PRESIDENT GROWS STEADILY BETTER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—President Wilson is much improved. It was learned unofficially today at the Whitehouse. His appetite is better, and he is very anxious to leave his bed.

Youthful Diplomacy.
 Little Roy and his cousin were sitting on an arm chair in rather close quarters, when Roy said: "Mary, there would be more room for me on this chair if one of us gets off."—Boston Transcript.

WORK BEGUN ON DESCHUTES BRIDGE

DESCHUTES, Oct. 8.—Work started last week on the road and bridge crossing the Deschutes River at the old Marsh Aubrey cabin, about three miles north of Tumalo. This will make a shorter haul for the products in the section north of Tumalo to the railroad by from about three to five miles.

We understand a new rural mail route out of Redmond will start Nov. 1st., coming up to within three miles of Deschutes post office, which will cut off several patrons of this office.

Mr. W. K. McCormick has a large band of fine sheep grazing on the desert just east of Deschutes and the herder reports that coyotes are very troublesome. Mr. McCormick loaded two cars of lambs for Chicago market Sunday evening.

The Central Oregon Irrigation Company during the past three weeks has sold nineteen 40-acre tracts of land.

Miss Florence Foster, who formerly taught the Deschutes school, writes her friends that she is now located at Treadwell, Alaska. Has a nice school and enjoys the novelty and beauty of the scenery. She has climbed several mountains and gone into a mine 2500 feet back under the channel. She states that they have every convenience and board is good.

Miss Hilga Holgreen has gone to Newport to visit her parents for a couple of months.

Mr. Fred Wolfflen of The Bend Bulletin was a caller at the Central Oregon Irrigation Company office last Tuesday, taking dinner at the hotel.

Mr. Jerry Schooling has purchased the J. S. Churchill place, which joins him on the north; consideration $1000.00. This will make a valuable addition to his place.

We understand that Mr. Frank Bayn, who has been suffering with rheumatism all summer is improving. We sincerely trust he will soon be fully recovered.

Mr. Howard Young and Mr. Alfred Hunnell came down from Bend Thursday afternoon to see Mr. Hunnell's aunt, Mrs. L. A. Brandenburg. Alfred seemed very glad to be home again, having just recently returned from Germany. He was in the big parade at Washington, D. C. on the arrival there of General Pershing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Starns were week end guests of Mr. F. S. Stanley, Mrs. Stearns having accompanied Mrs. John Ryan and daughter from Portland in Mrs. Ryan's car last Sunday.

A Portland potato buyer spent Friday in Deschutes vicinity, inspecting the potato fields, but did not contract for any potatoes. He seems to think that the market was very unsettled and that present prices would decline.

J. R. Benham, who graduated as Master Buckaroo under the tutelage of Marshall Auberry in 1874 and later as a Master Ford Skinner, has been at the wheel of the Tumalo stage for a few days while Wat Jones is off the run.

Our little Sunday school is again organized and we had a very nice attendance on the 5th, but we would like to have a larger attendance and we cordially invite everyone in our vicinity to come to Sunday school. It is a good place for grown ups as well as children, so we hope everyone will come. Sunday school begins at 11 a. m.

Mr. Pete Hardy of Redmond and Mr. Van Huettel of Bend were guests of Mr. F. S. Stanley for dinner Sunday.

WARNER CO. OBSERVES FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

The Warner Co. is five years old today and is celebrating the event with an anniversary sale. The Warner Co. was established in Bend in 1914 in the Bean building, having at that time a variety store. In the fall of 1915 the company began the erection of its present home on Wall Street and occupied it January 1, 1916. This year the Fair store was established and in August was sold to E. C. Eberly. The Warner Company has enjoyed a rapid growth and healthy patronage.

REAL WORK STARTS IN CONVENTION

of strikes and other forms of industrial strife he urged the solidification of the ranks of labor on the field of politics.

Shipwrights Seated

At the close of the second day of the convention, the State Federation of labor delegates got down to business last night when they voted to seat the representatives of Shipwright's local, No. 1026. The action was taken in direct opposition to the recommendation of the credentials committee, and followed a heated debate which lasted for more than three hours, and which might have continued much longer had it not been for a four minute gag rule imposed by common consent. Opposition to the seating of the shipwrights came chiefly from representatives of unions affiliated with the building trades council of Portland, and while the contest was interpreted by some as a test of the strength of the radical element, said to be represented by those favoring the seating of the delegates in question, the contest was robbed of its significance by the fact that the majority was only 12 votes, while a large number refused to take sides one way or the other.

Further Action Forecasted.

While voting to allow Local 1026 representation, President Otto Hartwig announced that he did so to expedite the business of the convention, and that executive board reserved the right to take special action in the event of instructions being received from national headquarters.

LABOR'S BILL OF RIGHTS IS ADDED TO LEAGUE COVENANT

mitted to any country, and their families, should be insured the same treatment as the nationals of that country.

"9. All states should institute a system of inspection, in which women should take part, in order to insure the enforcement of the law and regulation for the protection of the workers."

Seeks Wide Powers

Whether or not this general declaration shall be adopted by the powers signatory to the peace treaty, its formulation and recommendation by the International Commission indicates the extent of the programme which the civilized powers of the earth are invited to adopt. The Commission also adopted a resolution expressing the hope that as soon as possible an agreement should be arrived at between the high contracting parties with a view to endorsing the "International Labor Conference, under the auspices of the League of Nations, with power to take, under conditions to be determined, resolutions possessing the force of international law."

This proposal embodies the recommendation of the International Labor and Socialist Conferences held in London in August, 1917, and February, 1918. It is at variance of the general plan of the Covenant of the League of Nations, which carefully avoids any effort to erect a super-sovereignty over the nations, and confines itself to international agreements and their enforcement as the principal basis for the preservation of international peace.

Can Labor Conditions Be Standardized

Many of these recommendations for the improvement of labor will appeal at once to the favorable judgment of the world. How far the present unequal condition of development of the different countries composing the League of Nations will warrant the standardization of labor conditions proposed by this convention is a matter calling for careful examination. The project involves a novel effort of far-reaching consequence. In view of that novelty, it is to be regretted that the proposed convention should be made so extraordinarily difficult of amendment as is proposed. By its terms, any amendment must first be adopted by the conference by two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present; then ratified by the states whose representatives compose the Executive Council of the League of Nations and finally by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the Body of Delegates of the League. The plan as a whole undoubtedly will appeal to a large number of people. It will have the endorsement of organized labor in the United States, and cannot fail to exercise a great influence upon the ratification of the peace covenant itself.
