AT THE MOVIES

Grand Theatre.

Stuart Holmes appears in an entirely new sort of role in "The Broadway Sport," his next William Fox photoplay, which will be shown at the Grand Theatre on Thursday and Friday. Mr. Holmes plays the role of Hezekiah Dill, an awkward, bespectacled gawk, employed as a clerk in the flour mill of the local magnate. An old maid employed in the office loves him but he spurns her for a hopeless ambition to wed the boss's daughter, the village belle (Wanda Pett).

While working late in the mill one night Dill catches two yeggs at work at the safe. The door is open and he tumbles them into the vault and locks the door. He then summons the boss and the police, after putting the money which the crooks had taken out of the safe into a vacuum cleaner.

In his fancy Dill imagines himself in New York with the money, and never did anyone set the pace he pictures. The boss's arrival with the sheriff ends Dill's reverie. His daughter is with him. Dill takes the money out of the vacuum cleaner and hands it to his boss. The daughter embraces him and hails him as her hero. Dill smiles for the first time in his hounded life.

Suppose that in all innocence you had fallen in love with a woman, only to discover she was tied by unbreakable bonds to an inhuman brute. See Jack Gardner in "Open Places," the five-part photoplay, at the Grand tonight and Wednesday.

Liberty Theatre.

"The Law of the Land," an adaptation of a famous stage success by George Broadhurst, has furnished Madame Petrova, famous Russian emotional actress, with a vehicle of far more than ordinary attraction.

The prologue shows Margaret Harding forced into a loveless marriage by a dissipated and unscrupulous mother, later becoming herself the mother of a boy upon whom she lavishes the affection of her love-starved heart.

Her husband, a cold and brutal man, delights in revenging himself for her coldness towards him by cruelty to the child, and after one especially brutal scene Margaret is driven like a wild animal at bay to tell him that the child is not his own, thereupon shooting him, hardly realizing her action, instantly killing him.

There is a prompt investigation by the authorities, during the course of which not only the servants, but Geoffrey Morton, an old sweetheart of Margaret's, who has been abroad since her marriage, unite in protecting her. A kindly and humanly-wise inspector is, fortunately for Margaret, assigned to the case, and after a few hours of heart-rending suspense he turns her tables, merely dismissing the case as "another death by accident," thus leaving Morton to take Margaret and the boy to a new and wonderful happiness.

Madame Petrova has made of the gentle character of Margaret one of the finest and most appealing characterizations of her entire successful career and the excellent cast supporting her as well as the expert direction of the well known Maurice Tourneur, have added much to the infinite charm of the production, which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre on Thursday and Friday.

George M. Cohan's reel for a happy entertainment as presented in his new Arcraft picture, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," at the Liberty Theatre soon, is an ideal prescription for the most morbid grouch. In his new film tonic, George M. has mixed with exact proportions, mystery, thrills and laughter, with a sweetening dash of love as a tribute to Cupid, all of which will work the desired result upon men, women and children alike.

BUYS 40-ACRE TRACT ON TUMALO PROJECT

The sale of a 40-acre tract of irrigated land on the Tumalo project, to Frank McMannon, of Ellensburg, Washington, was announced this morning by J. H. Miner, of this city. Mr. McMannon will move to his new property in the spring.

MAY TURN FISH OUT.

Although 60,000 more fish are still in the Deschutes hatchery waiting to be planted in East Lake, it is very probable that it will be impossible to transport them there this season on account of the deep snow. In that case it will be necessary to turn them into the Deschutes river. Fish planting at all other points has been completed.

WANT GOOD ROADS.

There will be a large sum spent on Central Oregon roads, beginning the year 1918. Why spend any of it on dirt-filled roads? Everyone knows it is money ill spent. Why not take advantage of Central Oregon's main asset for road building. Thus, hardpan near the surface for road foundation, small rock and gravel, usually plenty in top soil, to make 4 to 6 by 6 to 8-inch filling on hardpan, if sifted out of the dirt, then stamped and rolled. This, with a light coat of our famous cinders, would make ideal roads.

I have a plan by which this can be done in a single operation, (less the cinders). My plan will necessitate the construction of special machinery and will involve some money. Would like to correspond with those interested. Inquire by letter to Bend Bulletin. 305-10c one man here who wouldn't bathe more than about once every two weeks. One morning a bunch of us grabbed him just as he got out of his hammock and dragged him into the wash room. There we used a scrubbing brush and got him good and clean, and you can bet we didn't use hot water in the process. When we got through we rinsed him off with the salt water hose, then put him under the shower bath and turned the cold water on. Since that experience he wants to take a bath three times a week to make sure he has not forgotten the date.

CLEANLINESS IN PRINCIPAL CONCERN OF U. S. JACKIES

"The mothers of Norfolk gave a big banquet at the Y. M. C. A. tonight and invited every enlisted man who could come. They served hot coffee, doughnuts, sandwiches and a big red apple to each man. After that we had singing and speeches and were all taken back to our ship in automobiles.

"I expect to go across in the spring. Some of the boats are getting ready now but we won't be out of here for some time yet.

"I have been scrubbing front work and deck for the last three months but will be changed into the fire room the first of the month and I sure will be glad, as this business of scrubbing decks is no fun. But, then I have to take my turn the same as the other boys, and am not looking for favors. If I was, I would be out of luck, as this is one place you take what is coming to you and say you like it, and I do, for you bet we have a good old navy and we are just itching for a scrap."
