Hear Heart Yards Away.

An amplifying apparatus described as so delicate as to permit a physician in one city to make a stethoscopic study of the heart action of a patient hundreds of miles away, was demonstrated to a group of army and civilian medical men at the army signal corps laboratories at Washington. The principle involved is similar to that used in transmitting President Harding's inaugural address.

The demonstration was directed by Brig. Gen. George Squier, chief signal officer. The stethoscopic apparatus, with electrical connection, was placed over the heart of one of the laboratory assistants and the heart beat was amplified many thousands of times, emerging from a phonograph horn and heard distinctly and studied by the physicians in a room some distance from that in which the subject was located.

Making of a Language.

That the slang and idioms of today will be correct English tomorrow is the opinion of Prof. H. Glicksman of the English department, University of Wisconsin. "Our language is made up of what was once slang, lingo, colloquialism and jargon," he said lately, and warned that the only deplorable feature about slang was its tendency to produce mental slovenliness. Professor Glicksman then referred to the word "mob" as slang of 200 years ago and as such denounced in the "Spectator" by Addison. "It is an abbreviation of the word 'mobile.' Even so the word 'pep' is vital and virile and will survive with the word 'snappy.' But to gain recognition slang must be free from vulgarity and cheapness," said Professor Glicksman.

Lymph for Infectious Fevers.

Dr. Artaut de Vevey told the Societe de Therapeutique de Paris at a recent meeting that he had had great success in treating nearly a thousand cases of infectious diseases such as influenza and puerperal fever by injecting the patient with his own lymph drawn from a blister. He had also succeeded with it in rheumatism, cholera, facial neuralgia, appendicitis and other such troubles.

New Source of Silk.

Discovery has been made of a process by which the muscular tissue of horses and cattle can be converted into silk—a use being thus found for condemned cows and horses killed because of accident or old age.

The flesh is softened by saturating it in a liquid, which separates the muscle fibers by dissolving the substance that holds them together. Then it is soaked in another liquid, which strengthens the fibers and gives them a silky character.

Silk thus obtained can be rubberized and made water proof by soaking it for some hours in a bath of rubber.

FIND MARKET IN HAWAII FOR HAY

A market has been found for Central Oregon alfalfa hay in Hawaii, according to a letter received by the Commercial club from George Quayle, secretary of the Oregon Chamber of Commerce. Purchasers have been found for 200 tons a month. A large amount of last year's hay crop is still held in Deschutes county.
