AN EXPERIMENT STATION

Professors' Powers suggestion, reported in The Bulletin today, that instead of carrying on experimental work in widely scattered parts of the county the agricultural college hereafter concentrate its efforts on one tract is in line with the plan initiated last year for the establishment of an agricultural station in Deschutes county. At that time, it will be remembered, President Kerr and the board of regents of the college were here and discussed the plan at a meeting of the Commercial club.

While necessarily avoiding any pledge that the experiment station would be established President Kerr pointed out just the steps that should be taken to secure it, including the collection of data on local agricultural conditions and needs, and other facts of interest to the authorities who have it in their power to make the decision and supply the funds.

If anything is to be done toward carrying out the idea it is none too soon to start on the work and in the meantime assistance should be given, if needed, toward securing the land desired by Mr. Powers for the smaller enterprise. The same amount of funds spent this year on agricultural work in the county will be available next year and this will be sufficient, he points out, for the undertaking he proposes. An experiment farm on some scale, then, would be assured. If by making an effort the enterprise can be made larger and more important we should make the effort.

Climate and Longevity.

The general death-rate is found to increase with rising temperature and to diminish with a falling thermometer. These conclusions are a result of a study of about 400,000 deaths in New York in connection with the weather on the day of the death. The peculiarities seem to apply to all seasons. Variety, as in English or Canadian weather, is healthful and stimulating, and it is believed that some variability is as essential as proper humidity.

Old Use of Mirrors.

Mirrors were used by Anglo-Saxon women, slung to their girdles. The same custom obtained in the time of Elizabeth and James I. They formed the center of many fans at that period. Before glass was invented, horn was used.

Passing Out

So live that when you lie in bed, afflicted with the flu, and Dr. Beeswax shakes his head and says your journey's through, you are not filled with vain regrets for things you've left undone; may you observe, "I've paid my debts, and death is bully fun." The debts behind look black as pitch, and spoil your spirits ease, when you are dying of the itch, or hoof and mouth disease. Your widow, draped in trailing black, and heaving sobs of woe, may take in washing at her shack to pay the bills you owe. And she may scrub some neighbor's floor, or wash the big stone step; a thought like this makes death a bore, and from it knocks the pep. I'd hate to sit upon a star in my nice muslin shroud, and watch my widow scrub and char, among earth's madding crowd. She will not have to do such tricks—I'm not the least afraid; you bet when I have crossed the Styx, my debts will all be paid; and there'll be roubles in the bin, the products of my rhyme; and Jane may blow said money in, and have the dernedest time.
