AT THE MOVIES

To speak in the parlance of baseball, which furnishes the atmosphere of his latest story, Charles Ray bats an average of 1,000 in "The Busher," the new Thomas H. Ince Paramount picture, which will open an engagement at the Liberty Theater for Friday and Saturday.

The story concerns a youth in a small town who is gifted with a remarkable throwing arm and attracts the attention of a league manager. He is promoted into professional baseball, but suffers a noticeable affliction of inflated chest and falls down on the job, just when all his home folks are at the game to see his wonderful pitching.

He takes an oath never again to play, but to save his sweetheart's home, he goes again to the pitcher's slab and wins the season's "rubber" for his own home town.

The situations are novel and refreshing. It will tickle the lovers of the great American game, for there are some subtle bits of diamond satire.
