QUARREL IMPOSSIBLE SAY PAPERS

Statues of Americans Become Popular, And Anglo-American Friendship Is Being Encouraged By Powerful Societies.

By Clyde A. Beals
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 30.—Everything on this side of the water points to the rapid increase of good feeling toward the United States. The unthinkability of quarreling with America is only rivaled as a popular newspaper topic by the impossibility of war.

"Friendly cooperation with the United States is for us," said Lloyd George in his opening address to the Dominion premiers now meeting in London, "a cardinal principle. . . . We are ready to discuss with American statesmen any proposal for the limitation of armaments which they may wish to set out, and we can understand that no such overtures will find a lack of willingness on our part to meet them."

Friendliness Keypoint

That, however, only came as a climax to what has gone before, and serves as a keypoint for what has gone on since. The last few months have seen a sudden growth of Washington busts and statues in England. The Sulgrave institution presented three busts, one to Liverpool, one to Sulgrave Manor, the home of Washington's ancestors, and the third went to one of the most sacred spots in the British empire, the crypt of St. Paul's cathedral. The "Heart of England," Trafalgar Square, now treasures a replica of the Houdon statue of Washington, presented by the state of Virginia.

The Marquess Curzon, receiving the statue on behalf of the government, said: "The two great branches of the English speaking race are now and henceforth indissolubly one. We can never fight again. We can never even quarrel again."

This unveiling occasioned many expressions in London papers to the effect that England would never be satisfied until of her own initiative she had erected a statue of Washington in Westminster Abbey. For England there is no more hallowed spot.

Lincoln Statues Popular

Statues of Lincoln have also become popular. One was placed in a cemetery on Calton Hill in Edinburgh shortly after the United States entered the war. About a year ago a statue of him was placed just across the street from the Parliament buildings, though it has been temporarily removed to have a firm base built. Newspaper photographers took snapshots at that unveiling of the prime minister singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

All these signs of Anglo-American friendship are being encouraged by British and American societies. The most remarkable is the English speaking union. It was founded by twelve American and Englishmen in London on July 4, 1918. On the third anniversary of its birth, it had over 5,000 members. The American president is ex-President Taft, and the English president is Arthur J. Balfour. The luncheons and banquets that the union holds have become the vehicles of semi-official announcements. Ambassador Harvey's formal bow was made at one, the formal bow that caused so much comment all over the world. Ambassador Davis made his farewell at one. The prime minister has spoken on occasions, as well as Winston Churchill and other prominent English statesmen.

CORNERSTONE HOLDS TWO DOZEN OF BEER

Police Anticipate Small Riot When Bottles, Sealed Up In 1901, Are Brought To View.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin)

BUFFALO, July 30.—Police are anticipating a small riot when Weyland's restaurant, on Main street is torn down to make room for a new hotel, as the cornerstone holds two dozen bottles of real beer that were placed in the stone in 1901.

What will be done with the "vile stuff" is a widely discussed question in Buffalo. Prohibition advocates want the beer placed in a museum or sent to the historical society to be placed on exhibition so that the little boys and girls who grow up without ever hearing of beer will know what the fatal stuff that made their ancestors such a low lot, looked like. The stronger element of the prohibition party declare it should be destroyed.

The "wets" of the city, and the workmen on the building say they will make an attempt to get the booze first and guarantee that if they do, it will vanish before it is destroyed or placed on exhibition.

Calgary's Name

The city of Calgary, Alberta, received its name in 1876 from Col. Macleod, then in command of the royal northwest mounted police at that point. He named it after his old home, Calgary, a small estate on the Isle of Mull, Scotland.

When Matching Colors

After one has looked at a color for a few moments the eye becomes adapted to that color and is no longer able to distinguish small differences. When matching dress goods you should not look at the materials longer than a minute at a time if you want a close match.

DRESS FORMS HOLD WOMEN'S INTEREST

Several Classes Hold Regular Meetings, Becoming Proficient—County Demonstrator Booked Ahead.

"Dress forms are still popular," says Miss Eva Comegys, county demonstrator. One class met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. R. S. Dart, and made a dress form for her. The same class will meet next Friday morning with Mrs. B. F. Brown, 1915 Federal street. Forms will be made for Mrs. Brown and Mrs. A. R. Leary.

The ladies are becoming very proficient, and will soon be able to do without the supervision of the demonstrator.

A class will meet with Mrs. J. Edgar Purdy next Tuesday, and with Mrs. A. G. Powell on Aug. 16. Other early dates in the demonstrator's work are a meeting of the girls' sewing club at Grange Hall, Monday, the millinery school on Wednesday and Thursday, and the baby clinics at Redmond Aug. 9 and 10, and at Sisters Aug. 11.

SUMMIT OF SOUTH SISTER IS VISITED

Two Parties Have Reached Crater Rim this Summer—J. Edgar Purdy Describes View of Tiny Lakes.

The second party to visit the top of South Sister this summer consisted of J. Edgar Purdy and A. J. Erickson, who climbed the peak last week while camping at Elk lake. The round trip from the camp took them 16 hours. Ed Mason and others of Madras had visited the peak a week earlier, they learned by consulting the record book left there by the Mazamas several years ago.

The crater, which is about 250 yards in width, contains three tiny lakes, says Mr. Purdy. The rim is only about six feet in width, and the visitors found it necessary to cling to the rocks to keep from being blown off the edge into eternity. Other than the view, the chief thing remembered by Mr. Purdy of his visit to the summit was the intense cold.

Colorful Weddings in Saxony

In Saxony the men wear a special wedding dress that looks like a kimono, well trimmed in front and on the cuffs, a soft collar and bow tie, and on their broad-brimmed hats they have bouquets of living flowers. The brides have long handkerchiefs, and they appear to have borrowed their mother's best tablecloth with which to decorate their waists.

Wandering Island

The statement is made upon the authority of some Norwegian scientists that the island of Greenland is slowly moving westward at the rate of ten yards a year. They say that the island was at one time connected to Norway and it has moved 825 miles in the last 100,000 years.
