Wasn't Addressing Tramp.

On her way downtown the other morning the woman stopped to see a sick friend, who lives on the first floor of a remodeled private house with a bedroom overlooking a nice old-fashioned back yard. The window was open and suddenly a loud voice broke the calm of the sickroom.

"You dirty bum, that's what you are," said the voice. "Of course you'll be comin' home now for your breakfast—and look at you, covered with dirt. It's a bum you are and not a drop of blue blood in you. Quit your whinin', you hungry stowaway. Me lookin' and waitin' for you last night and worryin' about you! And now I suppose you want to sleep all day and rest up for another night. You're just like the rest of your kind. It's a bum you are and nothin' else."

The woman leaned out of the open window that she might see the wreck of humanity the trade had visualized. And there was the comfortably built, immaculately clean mistress letting in her prize-winning Angora cat. Doughboy had come home for breakfast.—New York Sun.

Japan's Sulphur Baths.

At the foot of the volcano Asamayama in Japan there is a combination of hot sulphur and cold mineral springs.

The bathing house consists of three or four substantial wooden bathing tanks, into which the hot water flows, and a wooden platform running around the room with cupboards and shelves where the people dress.

Beams laid across the bathing tanks divide them into little squares, a square for each person.

The duration of the time bath is regulated with great precision by the head attendant, and during the bath from 150 to 200 half litre scoops of hot sulphur water are poured over the head of the bather.

Emergency Call.

"We've got lizards in our basement, and I just killed a snake in the front yard. Can't you send some one out right away to kill them?" wailed a voice over the telephone to William F. Cleary, clerk of the board of public works.

It was a woman's voice, or Mr. Cleary would have sent a request to the board of public safety that one of the morals squads be sent out with a suggestion that they might find whatever it was that made people "see snakes." However, he asked the board to send out an ordinary policeman to kill the reptiles.—Indianapolis News.

To Develop Wild Pears.

The world's largest stock of pear seedlings of a wild, blight-resisting variety found in Manchuria, is located on the Lounn Rica ranch near Grass Valley, Cal. The young trees are from seeds brought directly from China and number about 100,000.

Three pomological experts from the United States Department of Agriculture, Professors Allison, Wright and Kingsman, recently inspected the stock and approved the experimental work.

The original trees, known as the Pears usuriensis, are found growing in the ancient burying ground of the kings of the Manchurian dynasty, and it is only since the overthrow of the dynasty that the seeds became available. The tract is said to be vast and to be grown to trees of immense size.

By grafting the commercial varieties of pears upon this stock good results are expected to be obtained.

Pyrenees Put to Work.

Efforts to harness the water power going to waste in the Pyrenees and transform it into electricity are being intensified.

Engineers have surveyed entire mountain ranges and have succeeded already in controlling many torrents and making them furnish power. Altogether 200,000 horsepower now is furnished and capital amounting to 300,000,000 pesetas have been invested.

Every day sees additions to the amount of power available, and engineers employed in the work estimate that in a few years Catalonia will be able to do without coal.

HAD HAZY IDEA OF FINANCE

Queer Notion Held by Old Wash White Common to Many Investors, According to Lawyer.

At a dinner in New York the other day a prominent lawyer noted for his activities in rounding up investment swindlers told the following good story:

"It's pitiful to see how foolish a great many people are when it comes to a question of finance.

"Old Wash White is a good example of financial foolishness. When Wash's boss got back to the Delta from the North one day, he found the old man driving a fine young mule hitched to a handsome wagon.

"Now, Wash was a notoriously shiftless customer, and so his boss said to him:

"Where did you get that splendid turnout, Washington?"

"Ah done boughten it at Magnolia, sah," said Wash.

"How much did it cost you?"

"Ah done give mah note fo' $200 for it, sah."

"Good gracious," said the boss, "where do you expect to get $200 to meet your note when it falls due?"

"Wash looked astonished and offended.

"Fo' de Lawd's sake, boss man," he said, "you sho'ly don' expect me ter give mah note an' pay, too?"

KNOW MONEY BY PICTURES

How Those Who Handle Many Bills Find It Comparatively Easy to Tell Bad Ones.

It is a comparatively easy matter to become an expert in the quick handling of money and also to detect bills that have been raised, according to those who have tried. A large proportion of the bills now in circulation are federal reserve notes. Those in common use have identification characteristics, in addition to the numerals, easy to memorize.

Cashiers who handle large and small bills rapidly usually memorize the portrait on the bills, which are large enough to be unmistakable as the major mark of identification, with the numerals as the minor aid. The two combined are well-nigh infallible, save in the case of clever counterfeiters.

As the raising of bills is accomplished with the numerals, familiarity with the portraits, and comparison, will verify the proper denomination of the bills. The portraits on the federal reserve bills in everyday use are as follows:

One-dollar notes, portrait of George Washington.

Two-dollar notes, portrait of Thomas Jefferson.

Five-dollar notes, portrait of Abraham Lincoln.

Ten-dollar notes, portrait of Andrew Jackson.

Twenty-dollar notes, portrait of Grover Cleveland.

Fifty-dollar notes, portrait of U. S. Grant.

Hundred-dollar notes, portrait of Benjamin Franklin.

NEW YORK PROPOSES TAX ON ALL COMMERCIALIZED SPORT

By Henry L. Farrell. (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Highly commercialized sports in New York will be forced to pay a handsome toll toward the maintenance of state government by the new administration, according to the belief in political circles here.

Governor Miller has announced the intention of calling sport writers of the state together for a conference on the advisability of putting all professional sports in the state under one head and levying a substantial percentage of the receipts to help pay the expenses of government.

From other circles it is learned that while the boxing law will not be fundamentally changed, amendments will be adopted to change its governing body, reduce the commercial feature of the sport and increase the state taxes from 5 to 15 per cent.

One of the assemblymen recently announced that he would introduce a bill making $5 the top price of a boxing show.

Canon Chase, Brooklyn clergyman, who led the fight against the passage of the Walker bill at the last session of the legislature, also served notice on the governor that he would renew his efforts at this session with a campaign to repeal the boxing bill and the Sunday baseball bill.

The three metropolitan major league baseball teams made close to a million and a half dollars last season without having to pay the tax that is assessed on boxing.

The coming season promises returns of equal proportion and as Governor Miller's lobby seems to be conservation of public money and increase of the public treasury funds it seems logical that baseball will be forced to help carry the tax payer's burdens.

If admission prices for boxing are limited to a $5 top price and a 15 or 20 per cent tax is levied on the receipts in addition to the 10 per cent federal tax, boxing will be voted out just as much as if the Walker bill would be repealed. Bouts could not be staged under those conditions.

Racing is also due to come in as a greater contributor to the state coffers, it is understood.

CAPITAL FIGHT ON IN WEST VIRGINIA

Four Cities Contending For Honor Following Fire Which Levelled State House At Charleston.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 5.—West Virginia is in the midst of a better state capital fight. Tired firemen of the Charleston department had not yet left the ruins of the state capitol building before delegations from other West Virginia cities were interviewing the members of the legislature, petitioning them to move the capitol to their home cities.

Clarksburg, Parkersburg and Elkins are the leading contenders, with Charleston for the location of the new building. Clarksburg boasts the "six millionaires" are members of their state capitol location committee. Headquarters for all of the contesting town have been opened here.

West Virginia's state capitol building was destroyed late in the afternoon of January 3. Members of the legislature, elected in November, were just gathering in the city. For many this was their initial session. Tall hustling was required to provide headquarters for the state offices and the legislature. The house of delegates is meeting in a church. Governor Cornwell has cramped offices in a nearby state armory and near him is the still smaller quarters of the secretary of state. The state board of control is located in a private dwelling.

EX-SERVICE MEN APPLY FOR BONUS

Many Who Enlisted in Washington Visit Home Service Offices To Obtain Necessary Blanks.

The office of the Red Cross home service section was flooded by ex-service men yesterday, filing their applications for the bonus recently granted by the state of Washington. All applicants must have been bona fide residents of the state at the time of their entering the service in order to be eligible.

Sticking.

Little Harry, not having taken his customary afternoon nap, and feeling sleepy along toward night, said to his father: "Papa, you will have to make me a new eye, this one keeps sticking."

Historic Mace in Commons.

The mace of the speaker of the English house of commons is a notable historical relic, for it was the mace which was carried before King Charles I when he walked to the scaffold.

"Friends, the taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those laid on by the government were the only ones we had to pay we might more easily discharge them; but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement."—Benjamin Franklin.
