AT LIBERTY.

Wallace Reid takes a step down into the rough underworld in his latest picture "The Love Burglar." Reid is first shown as a young society idler without purpose of desire for work. He goes into slum land and there finds a young girl, most attractive and seemingly unsusited to her surroundings. Here he equips himself with all the paraphernalia of the people he associated with and starts a grand cleanup bringing the young girl out of the depths. There are some keen scenes in this play to be seen at the Liberty Sunday and Monday. Another of the ever popular Robert C. Bruce scenic pictures will be shown this time entitled, "Silent Wonders of the West." Literary Digest Topics of the Day will also be seen.
Vivian Martin in "Louisiana" is seen in a pleasing character of a Louisiana maiden who has been rear-love. This love finds many problems as there is a young man who has been her childhood companion. Her battle to overcome the obstacles of a jealous would-be lover develops a charming story and will be at the Liberty, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Seeking by every trick conceivable to rob her of millions and then failing tries to disgrace her again without success forms the essential features of the plot in the "Society Exile," featuring Elsie Ferguson at the Liberty, Thursday night, Thanksgiving only.

ing only. This picture is considered Miss Ferguson's most powerful picture to date. Elmo the Mighty in the sixteenth episode will be shown in "Parachute Perils."

Dorothy "Pep" Gish comes forth in a snappy play in which Friday 13th, Black Cats, Dark Men, etc., play an important part in marriage. Gish has many trials and tribulations and the play is replete with much comedy. It will be seen next Friday and Saturday evenings.

this screen production at the Grand Theatre, Sunday night only. There will also be shown Pathe and Ford current events and a Lloyd Comedy.

When it came to foregoing the name of an heiress Barbara Pretlow (Peggy May) balked. She found herself without funds, a job and any visible means of making a living so she jumped at the chance at being a confederate of a gang of crooks. Unwittingly she became involved until one day she was spotted by a

AT GRAND.

A son of Erin finds his place always inside a blue coat with gold buttons. This time in "One of His Finest," Tom Moore is seen as a traffic policeman. Now anyone who knows anything about the job of a traffic policeman knows that it is not a life devoid of thrills and excitement, but seldom if ever does love enter. In this case, however, Moore has his love troubles in this picture and there are some fine situations in young millionaire who saw in her something else than the "chicken stall" and put her to the test finding her alright the usual occurred. This epitomizes "The House of Intrigue" at the Grand Theatre, Monday and Tuesday evenings which will be shown with a cartoon and topics of the day film and Christie comedy, "Some Caveman."

One of the best known stage successes in the last two years, and one which had a great run on the Pacific Coast last year is "Lombardi Ltd" which will be shown at the Grand Theatre, Wednesday and Thanksgiving evening. The story deals with an artist of women's clothes. There is some wonderful sentiment in the play with richness of scenery and beautiful women. There is a good comedy "A Pair of Deuces."

Priscilla is a frequent visitor. She will be seen next Friday and Saturday at the Grand in "An Exquisite Thief," and Gale Henry, with her face and shape so well known to millions will be seen in "Stung."

Duty Always Imperative.

If you have no friends to share or rejoice in your success in life, it is no less incumbent on you to move steadily in the path of duty.—Walter Scott.

Books.

One cannot celebrate books sufficiently. After saying his best, still something better remains to be spoken in their praise. As with friends, one finds new beauties with every meeting, and would abide always in the presence of those choice companions. As with friends, he may dispense with a wide acquaintance, few and choice.—A Bronson Alcott.
