Committee Will Collect Fund For Gifts to Soldiers—Pythians Attend Lodge at Redmond.

(Special to The Bulletin.)
LOWER BRIDGE, Dec. 6.—At church Sunday, Mrs. A. Jaeger, Marlon Hoskins and Mrs. R. S. Towne were appointed as the committee in charge of the Christmas entertainment. Mrs. C. F. Hoskins, Mrs. A. S. Holmes and Mrs. Fred Walters are the committee appointed to collect a fund for Christmas gifts for soldiers.

The Thanksgiving dinner at the school house was well attended. After a bounteous Thanksgiving dinner, a very enjoyable program by the school was given.

De Vedder is hauling lumber from the Wilson mill to build a new barn and an addition to the house.

The Hoskins entertained at cards Saturday evening. Mrs. Fred Walters, Sarah Nealeigh, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Chapman, Frank Chapman, Darwin Walters and Clarence Barron.

A. M. Jaeger was home over Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howard spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Deitrich, of Terrebonne.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howard spent Monday and Tuesday in Prineville, where Mr. Howard was having some dental work done.

Lois Towne spent the Thanksgiving vacation at home and had as her guest Miss Reynolds, of Redmond.

C. F. Hoskins, accompanied by George Cyrus, John Gotter and C. W. Cline, went to Bend Saturday on business concerning the proposed water district.

Max Wurzweller, from the Swamp ranch, was down at the Long Hollow ranch over Saturday and Sunday.

Sarah Nealeigh, who teaches at Prineville, spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. Russell Chapman.

Dennis Hunt was down from Bend on Tuesday.

A. J. Fuller, Glenn Cox and C. F. Hoskins attended K. of P. lodge in Redmond Tuesday evening.

L. A. Hunt, D. Vedder and Gus Stalig went to Redmond Saturday.

Grand Theatre.

"The Honor System," the ten reel feature to be shown at the Grand Theatre Sunday and Monday, is a picture of the grief of millions and is a throbbing drama of a thousand thrills. Its whole appeal is based upon the human emotions. This new William Fox production features George Walsh, Gladys Brockwell, Miriam Cooper and R. A. Walsh, and is, in the opinion of many critics, the best adapted of any plays to the particular playing of these people.

If bad comes to worse and Uncle Sam has to call on the girls of the land to give him a hand, Wanda Petit the little film player who is now appearing in "The Broadway Sport," to be shown at this theatre Thursday and Friday, is ready to do her bit as an auto or auto ambulance driver. Miss Petit is not only a skilled driver, but can also cure all of the minor automobile ills. Nothing would please her more, she says, than to put this skill at the nation's service. Miss Petit wouldn't like to be a nurse. There are plenty of other women who can perform this duty even better than she, but she does believe there must be a place somewhere for a girl chauffeur.

When unkind fate made "Sky High" Wardwell quit his job with a circus the daring showman took the means destiny afforded and found himself in the midst of a new adventure—with a pretty girl figuring in the future. "Sky High" interested himself in an aeroplane patent the girl's father had secured, promoted a company to manufacture them and proved his faith in the enterprise by going aloft as a demonstrator. "Sky High" landed safely on terra firma and folded to his breast the girl he loved, thus dropping into happiness and fortune. So runs the plot involved in "Flirting with Death," at the Grand Theatre on Saturday night

Liberty Theatre.

George M. Cohan, the popular stage favorite, in something entirely new and distinct in the way of a photoplay of unusual theme and construction, is announced as a forthcoming special attraction at the Liberty Theatre by Manager Coble for Sunday and Monday. George M.'s new screen vehicle is none other than his own well known stage hit "Seven Keys to Baldpate," founded on the story of that name by Earl Derr Biggers.

Heralded as a "mystery farce," it offers a combination of novel situations and surprises that keeps the audience guessing from beginning to end. Just when the course of the story seems clear, the clever author gives it a twist that discloses an entirely unexpected theme. At times it appears to be a farce of extreme humor when suddenly it takes a dramatic aspect that quickens the heartbeat, ending finally with a complete surprise that leaves the audience laughing not only at the play but at itself as well.

The originality of George M. Cohan and his wonderful ability to play upon the human side of the public's nature was never more definitely displayed than in this subject. The film adaptation of this, one of the Yankee Doodle Boy's greatest stage successes, should prove even a much more notable triumph on the screen, not only because the limitations of the stage are removed in its film presentations, but also because of the fact that inimitable George M. himself appears in the leading role which he created and which another actor portrayed in the original play.

Positive Signs.

Even some public signs come direct to the point. They do not waste any time in wondering how the reader will feel about it.

In a garage is posted:
"Don't smoke around the tank. If your life isn't worth anything, gasoline is!"

At the Liberty Theatre tonight and Friday.

As about three-fourths of those who have had dental work done in this locality are patrons of the King Bee Dentists, we take this method of asking you these questions. WOULD YOU, IF QUALIFIED TO RUN A LEGITIMATE BUSINESS, BE AFRAID OF STRAIGHT COMPETITION? Would you go to the extreme method of using a society, or board of directors, or similar organization to try to run a competitor out of business, just because this competitor was too strong for you? Or would you try harder to do by your patrons as well as your competitor?

On October 13, a complaint was sworn to by a dentist in Bend, Oregon, against the manager of the King Bee Dentists, asking that his license be revoked, for the sole reason, in complaint, that we employed a dentist as an assistant who was not registered in Oregon, though he was a man of 10 YEARS OR MORE EXPERIENCE IN AN EASTERN STATE. Now another question, we must ask ourselves: Why do the other dentists interest themselves to such an extent? Of course our manager caused to be published in the daily papers, July 28 and 30, in Bend, "As soon as we were informed that the law prohibited the employment of an assistant who was not registered," a notice that WE WOULD NOT EMPLOY OR HAVE ASSOCIATED WITH US ANY DENTISTS UNLESS THEY WERE DULY REGISTERED AND LICENSED MEN, as we are anxious to live up to the Dental Law explicitly. As we honor and live up to all laws, we hardly expected our neighbor dentists here in Bend, "EVEN THOUGH THEY DID NOT APPROVE OUR STRONG COMPETITION," would be able to try these methods to help them in monopolizing the dental business, by prohibiting competition. OUR PRICES, WE ACKNOWLEDGE, HAVE BEEN LOWER THAN IS CONSISTENT WITH DENTISTS, WHO ARE NOT QUALIFIED OR EQUIPPED TO TURN OUT HIGH CLASS WORK WITH EASE AND DISPATCH, AS IS DONE BY THE KING BEE DENTISTS.

We simply ask the public to patronize the dentists who they are satisfied can give the best service. As for our being loyal, law abiding citizens, ask our patrons how we conduct our office. Compare the hygienic conditions of our office with others. Our work shows for itself. Our manager has never turned down a solicitor for assistance for anything that is for public welfare. We spend our money legitimately, donating for public hospital, Liberty bonds, and donate to the Red Cross, first, last and all the time—twice what we are asked for. We have ample help in our office. ALL REGISTERED MEN, and we continue to run our office. Will we all of our work in repair without extra charges, as any honest dentist will. We do all work to the best of our ability, which 15 years of experience has taught us.

WE DO NOT CARE HOW MANY OTHER DENTISTS ARE HERE, WE ARE HERE TO STAY.
The Dental Board was not organized for the purpose of protecting dentist's business who was not proficient enough to compete with us. Our Dental Examining Board want only straight, honest work, honest advertising, "if any," and honest, lawful Registered Dentists. We are here to follow that path, and do not feel that we are to blame if other dentist cannot compete with us.

We are advised by the Dental Board that they would not take action against us at this time. Consequently if the dentists who find beyond their ability to do their work in as proficient a manner as the King Bee Dentists, may have to explain why this interest in the way we keep up our large patronage. The question arises, What constitutes a good citizen? What is best for the public? Just what is a good dentist—one who does little work—consequently little experience? Or one of years of experience, handling a large practice with words of experience and reasonable prices.
