"PARTNERS 3"

She was cold to all love; she had worked in the cabarets too long to think that there was such a thing; until a real man from the Arizona desert came along; that's the big surprise in "Partners Three."

No better authority can be found for information on moving picture events than the Moving Picture World, which says about "The Red Lantern," featuring Nazimova: "In 'The Red Lantern,' Metro has turned out a photoplay which will challenge attention with any special production ever presented. The ability to reproduce a picture of China, to catch a breath of its exotic atmosphere, to invest its barbaric splendor, and to translate its mystic soul, so faithfully, spells a triumph of film art. It is a superior achievement—realized not only in the scope and magnitude of its lavish scenes, all of them conceived with painstaking care and accuracy, but in the graphic and logical development of its story and characterization.

To Nazimova, the star, and Capellani, the director, belong the credit for the success of the picture. The former, undertaking a dual role in which the characters are entirely different, displays the highest form of histrionism. Her performance is superb in its vividness, poignancy and sympathy. "Indeed, the star illuminates the character of the Eurasian (the Occidental impersonation doesn't figure largely) whose youthful love and pride direct her judgment to an inexorable tragic climax, with such depth of feeling and capacity for varied changes of mood that she aroused enthusiasm of the highest order. Her personality not only coincided with the character she portrayed—but she knew the type of the Eurasian, the girl whose mixed blood carried out the ancient poetic philosophy—'East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet'."

This marvelous production will be night, Saturday matinee and evening shown at the Grand theater Friday and Sunday matinee.

Tonight will be the last showing of Gladys Brockwell in the strong play, "The Forbidden Room."

LIBERTY.

Realism prevails in the production of "Partners Three," the latest Thomas H. Ince photoplay, featuring Enid Bennett, which comes to the Liberty theater Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

Much of the action of the story takes place on the great American desert, and to secure the proper setting Mr. Ince sent his director, Fred Niblo, and the entire company out on the desert for a week to shoot the locations. The players camped in tents out on the sand, amid cactus and sagebrush. Large cans of water were taken out in the commissary automobile, but before the scenes were finished it was necessary to send a machine back for a new supply.

Then, too, there's Fatty Arbuckle in "Love." Words fall to come when thinking of the big living dumpling in love.

ILL HEALTH CAUSE PROMPTING SUICIDE

Word was received today from Prineville of the death of B. A. Beckenstein, who committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a small caliber revolver. Ill health is believed to have prompted the act. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Rose of Prineville.

From "The Red Lantern," featuring Nazimova, at the Grand theater Friday, Saturday evening and Sunday matinee.

INSIST THAT YOU HAVE HOLSOM BREAD YOUR GROCER CARRIES IT! American Bakery

The high cost of deliveries is really a myth.

Lots of people have been telling you that all grocery deliveries are expensive. That they greatly increase the cost of your food.

That you ought to save this cost by carrying your groceries home.

On the contrary our customers find our delivery system really economical.

It doesn't add to the cost of their groceries and provisions.

It saves their time and energy--which they can more profitably devote to their homes or to various outside interests.
