FEED VALUE MORE THAN SALE PRICE

Impounded Horses With 88 Appetites Sold For $3.50 and $0.50 When Auctioned to Pay Charges

Just a few more sales like two which were conducted last month and the city pound would go into bankruptcy, declares Lon L. Fox, chairman of the finance committee of the Bend city council. The pound report for the last month showed two instances where animals, in the brief time they had been advertised for sale, ate feed which cost more than the price for which they were ultimately sold.

One horse had an $8 feed bill, but brought only $3.50 when auctioned off and another with an $8 appetite went for $6.50. The report showed a balance of $13.85 in the city's favor.

Regular Teeth.

The teeth should be regular. They should not be crowded together, and there should be no aggressively noticeable spaces between them. They should be white or semi white. The unromantic truth is that teeth are never really white. But in contrast with the lips they look white, and the more heavily looking the lips the whiter do the teeth look in contrast.

MAKES LEGION POST A POPULAR SPOT

Hey, Legionnaires! Buddies at Hamilton, O., are using old human nature in making the post headquarters a popular spot. The young lady above—Miss Evelyn Merrill, after a "hitch" in the Army Nurse Corps during the war, is now assistant to Adjutant Frank Durwin at Hamilton—and she's the young lady who can make the legionnaires come across with their dues.

HIS TIME ALL TOO SHORT

Dying Profiteer Could Not Make Complete Confession of Iniquity in One Brief Day.

Armin W. Riley, head of the "flying squadron" that hunts down profiteers for the department of justice, told a profiteer story at a Washington reception.

"A sick profiteer," he said, "was told by his physician that he had only a short time to live. Accordingly, he expressed a desire to confess his sins, and a divine was sent for.

"The divine entered the dying profiteer's chamber and the door was closed. An hour, two hours, three hours passed. Nothing was to be heard by the attendant nurses and physicians outside in the corridor save the steady, monotonous flow of the profiteer's confession, punctured at brief intervals by exclamations of horror and indignation on the part of the divine.

"Lunch was sent into the sickroom, and the confession went on. The afternoon waned. The sun set. Night fell. The divine's dinner was carried to him. And still the profiteer continued to confess.

"Haggard and unstrung, the divine at last tottered forth at daybreak.

"Our unfortunate friend," he said, "is no more. He worked very, very hard; but at the time he passed away he had only carried his confession through the first year of the war."

DEALT LENIENTLY WITH HIM

Consumer's Action, of Course, Was Treasonable, But Caliph Proved a Kindly Man.

"What is the charge against this man?" asked the caliph, with a sympathetic gleam in his benevolent eye.

"Your honor," said the attendant, "it appears that he attempted to start a private drive of his own for his family."

"A private drive! Why, this is treasonable. Who is he?"

"He is just a consumer, your honor; just a private citizen, a man who apparently belongs to the middle class, at the head of a large family. Upon being questioned, he told the inspector, with a loud and unseemly laugh, that for many moons he had been asked to contribute to everything—all kinds of reliefs, governments, etc., and with all this burden he was forced to pay 25 cents a pound for sugar, $90 a month for a cook, $100 for a suit, and other things in proportion. And so, your honor, with a mad laugh, he started a private drive of his own, announcing that if anybody in America needed relief, it was he."

The caliph shook his head sadly, for he was not an unkind man.

"Poor wretch," he said. "Do not confine him too rigorously. Feed him on nourishing things, keep his feet warm, and try to nurse his reason back. It is evident that the situation in which he has found his beloved country has unhinged his mind."—Rebboth Sunday Herald.

"Friends, the taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those laid on by the government were the only ones we had to pay we might more easily discharge them; but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement."—Benjamin Franklin.
