America stands on the threshold of a great adventure and a great test. Adventure abroad, where our army is poised for a plunge into territory long held as German soil—a plunge through what must be the fowler of Germany's troops if the Kaiser is not at once to concede defeat.

A scorching test abroad—since our first American army, released from the tutelage of French and British war experts, must pit its own newly acquired skill against the Boche past-masters.

Glorious in the valor revealed at Cantigny and Chateau Thierry, secure in the strength of the millions of other Americans hurrying to the battle front, our army as impatiently as confidently awaits the issue.

America at home faces as great a challenge in the fourth Liberty loan, and as great a test.

The huge size of the loan—whether for six or eight billion dollars, it outstrips all precedent—thrills our imagination and rouses us to our most extreme efforts that it may be "put over" in the short time set.

A searching test—since it will reveal inexorably just how much in earnest America-at-home is in its desire to crush autocracy into the mud of this winter's battlefields.

Germany will laugh if more than the allotted three weeks is required to raise the minimum sum called for.

Germany will tremble at the news of an over-subscription in less time. The loan is not a large one when the huge resources of the United States, $250,000,000,000, are considered. The over-subscription of the fourth Liberty loan will require less than a fifth of the annual income of the country, now estimated at $50,000,000,000.

"HEARTS OF WORLD" IS A GREAT PICTURE

"Hearts of the World," the film masterpiece, appeared for the first time at the Liberty last night on its three days' engagement in this city.

Somewhere in France, with death on every side and ruthless German destruction in the air, David Wark Griffith produced "the sweetest love story ever told." Amid the real trenches (and Mr. Griffith was the first American to enter the front line trenches), through the smoke and fire of actual conflict the ingenuity and genius of the greatest master director in the world utilized the blood-soaked battlefields of France to unfold upon the motion picture screen the eternal and never-dying story of a great love which could not be destroyed.

And through the entire production, occupying three hours in the unfolding of the story, there moves the little genius, Master Ben. A little child of six years of age, so small that he appears little more than a babe in arms, acting hand in hand with such noted players as Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Robert Harron, Mrs. Gish, the mother of the two girls; Josephine Crowell, Kate Brice, Robert Anderson, George Fawcett, George A. Siegmann.

"Hearts of the World" demonstrates forcibly why the moving picture play has been placed upon the list of essentials in war industries. No man with a drop of fighting blood in his veins can witness this great play and not feel the emotion and desire to do his part in winning the war for democracy. No woman may look upon it without coming away with a clearer understanding of why Uncle Sam has asked her to give her son or husband in gaining the freedom of the world.

There is only one criticism. It has been stated that it is not a war picture. It is decidedly so, and the scenes of battle and carnage are at times gruesome, but they teach the lesson to all—the necessity of blotting out German militarism.

IRELAND RECRUITING IS STILL PERMITTED

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)
LONDON, Sept. 21.—Voluntary recruiting in Ireland has been extended until the 15th, as parliament does not convene until that date, thereby preventing the enforcement of conscription. So far 10,000 of the estimated available 50,000 have enlisted.

GUN PLAY CAUSES RANCHER'S ARREST

As the result of a neighborhood quarrel, in which guns were flashed and threats made, Gens Hasselburg was arrested by Sheriff S. E. Roberts last night and brought to this city, where he is being held on his own recognizance to appear before the justice of the peace. The quarrel occurred in the vicinity of the Hasselburg ranch southeast of the city.

AT THE MOVIES

GRAND.
THE GIRL WITH A SMILE IN HER EYES
A Toast to Jewel Carmen by John J. Gifford.

Here's to the girl with a smile in her eyes, Who isn't too dull and who isn't too wise, Who lightens your burdens and gladdens your path, Who gives you no cause for a moment of wrath, Who studies your virtues and faults through and through, Who helps you develop the best that's in you, Who isn't too slow and who isn't too fast, Who praises your future and pardons your past, Who sticks when all others seem deaf to your call, Who loves you and gathers you up when you fall, Who makes a good sweetheart, an excellent wife, An ideal mother—the best thing in life!

Jewel Carmen appears at the Grand in "Confession," Sunday and Monday.

In "Confession," Miss Jewel Carmen has one of the most powerful dramas of the screen. She will be seen in it at the Grand theatre next Sunday and Monday.

"Confession" seems to have been written especially for Miss Carmen's beauty and her sterling emotional powers. She begins as a bride, and the bridal dress and veil enhances her radiant loveliness. She and the bridegroom slip away from their guests. It is the beginning of their honeymoon and, as it happens, it is also the beginning of a series of events that whirl through to a tremendous climax.

own life but the girl's as well in the feat of bravado. The risk was not merely an imaginary one; the players actually took grave chances in the filming of the scene.

Frequently a fellow imagines he's a brave man when he's merely foolish.

Once, not many years ago, a young chap crawled along the entire front of a New York skyscraper on a three-inch ledge bordering the eighteenth floor. He wanted to show his sweetheart how brave he was, but it didn't work—he only frightened her half to death and she refused ever to speak to him again.

In "A Soul for Sale," the Jewel production featuring Dorothy Phillips and staged by Allen Holubar, which comes to the Grand theatre tonight, a rich, conceited little old chap attempts something of the same sort on a worth-while society girl in trying to persuade her to marry him, but the bland idiot not only risks his

"Carnation" Is Good News On the Busy Farm

"Carnation" to the hurried farmer—at this time of year especially—means freedom from the costly annoyance of caring for milk cows.

To his wife it is just as much a blessing, for it gives her exactly the quantity of fresh, sweet milk she needs whenever she needs it—and no straining to do, no pails and pans to scald and wash.

is "The Answer to the Milk Question" everywhere—in town and country. Carnation is most convenient because it is always ready—economical because there is no waste—and absolutely safe because it is sterilized. Remember, only pure cow's milk in every can.

The very next time you go to town get a couple of cases of Carnation from your grocer.
