SIGN PAINTER AGAIN MEETS GAME WARDEN

Jimmie Clark Fined $25 For Having Small Fish—Arrested By Man Who Found Him Job.

Jimmie Clark, itinerant sign painter, who several weeks ago paid his last cent on a fishing license after being caught fishing without one by Game Warden H. McDonald, was again brought into court yesterday morning after McDonald found him catching undersized fish near the county bridge. Clark pleaded guilty in justice court and was fined $25. Clark has been working in Bend since his previous encounter with the game warden, at a job McDonald found for him. Several fish under the legal limit were found in his possession.

MANY DESERT SHIPS FOR CHEAP WHISKEY

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 13.—Sheds and freight houses on the wharves and piers of Montreal are now placarded with warnings to sailors not to desert their ships while in Canada's largest and wettest port.

The warning are the result of a campaign by the shipping federation and local police to put an end to the numerous desertions occurring when vessels reach this port, which in the last few weeks have left many ships with only part crews for their return voyage.

Cheap railroad fares to the harvest fields of Western Canada, big wages and whiskey are given as the reasons for desertions.

WOMAN REPORTER ON STRENUOUS VACATION

PORTLAND, Aug. 13.—Miss Henrietta McKaughan, reporter for a Portland newspaper, didn't follow the beaten path when she took her vacation.

Dressed in man's attire and with man-size pack on her back, Miss McKaughan started out for the Olympic mountains over a transportation route which included train, boat, stage, canoe—and shanks' mare.

"I'm starting ahead of the Seattle Mountain Climbing club, which is going to cross the Olympics this summer," said the young newspaper woman, "because I don't want to follow their beaten trail and walk over their leavings."

Odd Wedding Arrangements.
 A young professor of physical culture married a beautiful and athletic pupil of his in the suburbs of Paris. The couple appeared before the mayor in tennis costume, and after the ceremony the wedding party sat down to breakfast on the banks of the Seine. Hardly was the coffee finished than, on a given signal, the whole party retired and reappeared in bathing costume. Later the couple started on a bicycle tour for a honeymoon.
