ROBINS AND OUSELS.

This is the first winter Bend has known for many years in which there have been no robins. In every past winter we can remember these birds have been seen or heard almost every day. Only on the coldest mornings were hidden away in an effort to keep warm. Ordinarily their cheerful song is rising with the sun and their winter congregations, though sometimes more noisy than musical, are a pleasant bit of life in an otherwise dormant world.

We do not remember when last we heard the robins before the great December storm. Possibly their weather sense had told them that it was coming and for the first time in years they went away to more congenial climates. Or, possibly, they were caught by the storm and perished in the cold and the snow. We trust not. And we think this was not the case for surely some would have come through safely, and none have been seen since that bitter week.

If they are all away we wish we could get some word to them that the storm is over. There is a lot of pleasure in having the birds around. The sooner they come back the better.

Some are back, or have never been away; we think the former. These are the water ousellets that live near the power company dam. These slaty little fellows are bobbing around on the rocks every morning now, jumping in for a little swim and singing with all their might. And the other night we thought we heard a sandpiper down by the river. Spring is coming.

Fifteen Years Ago

(From the columns of The Bulletin, February 3, 1905.)

From a source of undoubted authority it is learned that the Corvallis & Eastern railroad has completed arrangements for an advance 10 miles into the Cascade Mountains. It is not quite clear what this move of the Corvallis & Eastern means, unless it is a step in the construction of a line to Bend.

R. B. Mutzig, who returned last week from a seven week trip to Chicago, and Pittsburg, heard in Chicago of some railroad plans of interest to the Bend country. It was to the effect that an option on the Corvallis & Eastern had been taken by a California syndicate. According to the story Mr. Mutzig brings, the plan is to build the Corvallis & Eastern across the mountains and meet it in Central Oregon with the Western Pacific, now on the way up from San Francisco.

At the council meeting last Tuesday night, the franchise ordinances for the Bend Water, Light, & Power Co. and the Deschutes Telephone Co., were passed. Both give perpetual, but not exclusive rights to the streets.

The Rev. Anthony Mitchell this week announced that the building of a Presbyterian church in Bend was assured, and that work on the structure will be begun as soon as the lumber can be put on the ground and the workmen employed.

The lower crew on construction of the Pilot Butte canal is now within five miles of Crooked River. At the present rate of progress the canal will be completed by February 20, and the crew will then be released for other work.

In considering the statement of the Bend post office, which appears in this issue, it should be remembered that a year ago Bend was too insignificant to have a post office at all. Now its business is next to the largest in Central Oregon.

The Bend Literary and Debating society Wednesday night elected the following officers to serve during the year: President, H. James Overturn; Vice-President, Chauncey P. Becker; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss

Dead Days

I sing the olden, golden days, for which I've often grieved; the common tip was then a dime, and thankfully received. With princely hands I gave ten cents, and filled with wholesome glee the souls of all the helpful gents who did small things for me. I acted thus for many years, in many a shire and clime, and men were often moved to tears, when they received the dime. But now the porter with his brush, the waiter with his plate, jeer at such specimens of cash, and breathe a hymn of hate. A quarter, even, is too small, too trifling and too punk, to soothe the current of their gall—they ought to have a plunk. Some day the people will arise and raise a howdydo, and swat, as they would swat the flies, the whole blamed grafting crew. Some day a statesman will appear, a germ-proof law he'll frame, to make the tip of yesteryear an outlawed, penal game. The tipping of the olden time was free from sin and guile, for then a man could give a dime, and get a winning smile; but now he gives a half a bone, which he can hardly spare; the porter takes it with a groan, and goes outdoors to swear.

GRIFFITH INTRODUCES SUFFRAGE BASEBALL

There is no "off-season" for Clark Griffith, owner and manager of the Washington, D. C., American League baseball team. Griffith teaches women and girls to play the great game. Here he is umpiring a game between women teams from government departments. Griffith—the old fox—says women can play ball as well as men—if they'd give the same time.

Many Neglect Their Heirs.

One who is at all curious in such matters cannot fail to be amazed at the inconsequent fashion in which men transmit the money that has represented the work and savings of their lives. Death, like birth, is an inevitable fact in human experience; yet the average man lives as though he were to be the one exception to the common rule and might confidently expect to live forever. In nine cases out of ten he does not take even the rudimentary precaution of making a will.—Collier's Weekly.

"TRADING SUPPER" PLANNED AT GRANGE

GRANGE HALL, Feb. 6.—The Grangers at Grange Hall have chosen Feb. 13, as the evening to entertain the public. The ladies will serve a course luncheon. Each course will be done up in separate packages. Guests will be taxed 10 cents per package, and if packages do not contain just what the buyers wish they may trade. There will be many other enjoyable features through out the evening. Everyone is most cordially invited.

The young school has had several open air sessions during January. The teacher, Mrs. Rasmussen, and pupils declare they are superior to the indoor sessions in many ways.

Mr. Lester sold two hundred lambs last week. Mr. O. Swanson delivered the lambs to the station.

Mrs. Frank Whittaker called at Mrs. Frank Whittaker's one day last week.

Mrs. J. J. Young called at Mrs. Crowes Wednesday afternoon.

Katherine Helgeson called at Anna Smith's Sunday afternoon.

P. J. Young and family were Friday afternoon callers at A. Neff's ranch.

Herbert Nelson, Katharine Helgeson and Dorothy Young who took the 7th grade examinations received their returns from Supt. Thompson office, Saturday. They had passed with excellent standing.

Gladys Dahl is on the sick list.

Mr. J. Boyer who is visiting in Pennsylvania writes he will be glad to get back to the land of Sunshine, Oregon, as he has had but one glimpse of the sun during his two month's stay in the last.

A CHALMERS

with an Elegant New Body

IT is new, will no doubt be widely copied in another year, and expresses elegance. It is "cut" high in the front at the radiator line, and low from the windshield back.

You sit close to the ground; the side line is considerably lower than in any previous Chalmers.

Seats are lower, tilt more; you cling to the seat cushion, and you have abundance of foot room, front and rear.

In detail this new body possesses a completeness, a finality that seems impossible to improve upon.

Underneath the body is the same, unchanged Chalmers chassis that is well nigh faultless.

Hot Spot and Ram's-horn continue in their original and masterly way to get out all the power that nature put into gas, though the complaints against the grade of gas today increase daily.

There's a limit to the supply of the new Chalmers, but there seems to be no limit to the number of those who insist on one.

As a word of warning—see this new Chalmers immediately.
