BUDGETS.

Those of our readers who have been sufficiently interested in city matters to read what has been said in these columns concerning the financial condition of the city will remember frequent remarks as to the importance of a correct budget and a strict adherence in expenditures to the estimates made.

A city budget that meets most of these requirements is that of The Dalles, which has just come to our attention and is reprinted below for the benefit of all interested.

We urge a careful study of the figures below:

DALLES CITY BUDGET FOR 1919.

Notice of estimated expenses and proposed tax levy for Dalles City, Wasco county, Oregon, for the calendar year 1919.

Bonds Nos. 1 and 2, city hall refunding bonds, issued April, 1918, will become due in 1919, principal $1,000.00, and there is now money on hand in such fund to make payment of these bonds.

Dated this 6th day of December, 1918, by order of the common council passing the same as preliminary estimate at regular session on December 3, 1918.

D. L. CATES, Recorder of Dalles City.

STOCK MEETING AT TUMALO DRAWS MANY

O. E. Anderson was doing some surveying for W. H. Gray Tuesday. Miss Hilma Nelson entertained the following ladies Wednesday afternoon: Mrs. H. T. Mikkelsen, Mrs. W. H. Gray, Mrs. O. E. Anderson, Mrs. Catharine Johansen, Mrs. J. A. Choe, Miss Etta Chase, Mrs. John Edwards, Mrs. Carrie Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Peterson and Mrs. Ole Hanson.

IRRIGATION'S NEEDS NOTED

actment of this portion of the irrigation district law.

"Agricultural lands included within the limits of a municipality may now be included in an irrigation district.

"This amendment was deemed to be necessary on account of the large area of agricultural land which is included within the limits of some of the municipalities within or adjacent to the irrigation districts. The owners of these agricultural lands frequently desire to have the same irrigated and prior to the amendment it was not possible to include such lands in an irrigation district.

Unit Reclamation Possible.

"Provision has also been made for the reclamation of lands in irrigation district in units. Heretofore it was necessary that every acre of irrigable land in a district should be assessed the same as every other irrigable acre. This brought about a tendency to exclude land from the district which would increase the cost against the main body of land notwithstanding the fact that it might be entirely feasible to irrigate these lands at a higher cost. It will now be possible to include such of these lands in an irrigation district as a separate unit, and then assess them according to the cost of reclamation.

"Under the irrigation law as enacted in 1917 the district could not require construction bonds in excess of 25 per cent. of the amount of the contract. This was remedied by an amendment which now permits the district to require any bond that it sees fit, not less however, than 25 per cent. of the amount of the contract.

Tumalo Aid Ordered.

"The desert land board was authorized to enter into a contract for the reclamation of the Tumalo project and was authorized to increase the lien on the unsold land in the project to a sufficient extent to complete its reclamation, or, if it deems it feasible, it might reduce the amount to be paid to the state to the extent of the amount expended by the federal government, or any irrigation district in reclamation of the lands.

"The drainage district law was also amended in some important features so that it corresponds more closely to the irrigation district law and all question has been eliminated as to whether or not the obligation of the district was an individual or a community obligation. Heretofore, owing to a peculiar wording of the statute, it has been contended by some that the amount assessed against any particular tract was the obligation of that tract, and was not an obligation of the remainder of the lands in the district. This rendered the drainage district bonds somewhat objectionable and the statute was amended to cover this point.

District Law Aids. "Provision has also been made for the reclamation of lands in irrigation district in units. Heretofore it was necessary that every acre of irrigable land in a district should be assessed the same as every other irrigable acre. This brought about a tendency to exclude land from the district which would increase the cost against the main body of land notwithstanding the fact that it might be entirely feasible to irrigate these lands at a higher cost. It will now be possible to include such of these lands in an irrigation district as a separate unit, and then assess them according to the cost of reclamation.

"If the people approve the program which has been submitted by the legislature, undoubtedly Oregon will see great activity in reclamation of land in the next few years. When irrigation was reduced to a sound business basis by the enactment of our present excellent irrigation district law, it did much to change the then adverse sentiment against the reclamation and irrigation in particular. It would seem that Oregon has now the best opportunity in its history for substantial development and insofar as her statutes are concerned, as well as her possibilities for reclamation, Oregon is unsurpassed."

ONE of the queerest things about some people is that they will not follow GOOD ADVICE when they KNOW they OUGHT TO. Perhaps we are all more or less that way. All the wise men of all ages have urged their fellow beings to PUT AWAY SOMETHING for a RAINY DAY. Good old Benjamin Franklin's sayings on economy and saving alone ought to make a bank book holder of EVERY ONE. If you have DELAYED, suppose you act HONESTLY with YOURSELF RIGHT NOW.
