CAR OVERTURNED, WOMAN IS INJURED

Dr. R. W. Hendershott and Family In Accident On Suttles Lake Road—Cause Is Not Explained.

Neither Dr. R. W. Hendershott nor his little son Robert were injured when the doctor's coupe turned over on the road from Suttles lake to Sisters yesterday. Mrs. Hendershott's knee was injured, and she suffered bruises on the face and right hand. They had been on the Shriners' picnic.

Dr. Hendershott was driving in a narrow section of road, and in avoiding one tree, struck one on the other side with a front hub. What he cannot explain is that the car turned over toward the tree that was struck, and that a rear wheel, instead of the front one, was smashed. He does not know how the accident occurred.

Dr. Hendershott crawled out through the broken windshield, and received help from the occupants of a following car in rescuing the others. Richard Doran brought Mrs. Hendershott and the child to Bend, where today it was thought that none of the injuries were serious.

Eve's Sister, Oldest Woman in World, Visits London; Mummy Dried by Sun 8000 Years Ago, Belief of Scientists

(By A. J. West. (United Press Staff Correspondent) LONDON, June 27.—Eve's sister has arrived in London.

She lies in a square, deal packing case in the Egyptology section of the University college, Gower street, and she doesn't mind in the least being called the oldest young woman in the world.

Professor Flinders Petrie, who has been reawakening the centuries in Egypt, has just brought this mummy to London. She is at least 8000 years old. Beside her Moses is quite a modern young fellow, and to her the 12 Caesars are but as yesterday.

She lived in pre-dynastic Egypt, long before history had begun. She was thousands of years old before the Pyramids and before men chipped on stone the record of their lives and times. Although other pre-dynastic skeletons have been discovered in Egypt, this is the oldest preserved body of a woman ever known.

OREGON MYRTLE USED AS SOUNDING BLOCK

Speaker of House At Last Finds Substance Which Will Not Crumble Under Gavel's Blows.

(Bulletin Washington Bureau.) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—Speaker Gillett and house members who preside over the committee of the whole have at last found something which will not crumble into fragments under the powerful blows of the house gavel.

The newly discovered treasure is nothing less than a disc of hard wood from an Oregon forest—the heart of a Coos Bay myrtle tree.

It was presented to Representative McArthur when he was speaker of the Oregon legislature in 1909, after he had smashed a score of marble slabs and oak blocks, and was used during the latter part of that session and also during Mr. McArthur's second term as speaker in 1913. It was presented by a Coos county friend, who also gave Mr. McArthur a beautiful gavel of the same material.

A few days ago, when Mr. McArthur was presiding over the house, he wielded the gavel with such force as to split the walnut pounding block into a dozen pieces. He immediately thought of the Oregon myrtle disc, which was reposing in a bookcase at his Washington residence, and on the following day presented it to Speaker Gillett. The speaker and several temporary presiding officers have delivered countless sledge hammer blows upon the face of the disc without making a dent and its resonant qualities are superior to ordinary wood or marble.

GEOLOGISTS WILL REPORT ON WELLS

H. M. Parks of the state bureau of mines and geology arrived in Bend this morning and was met by Ira D. Williams of the same board, who has been in the Fort Rock valley investigating the possibility of irrigation from artesian wells. They returned there today, hoping within a few days to be able to announce just what they will recommend in regard to drilling for artesian water.

Experts say she was about 29 years old when she died. She lies with her knees drawn up to her chin and one hand resting before her mouth. Her preservation is due to exposure in the sun. She has been sun-dried and then left in the sands of Egypt while empires rose and fell and centuries, like tides, washed over the world.

Most of her bones are exposed, a pale amber color, and here and there a few inches of neatly woven cloth adheres to them—her 8000-year-old gown! Her head is wonderfully preserved. Her eyes were large, her forehead broad, and she was certainly a tall, slim girl.

The museum, in which she lies, contains some beautiful, soft Egyptian fabrics. Perhaps some slight a poor little ghost will be seen looking for a new dress, because at the moment Eve's sister is by far the worst dressed woman in London.
