Reports from private steamship lines indicated that every vessel on the Atlantic and Gulf seaboard may have to remain in port unless adjustments are made in Washington today at a conference of union officials and the shipping board.
 The unionists are out for a $15 a month increase in wages and adjustments preventing the employment of Oriental labor. Officials of the Marine Engineers' association declared today that the engineers will not sail unless their demands are also met.
 The strike was actually called yesterday, but only one steamer was then unable to leave the pier. The walkout is reported to have reached almost general proportions today.

In a line with a suggestion made in a recent issue of The Bulletin, was the declaration made this morning by Mayor J. A. "The slight gain in power obtained by leaving the exhausts open is entirely insufficient to compensate for the extra noise," Mayor Eastes asserts.

Bolshevik methods of bombs and murder are receiving death blows in the United States, despite the fact that a reign of terror had been mapped out, to start with May day demonstrations. Left to right, they are: J. T. Creighton, special assistant attorney; Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, Francis P. Garvan and the famous detective, William J. Flynn of the department of justice.

H. Foley, manager of the Bend Water, Light & Power company. Twenty hydrants will be asked, but five will be held in reserve for future use. The installations desired it is believed will afford adequate fire protection for practically all parts of the city.
 Mr. Carlon will also recommend the opening up of several streets which are now in such condition as to render the passing of the fire engine virtually impossible.
 After action by the council work will begin at once placing the hydrants. Two of these are already here and others will be ordered and put in as quickly as possible. The city will be put to no additional expense aside from paying the rental.
 Part of Bend's new fire equipment, including hose, arrived yesterday evening and the remainder of the shipment will arrive shortly.

RUSSIAN REDS HAVE BIG ARMY

SMALL BOLSHEVIK ELEMENT IN CONTROL OF IMMENSE FORCE—ARTILLERY LACK IS KEENLY FELT.

By Frank J. Taylor
 (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, July 11.—Creation of an enormous Red army, estimated by various authorities anywhere from two to four million men, under difficulties which have scarcely been equalled in history is a feat which the Bolsheviks have accomplished. The Russian Red army is a huge, effective force closely bound to the political organization of the Bolsheviks.
 The Bolsheviks have over-mobilized, in the opinion of many who are informed as to the actual situation. This is probably a means of preventing unemployment and discontent, though ultimately it makes Russia's economic situation more difficult.
 "The Bolsheviks feel confident that no outside army can take Moscow. For Petrograd they fear. Its fall would be a tremendous moral blow to Bolshevism. It is recognized by Bolshevik leaders, but they hold that the economic problem confronting them would be materially improved, since they would be relieved of the responsibility for feeding Petrograd.
 The problem confronting Field Marshal Trotsky is not manpower, but finding cannon and locomotives. Most of the soldiers have rifles, which they proudly display as American makes, but artillery to support the infantry is lacking. At present the Bolsheviks make up for the

YEAR OLD GIFT COMES TO LIGHT

LETTER WRITTEN JULY, 1918, OFFERING THREE LOTS TO RED CROSS IS RECEIVED—PROPERTY TO BE TURNED TO CASH.

A. Eastes, Mr. Linster's agent, was received this morning by T. H. Foley, of the Red Cross finance committee.
 The property given by Mr. Linster includes lots 1, 2 and 3, block 12, and the donation could not have come to the chapter at a more opportune time, Mr. Foley says, as the chapter is beginning to run just a little short of funds. The lots will be turned into cash within the very near future, he said.

TUMALO PLANS BIGGEST FAIR

WILL ADD LIVESTOCK DEPARTMENT.

Committee to Seek Appropriation from County Court, and Exhibits Will Be Asked from Every Rancher in District.

That the annual Tumalo fair will be bigger and better than ever in the history of the country was the determination expressed last night by a committee of the West Side Agricultural Fair association, meeting at Tumalo. Tentative arrangements were made for the exhibition of farm products, and it was decided that a committee should wait on the county court at the next session of the commissioners to ask for an appropriation to aid in staging the affair.
 While an effort will be made to have even a better agricultural display than usual, a special feature of the fair will be the livestock section, which will appear for the first time. Tumalo is well qualified to introduce the new department, it was pointed out, as there are now no less than 50 registered Shorthorns owned by the farmers of the section. Particular attention will also be paid to the poultry department, and an excellent showing in this line is expected.
 It is planned to have every farmer in the Tumalo district represented, and to accomplish this end a committee will be chosen to visit every family to solicit exhibits.
 Following the fair association, a meeting of the Tumalo Bull association was held. Two pedigreed sires are now the property of this organization.

Members of the fair board who were in attendance last night were: J. W. Brown, president; C. P. Becker, secretary; F. N. Wallace, John Marsh, J. C. Fish, Olaf Anderson, Harry McGuire, A. J. Harter, Charles Spaulh, James Griffin and E. M. Bayles.

PIONEER REMEMBERS BEND'S FIRST NAME

Was Originally "Farewell Bend," Then "The Bend," Says Prominent Harney Sheep Man.

Authentic testimony in the controversy concerning the derivation of Bend's name was given today by Rector Arnwine of Burns, prominent sheep man of Harney and Malheur counties. Twenty years ago, Mr. Arnwine was herding and ran his band of sheep where the city of Bend now stands. "We called it 'Farewell Bend' then," he said, "and later the first part of the name was dropped and it was known as 'The Bend.'" Still later, he explained, the name lost the article and became just "Bend." The name was derived originally, of course, from the turn in the river.

Mr. Arnwine recalled two trips which he made overland from Central Oregon to Chicago, driving sheep to the packing plants. He was making big wages then, he said, $60 a month.
