Moon's Time for Sleep.

A little girl of three, seeing a cloud of smoke enveloping the moon, said, "Auntie, the moon is going to sleep now; see 'em pulling the sheet up over it?"

He thought up an 18-Karat lie right on the spur of the moment. To make good on it he had to tell another. And then...!!!

Don't Try to Remove Freckles.

Freckles can be removed, but, as the Journal of the American Medical Association says, "the effect is only temporary at best, and usually not worth the irritation and effort that it costs."

The method is to apply solutions of mercuric chloride in a strength of from 0.5 to 1 per cent, strictly under medical supervision, for if one tries to do it oneself she is likely to make a nasty mess of her face. These solutions produce an inflammation of the skin which ends in the outer skin peeling off, bringing the freckles with it.

The Journal of the American Medical Association says that the prescription written by Hebra, and recommended particularly for the removal of freckles, will not do the trick. Wise women let their freckles alone.

Polishing Mirrors.

In cleaning mirrors and pictures great care must be taken that no water seep under the glass. Water will ruin the back of a mirror and blister the picture.

Perhaps the safest way to polish and clean these glasses is to use a damp chamolis skin. Wring the chamolis as dry as possible out of warm water, rub the glass until perfectly clean and dip the chamolis into clean water and again wring dry. Rub the glass the second time and polish with paper if necessary, but it won't be. This way of cleaning mirrors and pictures does not endanger the frame in any way and is very satisfactory.

CUPPER ATTENDS WATER MEETINGS

Percy A. Cupper, state engineer, is conducting a series of water meetings in Cloverdale, Sisters and Plainview, preliminary to the organization of an irrigation district by the ranchers in those sections.

Boiling Steel in Oil.

Cincinnati is one of six places in the world where steel is strengthened by being boiled in oil. At a plant in Carthage, a steel shaft weighing 30,000 pounds, the largest piece ever subjected to the new method, went through the process of being strengthened. It was a "hollow bored tumbler shaft" for use in dredging gold in California, costing about $17,000. The great shaft was first suspended in an upright furnace until heated to just below the melting point. A crane then picked it up and dropped it into a huge well of oil, where it boiled and sputtered, throwing out clouds of oily mist.

Puzzle for Archeologists.

Archeologists are puzzled by the prehistoric carving of a lion near Vera Cruz. Efforts have been made to trace the origin of this little known relic of prehistoric America, but have thus far proved futile. The similarity to the African lion rather than the mountain lion of this hemisphere has added to the mystery.

Beetles' Blood for Warts.

Beaver's Meat Talks--No. 5

Sometimes I get mighty tired of hearing folks crab about the high cost of living. It's a vital subject, all right, but you'll see some of the worst kickers keep right on buying the most expensive things, taking it for granted that because a commodity costs more it must be better. That may be true, but it isn't an axiom by any means.

Take meat for instance. I've already told you that I handle the best in town, and why I handle it, and that I'm ready to prove my statements any time, any place.

Now I'm going to tell you something more, and that is that you can get meat at Beaver's Market or the Cash Market for from five to ten cents per pound less than you can in other local shops. That doesn't mean that I'm taking an unfair advantage of my competitors, but it does mean that I am content with a fair profit, and that because of the big and constantly increasing business at my two markets. That makes it possible for you to stick to quality and at the same time pass a solar plexus punch to old Hi Cost.

How about it?

W. A. Beaver
