

COUNCIL AGAIN DEFERS ACTION ON GIRLS' WORK

RESOLUTION, PETITION TABLED

RECORDS ARE OFFERED

Details of The Protective Division's Work Are Presented To Mayor—Emergency Clause Attached To Pardon And Jail Ordinances.

Two resolutions, a petition with 792 signers and a copy of the ordinance for the reestablishment of the woman's protective division, enactment of which under an emergency clause was urged by both resolutions and petition, were tabled for two weeks last night by the Bend council. The resolutions, one presented by the Commercial club, and one by the Civic league, were covered in a motion by G. H. Baker, the only dissenting vote being that of H. E. Allen. N. H. Gilbert's similar motion on the petition carried by the same vote and Mr. Allen's motion that the ordinance be placed on its first reading received no second.

Many citizens, a large proportion of them women, attended the session of the council. In moving to table, Mr. Baker recalled the last council meeting, when it was decided to postpone any definite action until a thorough investigation of the protective division could be made. "The council has earnestly investigated," he said, "but it seems to me that this matter is for the consideration of the council rather than for the Civic league and the Commercial club. We have a definite program, and success or failure rests with us."

Councilman Allen pointed out that the petition bearing on the same question had not been read, and suggested that it might be well to take the signed request up if the wishes of the people of Bend were to be considered. Mr. Baker asserted that he was not trying to bar consideration of the petition, add Mayor Gilson called for a vote.

Advises Against Haste. After the reading of the petition, J. S. Innes declared that the council desired, as far as possible, to work out the wishes of the community. "There should be no undue haste, however," he said. "I voted on Mr. Baker's motion to give the council a chance to weigh the question. A plan is on foot to settle the matter satisfactorily to both sides."

After the tabling of all documents relating to the protective division had been accomplished, Rev. J. Edgar Purdy appeared to present to the mayor and council the complete records kept by Mrs. Emerson Stockwell, former head of the division, in compliance with the state law. He referred to a recent conference attended by the mayor, Councilman Baker, Mrs. Stockwell and himself, when the records had been placed at the mayor's disposal, and stated that the mistaken idea had apparently been held by the city officials that some of the information contained in the records had not been given at that time.

"Why did you withhold these records before?" the mayor inquired. "You did not ask for them; as a city official, you had that right," Mr. Purdy replied.

Records Not Wanted.

When Mr. Purdy presented the records, the mayor declared that he was inclined to think that the information he desired might not be contained in the detailed reports on each case handled by the protective division. "I think there is a general objection on the part of those here, that I should know," he added. "It is not possible to get all the facts, even if they are promised. Therefore, as I can't get near to it, I feel that it is my duty not to get into it at all."

Mr. Purdy intimated that the mayor was urging hasty judgment in concluding that the desired information could not be gained, and suggested that additional data could be secured from the city and county physicians, and from the girls who had been under Mrs. Stockwell's supervision.

"I don't care to get into a controversy; we'll pass this until the next meeting," he said.

PARING KNIFE IS UNSHEATHED

OREGON'S LAWMAKERS TO TRIM FREELY

Rapid Progress Being Made In The House And Senate, Bills Going Through To Second Readings.—Salary Advances Proposed.

(Special to The Bulletin.) SALEM, Jan. 22.—This year the legislative ways and means committee has a special lookout, who stands with a large and sharp paring knife, and is always on the alert. Any new ventures in finance which are proposed are going to have a hard time getting by. "Trim, and trim freely" has apparently been the watchword sent out, and this policy of retrenchment will go on until the end of the session. Some of the ventures which have been financed by the state in years past, either in whole or in part, have to show very clearly the money-finding committee that this aid should be continued, or they will not get the support they are expecting and have received heretofore, and very little encouragement is given to increase the former appropriations that were granted.

This was plainly evidenced at a meeting of the ways and means committee. The request for an appropriation of $20,000 for the Oregon products exhibit maintenance in Portland during the next two years, was subjected to a close scrutiny. The impression was left that amounts of this size were not to be handed out without urgent necessity for the same.

Publicity Wanted. The child welfare commission also appeared to present a plea for an appropriation of $20,000 for the bi-ennium. This is just twice the sum set out in its budget estimate for the two-year period.

Representative Lee appeared before the committee in behalf of house bill No. 1, creating a commission of publicity and appropriating $30,000 for state publicity purposes. No other meetings of the committee will be held until Monday night, when, it was stated, the committee work will be resumed.

House and senate bills are coming through rapidly now and are going up for their first and second readings.

Increases in the salaries of the state superintendent of public schools from $3000 to $4000 per year, the attorney general from $3600 to $4000 per year, the corporation commission.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin) WASHINGTON, D. Root's letter, taken in light of his conference with Harding, renewed mention of his name as a possible secretary of state, and gave additional credence to reports that Harding is planning to call a disarmament conference early in his administration.

BEND DECLARED TOO RETICENT ABOUT SCENERY

BEAUTY OF DESCHUTES CANYON SEEN

EDITOR ENTHUSIASTIC

W. T. Stott, of Portland Telegram, Declares Rocky Gorge Through Central Oregon Equal To That of The Colorado.

Bend has been altogether too reticent regarding the beauty of the Deschutes canyon, is the belief of W. T. Stott, managing editor of the Portland Telegram, a visitor in the city yesterday. Mr. Stott arrived in Bend Thursday evening and left last night for Portland, expressing the opinion that Central Oregon scenery can't be beat anywhere. "I'm going back to boost the Three Sisters, Old Bachelor, and your whole family of mountains," he said.

"Nobody had ever told me of the Deschutes canyon," he remarked, "and after I left the Columbia on the trip to Bend, I had surprise after surprise. I have been through the Royal gorge of the Colorado a number of times, but with the exception of one point, where the overhanging walls almost meet, there is nothing in the Colorado canyon, either in the coloring of the rocks, or the wild scenic beauty that surpasses the canyon of the Deschutes. You know there are things that a man feels, but could never put into words. That is the way the Deschutes canyon got me."

At the point where the train leaves the gorge and makes its way over the tableland, Mr. Stott received another surprise. "The sun was just setting," he recalled, "and the last rays, cast on field after field of wheat, where the yellowish-green blades were beginning to force their way through the snow, produced a light effect that I can never forget."

When the train crossed the rocky chasm cut by Crooked river, Mr. Stott was on the platform to try and estimate the depth of the canyon. Bend's hotel accommodations and industries were another big surprise to the visiting editor. He spent an hour at the Brooks-Seanlon plant yesterday and declared that the operation of the milling machinery was a complete revelation to him.

Then the climax came. He was taken on an auto ride on the North highway and the car stopped at the beginning of the Tumalo grade, where, apparently just a few miles away, snow-covered mountain peaks, one after another, line up for inspection. "I counted 13, and there may have been more," Mr. Stott said. "It was the most wonderful panorama I have ever seen."

France also asserted that the time is not far away when the United States will have a war with Russia.

WHISKEY MAKER GETS $500 FINE

T. S. HAMES PLEADS GUILTY, CAN'T PAY, GOES BACK TO JAIL, WHERE STILLS CLUTTER OUTER ROOM.

T. S. Hames of Alfalfa, charged with manufacturing intoxicating liquor, appeared in justice court yesterday afternoon, waived time, and entered a plea of guilty. A fine of $500 was imposed by Justice of the Peace E. D. Gilson. Declaring that he was unable to pay, Hames went back to jail.

Hames' justice was his first, and he had just started his first run of liquor when apprehended, he told the court. He has nine children, and having had previous experience as a distiller in the days before the manufacture of whiskey was forbidden, he had turned to his old occupation as a means of providing a livelihood when other work failed.

The arrest was made Thursday afternoon, when Special Agent L. A. W. Nixon and Deputy Sheriff George Stokoe visited Hames' ranch. In a cave, which had been carefully boarded up, and which ordinarily would have been proof against detection, the officers found two stills, running full blast, and a small quantity of liquor. Hames was taken at his ranch home nearby.

Mute testimony to the fight which is being waged to enforce the prohibition law in Deschutes county is contained in the outer room of the county jail. Barrels of confiscated mash emit their sour, characteristic odor, and stills, oil stoves and other tools used in the moonshiner's trade, half fill the place.

DRASTIC CUTS IN TAXES ARE NOT EXPECTED

HUGE DEFICIT HANGS OVER TREASURY

NEED THREE BILLIONS

Appropriations, Pared To Limit, Will Be In Excess of Those For The Present Fiscal Year—Depression Will Cut Receipts.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—Drastic tax reductions will be impossible during the first year of the incoming administration, leading members of the house believe. The reason is that, with a big deficit hanging over the treasury, appropriations for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, thus far reported from the house appropriations committee show an increase over those of the present year.

Total appropriations cannot be cut to less than three billions, Republican Leader Mondell and Representative Good, chairman of the appropriations committee, have agreed. Even should there be some unexpected economy to take expenditures below this, hope for taxation reduction is slight because the present business depression will probably decrease tax receipts.

BANDIT SHOOT, KILLS OFFICER, TWO WILL DIE

GIVES NO WARNING OF ATTACK

MURDERER IS TAKEN

Robber, Shot Three Times, Fights On Until Felled By Blow of Seattle Policeman's Fist—Captor Is Uninjured In The Battle.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) SEATTLE, Jan. 22.—Detective James O'Brien is dead, Patrolmen W. T. Angle and Neil McMillan are dying, John Smith, bandit, is in jail, slightly wounded, and Dean Carman is in the hospital with two bullet holes in his leg, the result of a bandit battle on the streets here last night.

Angle and McMillan were hit when Smith suddenly opened fire on them at 9:10 o'clock. O'Brien was killed, Carman wounded and Smith captured about an hour later. Although wounded three times, Smith was not overcome until felled by a blow from Detective Montgomery's fist.

He aroused the suspicions of the patrolmen while sauntering along the street. When accosted, he started firing without warning. He shot Angle twice, then dropped McMillan with a fusillade of bullets. O'Brien and Montgomery next encountered Smith, and again he fired without warning on the officers. Montgomery escaped unscratched.
