(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—The supreme court today speeded up its work on the final decision as to whether or not constitutional prohibition is valid. In this connection was announced the application of the state of Rhode Island to institute original proceedings in court to test the validity of the eighteenth amendment. J. Bryan as the enemy of the farmer.

Hagenbarth favored an immediate treaty of peace with Germany and a league of nations, saying that if extremes in the treaty are dangerous, the "middle road of conservatism" should be chosen. He said no reduction is possible in the 1920 price of wool. Hagenbarth urged criminal prosecution for the man who sells "adulterated clothing" as all-wool, and praised the farmer as the "most certain and dependable guardian of American institutions."

22 I. W. W. FACE IDAHO COURT

TRIALS WILL TEST LAW RECENTLY PASSED WHICH MAKES MEMBERSHIP IN ORGANIZATION A CRIME.

SANDPOINT, Idaho, Jan. 19.—Idaho will discover during the trial of 22 alleged I. W. W. whose hearing opened here today, whether its criminal syndicalism law has its "teeth." It is generally supposed to have.

This is the first of a series of trials to be conducted in Idaho which the state will try to demonstrate that mere membership in the I. W. W. and other kindred organizations is sufficient to constitute a crime.

The state, early in the trial, will produce a witness found in Spokane, who is expected to prove the state's trump card in all trials of alleged industrialists. He is said to be an official of the Spokane local, who was taken in a raid at Spokane when considerable literature, alleged to have been used in Idaho, was seized. The state asserts that operations of the radicals in Idaho have been engineered from the office of the Spokane local of the I. W. W.

The efficiency of the new Idaho constabulary, unique in the United States, will be demonstrated during the trial here, it is believed. A member of this organization was with the Spokane raiding party.
