all know that it is the name of a play to be shown at the Grand Theatre in a short time, but the big question, the one that is answered in the play, is just what can a person do and still be "within the law." This stellar picture which features Alice Joyce and Harry Morey, has perhaps created more impressions than any other picture presented within recent years. The oft-asked question, "How does he do it and keep out of jail?" is answered in this picture.

Tonight and tomorrow afternoon is shown "The Candy Girl," a delightful confection that goes well with the make, Mr. Stanton offered the star the opportunity of playing a double two reels of comedy, "Hing Bang." In the comedy, Chas. Conklin, whose chief claim to distinction consists in doing the unusual at unusual times.

"The Millennium has come! An actress has been found who does not try to take the whole and complete glory of a picture unto herself! She is Gladys Brockwell, William Fox star and she has unreservedly thrown aside a chance to assume unto herself an entire photoplay. What is more, she has done this merely because she thought it would better this production. When Richard Stanton and Miss Brockwell chose "Her Temptation," which is to be shown at the Grand Sunday night and Monday, as the next picture they would role. She would have the part she now plays, that of Shirley, and role of the sister, Helen. After a careful study of the scenario, Miss Brockwell announced that she would be content with only one of the characters.

"I believe it would spoil the drama if I did both parts," she said. "There seems to be no inherent reason why the two sisters should so closely resemble each other. Double characterizations always require a greater amount of brain-work on the part of the audience, and the object of the motion picture is to entertain."
