

QUIET CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF PROVES EFFECTIVE IN STATE

PORTLAND, Dec. 21.—Who is the hardest-hearted man in Oregon? He is expected to be found between December 19 and 25, in some county or town. He may be in Portland, or he may be in the state outside, but he is the man who will refuse to buy or help buy the life of a starving child in East Central Europe at $10 apiece. He is the man who, being told that Oregon is responsible for the lives of 25,000 of the 3,500,000 children afflicted by famine in Europe's former war zone, will keep his hands and his money in his pockets. If he is not found, the campaign organization formed in this state, at the request of Herbert Hoover, will decide that Oregon is 100 per cent merciful.

No effort for the relief of need has ever been put forth in Oregon before, it is said, with so little noise or oratory, or yet with such quiet determination on the part of thousands of workers to make it a success. Almost imperceptibly it has taken precedence over all other Christmas activities, simply because the people of Oregon cannot bear to let the children of Europe's blackened battlefields plead in vain.

Oregon's campaign was organized by W. B. Ayer in direct response to Herbert Hoover's appeal. Robert H. Strong was appointed general director and Robert E. Smith, outstate director. Liberty loan workers were added to the representatives of the American Red Cross, Jewish Joint Distribution committee, Federal Council of Churches, Knights of Columbus, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., and the most gratifying feature as the workers prepare for their whirlwind drive is the discovery that the war left the state with an organization capable, on less than a week's notice, of responding to so tremendous a need as that of the children in Europe.

Oregon's quota is 25,000 lives, equally divided between Portland and the state outside. In other words, the state is expected to contribute the total sum of $250,000.

The receipt cards to be used take the novel form of accepted invitations from Europe's little folks as invisible guests at the Christmas dinners of Oregon.

POWELL BUTTE VOTES AGAINST NEW SCHOOL

Taxpayers Show Opposition To District Plans—Children Are Hurt When Thrown From Horse.

POWELL BUTTE, Dec. 21.—Powell Butte turned out en masse on Friday to vote "no" on the Redmond high school bonding issue. Powell Butte is already in the union high school district against its "voice and vote," and has already been taxed to build a high school in Crook county. Hence the protest. Powell Butte was outvoted, as was foreordained, but the voters took that means to show their opposition to being taxed in the Redmond high school district when they did not vote to join that district in the first place, but were drawn in by the overwhelming majority of votes from other parts of the district.

Harold M. Charlton left on Wednesday night's train for Portland after enjoying his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Charlton of Powell Butte. This was Harold's first vacation since entering the service as a federal agent, more than two years ago.

Mrs. E. A. Bussett, Ross Bussett and family left for Seattle Friday night, where the Ross Bussetts will make their home. Mrs. Bussett will visit for a while with Mr. and Mrs. Pollard, former residents of Prineville, but now of Seattle. Mrs. Bussett and Ross had intended to make the trip by auto, but the night before starting they allowed their car to freeze up, urting out one side of the radiators, and it had to be left behind.

Quite a serious accident occurred last Wednesday near the O'Callahan ranch, when two little girls, who were riding horseback after the mail, were thrown from their horse and both of them seriously injured. They were Ruth Calvin, daughter of Kate Busnell Calvin, and Clara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson. Ruth was the more seriously injured of the two and at first it was thought her neck was broken. The girls were carried into the O'Callahan home and their parents and two physicians called. It was not until the following day that the girls could be moved to their homes. Clara is rapidly recovering from the fall, but Ruth is still confined to her bed and may be for some time yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wurzweller were in Prineville Friday night. Mr. Wurzweller to see the match at the Legion club and Mrs. Wurzweller to visit her parents, who were in the city from their Paulina home.

The Powell Butte Cooperative association held its regular monthly meeting at Community hall last Thursday night. Several very important business matters were discussed at the meeting. A delegation of stockmen, consisting of George Russell, James Cram, Jr., and Bruce Gray were present to discuss stock measures and cooperation, and a delegation of business and professional men were present from Redmond to discuss the high school bond election. They were: Dr. J. F. Hoesch, M. A. Lynch, William Wilson and Thomas Quigley. After the business session refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bussett, members of the association, who have left here to make their home near Seattle.

ton, measured in the stack. Mr. Evans will feed 185 head of beef cattle.
