

LAWRENCE AGENCY INVOLVED IN STRIKES

(By United Press to the news bulletin) SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 18.—Affidavits from 10 workmen asserting that the Lawrence Labor agency induced them to go to Astoria to work in shipyards under the representation that no strike existed there, will probably be introduced as evidence against Lawrence in his hearing before the city commissioners.

Efforts are being made to force Lawrence to pay about $1000 to 20 men said to have been sent off to Astoria under misrepresentation. Several of the men are here to testify against him. They assert that Lawrence was gathering strikebreakers for the Astoria yards.

The commissioners may revoke his license if charges against him are proved.

TWELVE DEGREES IS LAST NIGHT'S COLD

Bend's temperature again sank to a low mark last night, although not reaching the extreme cold of the night before. Twelve degrees above zero was recorded last night, two degrees warmer than on the previous night.

MRS. J. KENDALL

Mrs. J. Kendall, a prominent New York woman, in the garb she will wear in France, where she will direct a small army of chauffeurs engaged in transporting portable hangars to be used by American aviators in France. The work will be done under the supervision of the National League for Women's Service.

An Automatic Payteller.

A machine that indicates the amount due in every man's pay envelope the instant it is wanted is among the latest office devices. This machine, it is said, gives the products of payrolls and distributes job costs in far less time than the most expert clerk can deduct them by pencil and pad. A twist of the wrist gives the product of the most involved payroll fractions—whatever the rate per hour for the hours worked may be. Perhaps most remarkable of all is the fact that the machine does not compute products; instead, it has 18,340 computed products which cover all conventional payroll figures. The machine occupies little space and is compact and portable.

Teaching by Example.

An item running the rounds states how tame elephants are used in India to capture wild ones. California has a "diving horse" that is used to encourage other horses to leap from a high platform into a tank. The animals that are in training watch their "teacher" make several plunges from a platform 30 feet high; they are then made to leap from a platform 15 feet high; after a few trials they seem to lose their fear and make the leap from different heights without hesitation. This all shows how things can be taught by example.

AT THE MOVIES

Liberty Theatre.

Vivian Martin, the dainty little actress who made such a pronounced success in "The Wax Model," "The Right Direction," and "The Spirit of Romance," will be seen at the Liberty Theatre on Thursday and Friday, supported by Jack Pickford, in the Lasky-Paramount production of "The Girl at Home." This is a typical boy and girl story. It reminds the older persons in the audience of experiences in their own youthful career and it brings surprising revelations to many of the younger generation. No two stars in the country are better equipped to appear in photodramas of this nature than the young couple whose names are seen at the head of the program. The story of "The Girl at Home" has to do with Jean Hilton, the wealthy ward of Squire Padgate, who lives with the mother of Jimmie Dexter. The boy and girl are in love and Jimmie is preparing for college when his mother learns that her small income is wiped out. Jean is permitted to defray Jimmie's expenses without his knowledge.

Jimmie falls in with a fast set of older boys and becomes infatuated with Diana Parish, a cabaret singer. Diana, thinking he is wealthy, pays considerable attention to him. Back home, Jimmie's mother and Jean are depriving themselves of all luxuries that Jimmie may finish college. Squire Padgate sees Jimmie and gives him a good scolding. Jimmie promises to do better and next morning banks his check for $200 which his mother has sent him as his monthly allowance. Diana thinks it is his weekly allowance. She sees a set of furs and decides to purchase them, getting the money from her boy friends. Jimmie gives her a check for $35 which she raises to $350. How affairs are finally straightened out and Jimmie is made to realize that he must earn his own way is brought about in the most graphic and appealing manner, and must naturally be seen to be appreciated and enjoyed.

Grand Theatre.

Probably no picture within recent time has attracted so much attention as "Within the Law," the picture to be shown at the Grand Theatre this coming week. Alice Joyce and Harry Morey are the leading lights in this drama. As the story goes, Mary Turner, a salesgirl in Gilder's department store, is sent to prison for a theft committed by Helen Morris, another salesgirl. Begging for mercy which is refused by Gilder, Mary vows to get even. While in prison, Mary spends most of her time reading law. She also makes the acquaintance of Aggie Lynch, and later when they are both released, accompanies Aggie and Joe Garson to New York where she is invited to join the gang consisting of Chicago Red, English Eddie, Tom Dacey, Joe Garson and Aggie. She refuses, however, saying she wishes to keep straight. Unable to get work as time goes on, she becomes discouraged and finally decides to end it all. Joe Garson, however, sees her and rescues her. She refuses to "go outside the law" and join the gang. Finally, through a land deal, she is able to make money and still keep within the law. She makes enough money to take an apartment in Gramercy Park, where she with Aggie and Joe Garson, keep "Within the Law." Her chance for vengeance comes when she makes the acquaintance of Dick Gilder, son of the man who convicted her. She leads him on until, fired with love for her, he proposes and wins her to marry him. Upon Gilder Sr.'s offer to pay her to leave the city, she defiantly refuses and remains. Burke, the inspector, friend of Gilder, decides to plant something on her and the gang, and with the help of English Eddie, who has turned stool pigeon, almost succeeds—but for the interference of Dick. The action includes the killing of English Eddie by Joe Garson, the discovery of the body by Burke, Dick's announcement that he killed him, the gang's capture and finally Joe Garson's confession—also the clearing of Mary's name and a happy reconciliation for her and Dick.

Sunday night and Monday, "The Derelict" will be shown at the Grand. "The Derelict" is Stuart Holmes. He took the character of that man to heart and put a touch of sympathy in a life where most would have put only coldness.

Supporting Holmes, as Teddy Brant, is a cast of rare ability. Mary Martin plays the leading feminine role, the wife, a woman of refinement, who is humiliated and disgraced by a husband who abandons her for a fleeting flame. Miss Martin puts into this character that sincerity which has charmed every spectator of her work.

June Daye, the woman in the case, is new with Fox productions. She pictures a new type of siren woman. The role of the friend, who much against his will introduces the man about town to the charming debutante, thus causing all the trouble and sorrow of the drama, is portrayed by Carl Eckstrom. And Dan Mason, without a peer as a character actor, plays the humble but picturesque Walt Collins, a "bum."

Olive Trevor and Wanda Pett complete the cast. The latter girl is new to filmdom and steps from her little sphere of amateur theatricals into a highly dramatic role without any previous experience even on the stage.
