LEAGUE'S FATE TO BE SETTLED

MAY CHANGE TO SUIT UNITED STATES

Important Questions of Mandates To Be Taken Up In Session of Council Beginning Today — German Protest To Be Considered.

By Henry Wood.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
GENEVA, June 6.—With the meeting of the council of the League of Nations here today, the fate of the league will in all probability be definitely decided.

The meeting will be the first one that has been held since President Harding's definite announcement that the United States can never join the league in its present form.

It is expected that all of the allied powers have definitely decided upon the attitude they wish to take as regards the league, and the council will be in a position to formulate definitely the league's future.

The fundamental question to be decided will be whether it will be necessary, or advisable, to abandon entirely the league as now established, or whether it will be possible to work over the covenant and the league's present organization in such a manner that they will eventually be acceptable to the United States.

In addition to the fact that the delegates on the council of all the allied nations will have definite instructions on this point from their respective governments, it is also expected that former Premier Viviani of France will be able to give a fairly definite idea to the council whether or not the present league can be made acceptable to the United States. Much will unquestionably depend upon his personal observations in the United States on this point.

few since the opening of the camp, but the number has now increased so that the private boarding accommodations are no longer sufficient.

K. P. Cecil of the district national forest office at Portland is in Bend on an inspection trip, during which he is visiting the Ochoco, Malheur and Deschutes forests. He and Supervisor H. L. Plumb left this afternoon for Fort Rock, Odell lake, Crescent and La Pine, expecting to return Wednesday.

The matter of uniforms for all Boy Scouts will be taken up at tonight's meeting, which will be held in Epworth hall at 6:30 o'clock. Plans will also be laid for holding an over-night hike this week, if the weather is good, and final plans will be laid for the participation of the Scouts in the celebration of July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Donovan yesterday headed a party which climbed Black Butte and visited the headwaters of the Metolius. They left Bend at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and took breakfast at Sisters. Others in the party were: Mrs. Ethel Tgavis, Mrs. L. A. W. Nixon, Miss Catherine Manny, Miss Anne Ferwerda, Miss Anno Lund and C. T. Terrill.

At the same time, there will be simultaneously in session at Geneva two big commissions, on both of which Viviani is one of the principal members. These are the commissions for amending the covenant and for preparing definite plans for international disarmament.

Viviani Will Report.

In the case Viviani reports that the present league organization can be worked over to meet American ideas and the council has definite instructions from the different allied governments to work toward this end, no time will therefore be lost.

While the amendment commission was appointed by the league's assembly last December, it was stipulated that all proposed amendments to be passed upon by the next assembly in September must be submitted before March 30, it has already been decided to sidestep this restriction in the event the covenant can be made acceptable to the United States. The above limit has therefore been made applicable only to amendments submitted by member states while any amendments submitted on behalf of the United States will be received up until the very time the next assembly meets in September.

It is expected likewise that Viviani will bring some very definite ideas as to President Harding's policy for international disarmament. As Viviani himself is the chairman of this commission, it is expected that he will try and shape the work of that commission to meet the views of the United States.

Mandates to Be Up.

Aside from the fact that the coming council meeting will thus decide the future fate of the league, the meeting will also be one of the most important yet held. It will be up to the council to take some decision on the official protest of the German government which has been made to the league against the occupation of additional Rhine territory last March.

Equally important decisions will have to be taken by the council on the question of mandates. At the last meeting of the council in Paris in March the United States filed a protest against the awarding of the mandate for the island of Yap to Japan and against the awarding of mandates for Mesopotamia to England, under the terms of the Anglo-French agreement which would give these two countries a monopoly on the oil production of Mesopotamia.

The Spirit of Coolness, shyly present in the heart of nature, oft sought by man for balm to the heated brow, comes to all at the bidding of the G-E fan.

The gently wafted breezes cool the fevered brow, lull mankind to sleep and bring calm and rest to weary souls.

The comfort and convenience of the G-E electric fan cannot be measured in dollars and cents. But the cost of these fans is low and they consume no more current than the ordinary electric light in your house.

Will you let us demonstrate the comfort of these fans in your home?

A fine boy fell into the habit of telling lies. His wise father kept him in mind and whenever he found him telling an untruth insisted that the lad should drive a nail into the wooden fence of the back yard. After a time the boy was switched off from his habit and his father gave him permission for each victory over his habit, to draw a nail, until they were all removed; but the sorrowful boy said: "But, father, the holes are still there." And so it goes in business. Deceptions and untruths are hurtful and are sure to lead to ruin. At this store's inception, those in charge of its destinies, insisted that the printed word and the merchandising policies of the business be solid and substantial. This store fully appreciates the fact that this sort of attitude is not only good ethics, but it's better business.
