GUARD, THE TONGUE!
Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile. Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it.—Psalm 34:13,14.

LOSING AN EDUCATION

While all this talk is going on about Principal Paulson and Superintendent Moore and the school board and the striking students we seem to have lost sight of one important fact and that is that these boys who are staying out of school are losing ground in their studies every day. In a way it is to them something of a joke that they are able to enjoy the pleasures of idleness while their fellow students are shut up in school. In another way they undoubtedly feel that they are being martyrs to a cause, that there is a matter of principle at stake and that they are being made sacrifices. The proper view-point, however, is that school exists for their instruction and that they are cutting off their noses to spite their faces so long as they stay away. They are quitters in the job of getting an education.

We blame these boys for what they have done but we sympathize with the feeling that they must have now a feeling of hesitation and unwillingness to go back and face the music. It is the only thing for them to do, though. They are the only ones to lose while they stay out. After all, it is an education that they should be getting and that is what they will miss if they stay away.

BEN GOON'S GIRLS

Ben Goon was born in California sixty years ago, the son of a Japanese mother and a Chinese father. He married the daughter of a Swedish father and fullblooded Indian mother. This marriage resulted in the

Old Friends

Old friends drop in from time to time, and to stale histories give tongue, and talk about the far-off clime wherein we dwelled when we were young. It always shocks me when I meet some friend I knew in days gone by, who used to walk on buoyant feet, and who was eager, strong and spry. For we remember old time friends as we last saw them, years ago, forgetting how time's passage lends to ruddy locks the sheen of snow. Just yesterday James Foster Prigg came feebly hobbling to my lair; once he was strong and bold and big, and fit to whip a grizzly bear. And he excelled in manly games, untired he roamed the woodland ways; and thus I always thought of James, the hero of my younger days. And now he's bent and weak and ill, his voice a cackle, shrill and drear, and when he has to climb a hill he always shifts to second gear. I showed amazement as I stood and watched him creaking to my door; was this the hero who withstood the greensward champions of yore? "Great Scott," he cried, "can this be you, who once was pleasing to the sight? And now your girth obstructs the view, your piebald whiskers are a sight." We waked old memories that slept, and dragged them forth at bitter cost; and as we talked we sighed and wept, each found the other such a frost.

birth of two daughters now in high school, who look and act and think just as other American girls, while their father owns Liberty bonds.

Here we have the blood of Yellow men and women, a Red woman, and a White man uniting to make good, respectable American girls. Great is the land of liberty!—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

Chiefs of the Cherokee Nation.

In the sixty-eight years of the existence of the Cherokee nation west of the Mississippi river, ten men were called, at various intervals, to fill the highest office in the gift of the Cherokees. When the constitution of the Cherokee nation was adopted September 12, 1839, it provided that the supreme executive power of the nation should be vested in an official whose title should be "The Principal Chief of the Cherokee Nation." The ten principal chiefs were: John Ross, Louis Downing, William P. Ross, Charles Thompson, D. W. Bushyhead, Joel B. Mayes, C. J. Harris, S. H. Mayes, T. M. Buffington and W. C. Rogers. Of these only two were fullbloods. All the chiefs, with the exception of Downing and Thompson, were of mixed white and Indian blood. John Ross and Louis Downing were the only ones who had ever filled the office of assistant chief. John Ross had been principal chief of the old Cherokee nation east of the Mississippi river.

Keep Up Old Ceremony.

A quaint little ceremony which has been enacted on the second day of February for more than 200 years may be seen in the churchyard of Wotton, near Dorking, England. It arose out of the bequest of William Glanville, a member of the Inner temple, who left by his will a sum of 40s. for the boys of Wotton. Five of them were required to stand bareheaded on the morning of February 2, and successfully recite from memory the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and the Apostles' Creed, read I Corinthians, chapter 15, and write legibly from dictation two verses from the same passage. Then the 40s. is distributed to them. A boy may succeed only once.

Niagara Traveling Backward.

Floyd W. Parsons says in the World's Work: "Niagara's total practical energy equivalent is in excess of 6,000,000-horse power. This stream of energy is kept constantly renewed by the action of the laws of nature and it finds expression through the medium of noise. The falling water at Niagara presents a grand spectacle which is viewed each year by less than 1 per cent of the population of the country. But this spectacle, though grand, is a traveling show, for the falls have receded 955 feet since the first survey was made in 1764.

THE SHEVLIN-HIXON BAND

As the result of the success attained last year in providing amusement features which met with general approval in a city of the most varied tastes, the Band is being looked to to continue this form of public service. This announcement is to assure the people of Bend that the Band

Will Meet Its Responsibility

The Band has contracted for a five number lyceum series, each number picked with care from the best which the Ellison-White Lyceum Bureau can secure.

October 17--The Parnells--The biggest little company on the platform.

December 28--Ne Pomoceno's Filipino Quartet, instrumental.

January 9--De Marco--Aistrop--Distinctive Entertainers.

Date to be announced later--Peter Clark MacFarlane.

February 17--Lieurance's Symphonic Orchestra.

More Than Your Money's Worth

if you pay by single admissions. An unsurpassed bargain in the purchase of amusement if you secure a season ticket for $2.50. Seating capacity at the Grand theater, which has been contracted for these attractions, is less than that available at the Gymnasium last year, so that it will be advisable for you to buy your season's admission now, insuring your seat at the same time that you save money. Don't forget that each number will include

A 30 Minute Concert By The Band

Any member of the Band can supply the season tickets. Also on sale at Magill & Erskine's Drug Store.
