CLEANING-UP

The thanks and congratulations of the city are due the city administration or that member of it who is responsible for the thorough cleaning up that all down town lots and alleys are receiving. Never since the spring clean-up became a popular annual event has so good a job been done. Vacant lots are being cleared of their winter accumulation of torn paper, pine cones and other material, the alleys are becoming as clean as the front streets, there is a spick and span appearance everywhere.

In addition to the pleasure given by this appearance and actuality of cleanliness there can be no doubt but that the work will help greatly in keeping down the flies. The fly breeds in dirt. Rising from the dirt he carries dirt and disease wherever he goes. Cleanliness is the first line of defense against him.

Then, too, there is the advantage to be gained by showing a clean city to the many visitors we shall have this spring and summer. In a few weeks many anglers will be coming here on their way to the lakes. Later the auto tourists will pass through and in the summer a convention or two will be held here. What a wonderful advertisement it would be to have these people go away from here saying that the cleanliness of the town was a noticeable thing. It is in our power to have them say this. To do this we must not only get clean, however. We must stay clean. Why not try it?

Portland is apparently having a hard time in raising its Community chest fund of $550,000. Certain of the institutions that will share in the fund have been of real help and service to this county and city and it would be wholly fitting if contributions to the fund were made from here.

The American Telephone & Telegraph company, parent company of the Pacific company, has just announced an increase in dividend rate from 8 to 9 per cent. The increased Oregon rates will help to pay this, we suppose.

In Nevada the death punishment is to be given by gas. Now if they will use laughing gas possibly the condemned man will be able to see some humor in the situation.

Red Noses

John Barleycorn is planted, the law has put him out; no tanglefoot is granted to any thirsty scout; no barkeep hands the bitters, the bourbon or the rye, to any human critters, as drouthy months go by. But oh, the crimson noses I see upon the street—as red as any roses that make the summer sweet! Where do they get their tinting, their bright autumnal hue, since vintners are not vinting, and brewers do not brew? The barkeeps are not flinging the glasses as of yore; the doors that once were swinging inward now no more; John Barleycorn is busted, his graft is past and gone, the old brass rail is rusted, there is no demijohn. But oh, the crimson noses that through the ether plow! The looker-on supposes they should be bleached by now. They should be fair and whiter than is the driven snow, since Barleycorn, the blighter, was slain long months ago. There should be no such noses, since Barleycorn is dead, but every hour discloses new shades of blooming red. Oh, can it be that water will tint the human beak, as well as stuff that's hotter—the booze men used to seek? And can it be that drinking down where the streamlet flows will paint a fellow's blinking and blooming, blistered nose?

COMMUNICATIONS

that there will soon be something doing in railroad work, and that it will not be long before there is a second, and possibly a third road into, or at least within reach of Bend.

Farmers in the Tumalo section are busy clearing and plowing, and a great amount of new ground will be under cultivation this year.

The surveyors working on the proposed Natron-Ontario line across Central Oregon are now running their lines in the vicinity of Burns in Harney county. Information from that city is to the effect that one crew will work toward the northwest, heading for the Bend country.

The W. H. Staats hotel at Deschutes caught fire yesterday, and caused considerable excitement for a few minutes. A bucket brigade to and from the river finally conquered the fire.

H. C. Ellis reports that he will be ready to assume the duties of U. S. commissioner as soon as his bond is accepted.

The Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company wants rock men, teamsters, and slip holders. Wages are $2.25 a day.

J. H. Haner, of Prineville, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for county clerk, spent several days in town the first of the week, meeting the voters of the section and looking over political matters. Mr. Haner is a strong candidate for the nomination.

E. A. Smith left Wednesday for his homestead south of town.

OFF AGAIN—ON AGAIN

In the days of George II the well dressed man carried his hat, but never wore it for fear of ruffling his wig. Nowadays, a man is more particular about his hat than his hair; he buys a Gordon because it looks good on his head.

Good looks in a hat is dependent on quality—one reason why this season's Gordons are so sightly.

CASHMAN BEND'S CLOTHIER

petition with several additional signers—and we got a very polite letter stating that owing to "Industrial conditions" it would be impossible to connect us up with the city but later they might consider our petition, and was signed by T. J. Foley.

Now, Mr. Mayor.

Just who has the franchise to furnish lights for the city of Bend?

Who are legitimate citizens that can receive such service and what form of initiation does a citizen have to go through to become legitimate?

Who conferred the Order of the Royal Knights of Monopoly on the B. W. L. & P. Co.?

Mr. Mayor, we spend every dollar that four hard working men can scrape together in the city of Bend, and if you take time to inquire you will find we pay our debts, our taxes, live up to our principles of "live and let live" and are raising eight citizens for Bend and U. S. A.

If you can inform me as to what further form of citizenship papers we have to take out to become entitled to the city's service we will owe you our everlasting gratitude.
 MRS. C. J. STAUFFER.

CREDIT IS OUR GREATEST ASSET
 The commercial world is standing on the foundation of credit. Every individual is a cog in the great wheel. When one neglects his credit and fails to pay his honest obligations, he makes it impossible for some one else to meet theirs, therefore it is extremely vital that each and every one see to it that we

An American Worker's Creed
 "The Company for which I work is a mighty good employer and I think any employe who hasn't an interest in the success of his employer ought to quit or get fired. My idea is that when a man sells his services to an employer, he sells his loyalty at the same time. If he can't be loyal and give the best that is in him, he ought not to work for that particular employer. By being loyal I don't mean that one has to be a toady, or that he has to lose any of his independence. The most loyal may be the most independent, and usually is."
