GERMANS IMITATE AMERICAN WARES

Free Use Made of Trade Names in Campaign To Seize South American Business.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, April 21.—The effort of the Germans to stage a post-war commercial come-back is probably more apparent in this city than in any other in Brazil.

As the leading center of the commerce of a fast-growing republic, Sao Paulo evidently has been picked by the Teuton commercial missionaries as the starting point of their "seize-Brazilian-business" campaign, and evidences of a certain success are apparent.

Shop windows are filled with German-made goods, including many articles which are flagrant imitations of widely known American specialties. For instance, one smart shop here is displaying a window filled with vacuum bottles. Each bottle bears—in large letters—the name of a highly-advertised American company, which makes the same line of goods. In small letters underneath, however, is the tell-tale mark, "Made in Germany."

QUICK AIR BLOWS WILL BE DECISIVE

British Expert Believes That Fast Torpedo Planes Will Eliminate Latest Dreadnaught Type.

LONDON, April 21.—Major General Sir Frederick Sykes, controller general of civil aviation, believes, with American experts, that the next war will be won in the air, and that fast torpedo-carrying seaplanes will sound the death-knell of present day heavily armed "capital" ships of the latest dreadnaught type.

Before the Institution of Civil Engineers, speaking on "Aviation and Air Transport," Sir Frederick, while insisting upon the necessity of government support of commercial aviation, dwelt on the military and naval possibilities of aviation, the development of which could only be continued in peace time by subsidizing and encouraging commercial experiments.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST

The last week of the special series of evangelistic meetings at the little brick church are drawing to a close. That there is a deep interest is manifested by the questions which are being handed in. The following were handed in at the close of last evening's service, and will be answered tonight: "Why shouldn't we eat pork? That is a Jewish belief. Is the Seventh Day Adventist a part of the Jewish faith?" "There is supposed to be only one true church. Which church is the true church of God?" "Why are there so many different faiths?"

The pastor's subject tonight will be, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" This question was asked of Paul and Silas by the Philippian jailor (Acts 17:30). G. N. Thorp, pastor.

BAPTIST SERVICES

The splendid audience of last evening having listened to the eloquent words of Rev. Bentley, who spoke on "Isiah's Vision" will surely want to hear his message tonight, "The Ladder reaching From Earth to Sky," at 7:45. Don't miss this. We most cordially invite you.

Rocky Kansas real lightweight star

This sturdy lightweight, Rocky Kansas, of Buffalo, N. Y., sprung into fame almost overnight, and is now considered the most dangerous man in the 133-pound division and a real contender for Champion Benny Leonard's crown. He knocked out Ritchie Mitchell in one round and whipped Willie Jackson in twelve sessions. He is the rugged mixer of the Battling Nelson type.

SCENE OF MAJESTIC BEAUTY

Table Mountain, for Many Reasons, is Superior to Any of the Earth's Great Peaks.

I have seen many flat-topped kopjes in Africa. I have seen the bare and golden Atlas range drop away into the golden sands of Mogador, but I have never seen anything resembling its mighty mass which is the dominant, the royal fact of the Cape Peninsula. . . . It is by virtue of its mass and the colossal buttressed cliffs which form its walls that Table Mountain is majestic, as also by the abruptness of its rise from the visible sea-level. The height of inland mountains is a matter of faith rather than sight; but this mountain, like Etna and the Peak of Teneriffe and others whose roots are in the sea, announces its stature at once to the eye. It rises more immediately from the sea than either of these, yet not so immediately as it appears to do when seen from the bay. It throws out toward the ocean low spurs of mingled rock and green banks. In spring these grassy banks are all set with flowers. Among them is a pretty white flower, about the size of a narcissus, though different in shape, of which I have seen a bouquet in England, many weeks after it had been gathered at the Cape, standing in a vase without water and still quite fresh. . . . —Margaret L. Woods.

NEED FOR BALANCE WHEEL

Courage is, of Course, a Magnificent Thing, But Should be Regulated by Prudence.

Courage is an indispensable quality in our success; but if it is not balanced and regulated by prudence it will run away with us and lead us into all sorts of foolhardy things. Boldness is a great quality when it is held in check by proper cautiousness and guided by good judgment.

I know a man whose courage is very much over-developed and his faculty of caution is very deficient. He does not know what fear means, and he plunges into all sorts of foolish operations which do not turn out well, and he is always trying to get out of things which he had gone into hastily. If his prudence had been equally developed with his courage, with his boldness, he would have made a very strong man.

Futile endeavors, half-hearted efforts never accomplish anything. It takes the fire of determination, energy, push, and good judgment to accomplish that which counts. It is the well-balanced enthusiastic man with fire in his blood, and ginger in his brain, who makes things move and achieves the seemingly impossible.—Denver Catholic Register.

The Kiss in Ancient Folklore.

A story of Alexander the Great and a kiss forms one of the most thrilling bits of history. An enemy of the king's invented a novel plot to cause Alexander's death. He discovered a beautiful young girl, who, like Rippacal's daughter in Hawthorne's story, had been brought up on deadly poison, and every one who came near her was killed by her deadly atmosphere. She was sent to the king's palace with instructions to do what would be called "vamping" today. Alexander saw and admired her extravagantly, but the shrewd Aristotle suspected treachery. Before he allowed the girl to approach the throne he sent for a criminal who had been sentenced to death, and instructed him to kiss the girl in the presence of the king. He fell dead on the ground, like one struck by lightning.

The same story appears in folklore of India, and the early Christian monks made great use of it in their sermons, personifying the Christian as Alexander, conscience as Aristotle, sin as the venomous girl, and the weak sinner as the criminal who was punished.

Disagree Over Famous Vine.

On Roanoke Island, off the North Carolina coast, stands an ancient Scuppernon vine. It is near the grave of Virginia Dare and the site of the "Lost Colony." Nobody knows the age of that vine, but many nearby vines, which seem more youthful by comparison, actually are known to be more than one hundred years old.

A regional contribution to American mythology credits Sir Walter Raleigh with having planted the vine where it now stands, and further claims are that it is the original Scuppernon. Unimaginative investigators, however, say that the original Scuppernon grew wild in Tyrrell county, North Carolina, along the Scuppernon river, well before 1700, and that from this county the species found its way to Roanoke Island.

Shoe-Throwing Old Custom.

Throwing old shoes was not always confined to weddings, though the custom nowadays has come to be associated entirely with the going away of bridal couples. Authorities differ as to the origin of the practice and its exact significance; it seems, however, as if it had to do with the transfer of property—women being regarded as such among the nations in which the custom began.

It was in the sense of confirming a sale or exchange that the Jews understood the removal and giving of a shoe or sandal. When the kinsman of Boaz consented to waive his claim upon the parcel of land which Naomi would sell, he "drew off his shoe," for "this is the custom of Israel."

GRAND THEATRE FRIDAY--SATURDAY and FRIDAY MATINEE

After braving the dangers of the high seas, floating for days on a hatchway, battling sharks and dying with thirst, George Stevenson Cole was rescued, only to be plunged into a baffling mystery. It's a story of real action.

A gripping tale of crime and adventure, love and hate; of fire at sea and desperate plots in places ashore. You must see it!

Mark of Bondage.

Little Paul, visiting his cousins on the farm, had been taken down to see the pigs. Noticing several bad rings in their noses, he said to his big brother: "Say, Bill, those pigs must be married, 'cause they are wearing rings."—Chicago American.

Spanish National Hero.

"Cid" was a title given to Roy or Rodrigo Diaz de Bivar, who lived in the eleventh century. He was a national hero of Spain, famous for his exploits in the wars with the Moors, and a champion of Christianity. The name is pronounced as if spelled and a champion of Christianity. The theth, with a long "e."

Love Works Miracles.

The cure for all ills and wrongs, the cares, the sorrows and the crimes of humanity, all lie in the one word "love." It is true the divine vitality that everywhere produces and restores life to each and every one of us, it gives the power of working miracles if we will.—L. W. Child.

No Magic in Prosperity.

Springs may bubble over but buckets have to be filled. As much water can be taken from a bucket as is put into it. Likewise prosperity has to be created before men can become prosperous. He who refuses to help create prosperity deserves none.
