CROWDS OF SPECTATORS AND DANCERS ENJOY MASQUERADE

The most successful dancing party of the season enjoyed last night at the Bend Amateur Athletic club when the Ladies' Library club entertained with a masquerade ball. Until the music stopped at 12:30 o'clock this morning the floor was massed with dancers, and until the grand march and unmasking shortly before 11 o'clock, the balconies were crowded with spectators. Costumes were unusually good, and ranged from the grotesque to the beautiful. Decisions of the judges were well received. E. J. Benz, in somber garb, as a minister of the gospel, was greatly shocked to find himself at a dance, and carried out his assumed character so well as to be given the first award. M. G. Wagner, in fiery red, as Mephistopheles, took second, and exchanged effusive greetings with the parson as they met before the judges. A country girl, who afterwards turned out to be a local high school boy, won the first prize for women, and a Red Cross nurse, whose identity was not established, was given second place. A rural couple was also picked for a prize, but failed to report when the awards were being made. A special class was created by the judges when the appearance of Mrs. Anna Curry and her interesting collection of pickaninies made it necessary to draw the color line, and a special prize was awarded to the ebony hued family. Decorations in keeping with the season were excellently done, and especial attention was attracted by a number of life-sized witches, suspended from the rafters. This part of the preparation was in charge of Miss Elsie Horn, while the Hallow-

This was the charge dramatically made last night by Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, former German Chancellor, during the hearing before the Reichstag committee which is investigating the war. He placed the burden for the prolongation of the war, equally upon the German people and General von Hindenburg. "The Kaiser was not in a position, even had he desired it, to resist General von Hindenburg," he said.

Oregon Congressman is Lauded as Best Chairman Public Lands Committee Ever Had.

Sinnott of Oregon was paid him on the floor of the House by Congressman Scott Ferris of Oklahoma when he stated that Sinnott was the best chairman that the Committee on Public Lands had ever had. He is Chairman of the National Congressional Democratic Committee, at the present time, as well as ranking minority member of the Public Lands Committee. The compliment to the Oregon member was made during remarks by the Oklahoma Congressman on the Mineral Land Leasing Bill now being considered by the House; and appears in the Congressional Record as follows: "The gentleman from Oregon (Mr. Sinnott) is entitled to the very greatest credit. He spent nights and nights and tedious nights they were, in the most thorough investigation in connection with this bill. The gentleman has always been active on the Committee, but this year he has assumed the responsibility of the chairman with all the term implies, and is really the best chairman the committee has ever had."
