

OLCOTT PUTS HIS VETO ON COUNTY FAIR

MIGHT ESTABLISH BAD PRECEDENT

NOW UP TO PEOPLE

Defeat of Burdick's Attempt to Secure Fair for Redmond Leaves

Appointment of Board of Directors to County Court.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)

SALEM, Jan. 21.—Governor Olcott today vetoed 32 measures, including the bill to establish the Deschutes county fair at Redmond, 11 locating state highways and post roads, and the straight party bill.

In vetoing the county measure, the governor said: "Under the general laws of our state, the establishment or locating of these county fairs lies in the hands of the county courts of the respective counties. This is as it should be. To allow this bill to become a law, would, to my mind, establish a dangerous precedent which might in the future lead to log rolling and trading."

The matter of selecting the location for the county fair now rests, as it did previous to the introduction of the bill by Representative Burdick, with the people of the county, as specified by the general laws of Oregon of 1913, Chapter 146, Section one, which is quoted as follows, provides the first step to be taken:

"The several counties in this state are hereby authorized to hold county agricultural fairs. The county court of each county may appoint a board consisting of three resident taxpaying citizens of the county, to be known as the County Fair board. The members of said board shall be recommended by the agricultural and horticultural societies and granges of the county, and shall be appointed for a term of three years; provided that when the first board of directors are appointed under this act, one director shall be appointed for one year, one for two years, and one for three years. And annually thereafter one director shall be appointed to serve for three years.

"The court shall require each member of the board to furnish a good and sufficient bond in favor of the county in a sum not less than the amount of the annual appropriation received from the state for the support of the fair, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of his office. Said bond, when approved by the county court, may be filed with the county clerk.

RESOLUTION OF CENSURE AIMED AT NAVY CHIEF

WALSH ASKS SENATE FOR OPINION

VOTE IS POSTONED

Disclosures by Admiral Sims Concerning Memorandum to Secretary of the Navy Scored by Senator.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—

Senator Walsh asked the senate today to adopt a resolution censuring Admiral Sims for making public his memorandum to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in which Sims stated that he received orders not to let the British "pull the wool over his eyes," and that "we'd as soon fight the British as the Germans."

The resolution states that "it is declared to be sense of the senate that the disclosures by Admiral Sims merit universal reprobation." On the objection of Senators McCormick and Lodge, action was deferred. Walsh said that he is not interested in knowing whether Sims was right or wrong.

Vice-Admiral Grant, testifying before the senate committee which is investigating the award of naval decorations, declared today that Thomas Edison had little or nothing to do with experiments on submarine detecting devices, although he had received a distinguished service medal, while two officers who furnished practical effective devices were refused decorations.

INTERNATIONAL CODE IS URGED

RECOGNITION OF COPYRIGHTS AND TRADE MARKS BY ALL NATIONS OF NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICA ASKED.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—Establishment of a system of laws whereby copyrights on trade marks will be recognized in all countries in North and South America, was advocated here today at the Second Pan American Financial Conference.

At present copyrights of North American countries are not recognized in Latin American countries. According to an arrangement some time ago, it was agreed that when two thirds of the Latin American countries had ratified establishment of such laws, all the other countries would accept it. At present five Latin American nations—Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Ecuador and Bolivia—have ratified the convention. Two more are necessary to make ratification effective. Peru has indicated its willingness to ratify but Argentina has proved the stumbling block. It is hoped to induce its delegates here to bring pressure to secure Argentine's approval.

International co-operation in commerce and finance was urged in a speech by John Bassett Moore, vice-chairman of the International High Commission, who spoke on "The Work of the International High Commission."

The International High Commission is made up of delegates from all American Republics, including the United States and Mexico. It was organized in Buenos Aires in May 1916, as a result of a trip there by William G. McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury. The finance ministers of all countries are members of the commission.

The conference, which is being held to stimulate trade relations between North and South American countries, is being attended by the leading business men of all the countries represented. Means to restore Latin American exchanges to their normal levels are being taken up, as well as the matter of investing American capital in Latin American development.

REASONS FOR WILL WRITTEN

ERMEL SCOTT WINS FIRST PRIZE IN ELEVENTH GRADE CONTEST—MARY ULLMAN IS SECOND.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)

Why the making of a will is important for everybody, and is a good thing for thrifty folks, is told in the prize winning essay written by Ermel Scott, of the 11th grade of the Bend schools, one of the competitors in the Thrift Week Contest. Mary Ullman was the winner of the second prize on this subject. The first prize essay reads as follows:

"The most important benefit of a will, is that no one knows as well as the man writing the will, who is best fitted to inherit his property, that is who can make the most of the legacy whether it be in money goods, or real estate. The father knows his child. Perhaps the elder may be of an idle spendthrift nature, while the younger is saving and industrious. The father realizing these domestic conditions can settle an allowance on the elder and leave the bulk to the younger knowing it will be well invested.

"In England, by law the property goes to the oldest child whether he be fitted to use it rightly or not.

"Wills are economical because through them the administration can simply and quickly dispose of property as named therein.

"When no will is made the settlement is generally made in court, provided of course that there is any great amount of property left for distribution. All this takes time and work on the part of the lawyers.

"In some cases the lawyers are dishonest and manage to get a great deal of the property for themselves thus cheating the inheritors. In some cases the property divided in this way is useless to other party, when one could manage it profitably as for example machinery and farms.

"If there is no will, and no inheritors it takes a great deal longer to decide on a settlement, and likely dishonest lawyers will get their share.

"If there is no inheritor, the property generally endows hospitals, orphan asylums, or some charitable institution in which case it does untold good, for many people do not realize that the little children of the 'homes' are going to be United States citizens some day.

"Now more than ever when the great reconstruction work of the Great War is going on, should people take care to settle their estate where the most good will be derived from it, both by the owner and by the country."
