

SOCIETY

(By Laura Gatchell, Phone 147-M.)

Notes for publication in the social column in the Saturday issue of The Bulletin must be in not later than 5:30 o'clock on the afternoon of the day preceding.

The masquerade ball held at the Masonic hall Wednesday evening by the Central Oregon Shrine club proved to be one of the most delightful social affairs of the season.

The spacious hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Radiating from a center fez shaded chandelier, lines of electric lights, each light with a fez shade, reached the side walls of the room where the beautiful Al Kader emblems and the grotesque Hallowe'en symbols vied with each other for decorative effect while the color scheme was further heightened by bright red and green curtains at the windows. At the front of the room, a bower of greenery on one side of the platform concealed the orchestra while on the other side a similar bower formed a restful retreat for the dancers.

During the evening Miss Laura Rand entertained with a group of songs and Margaret and Jean Adell, little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Goodman gave a fairy dance. The little girls wearing dresses of pink tulle trimmed in tinsel, also passed candles during the intervals between the dances.

In the late evening, the gayly costumed guests removed their masks and a dainty luncheon was served.

Among the out of town guests were J. R. Roberts, president of the Central Oregon Shrine club and Mrs. Roberts, M. A. Lynch and Miss Butler, C. H. Miller, and A. H. Tift, all of Redmond.

The Emblem club entertained Thursday evening with a seven o'clock dinner at the club following which dancing was enjoyed by the members.

In celebration of their seventh wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Reynolds entertained with a 7 o'clock dinner party on Wednesday evening. The table was attractively centered with yellow chrysanthemums and place cards named Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Hendershott, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Foss, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. W. Nixon as the guests. Following the dinner, cards were enjoyed.

Mrs. Dean Goodman, who has been the house guest of her sister-in-law Mrs. Glen Goodman, for the past few weeks departed this morning with her small son Dean Jr., for her home at Heppner. Mrs. Goodman has been the recipient of a number of informal social courtesies and carries with her pleasing impressions of the social life in Bend.

The Royal Workers' class and the Loyals Juniors' class of the First church were entertained at the home of Miss Bernice Barcus on Hallowe'en. Nearly 40 young guests were present, all being elaborately costumed, notable among which were Father Time, a Spanish dancing girl, several fairies, and a clown. A most enjoyable evening was spent playing games, after which appropriate refreshments were served.

The American Legion Auxiliary entertained the members of Percy A. Stevens Post, American Legion Thursday evening with a unique party at the gymnasium that brought about a fine spirit of sociability among those present.

At the close of the business meeting of the post, the president of the Auxiliary invited the members to join a tourist party on a trip to "Chicago." Each guest and Auxiliary member was then furnished with enough paper money to finance the trip, purchased a ticket or rather a half ticket and entered the station waiting room where tickets were matched and companions for the journey thus secured.

A loud voiced brakeman in uniform (Mrs. A. Symons) called the first train to "Chicago" and soon a party of 24 was on its way in a Pullman car which had been cleverly arranged under the south balcony, a feature which was a series of posters painted by Hilah Brick to represent views from a car window.

At frequent intervals, stations were called and a change of seatmates and a topic of conversation suggested. At each station the uniformed conductor (Mrs. Schlichting) officially made sure that no tickets had been overlooked.

At "Cheyenne," porter (Anna Lundberg) gave the call to dinner and the party moved into the diner where seats at well appointed tables were soon found and orders given to the white capped waitresses (Mrs. Craig Coyner and Mrs. George Bugler) The menu as listed and as served was as follows: Blue points on the half shell (half peanut shells with bits of blue paper pasted on the inside.) Canvas back duck. (paper duck with a bit of canvas pasted on the back.) Pressed chicken. (a well browned paper chicken.) Peas. (paper letter P's.) String beans. (candy beans on a string.) Rolls. (cotton.) Date gems. (from a calendar.) Green tea. (green paper T's.)

On reaching "Chicago," guides conducted the party about the city where at various booths much laughter greeted the surprise features presented. At the Field museum, Mrs. John Runge displayed the first coat hanger (a rusty nail), deep sea monsters (sardines) and other articles of interest. Dora Weirauch had charge of "the animals" in the stockyards and Mrs. Oscar Kregnes took parties on a trip to the country where the prize pumpkin (a reflection in a mirror) was the chief attraction. A drive through the woods, with Mrs. Charles Bloom in charge, proved to be an opportunity to use a hammer and a block of wood.

A view of the Milky Way was afforded by a picture of some cats winding their way through a line of bowls of milk. Miss Fay De Armond had charge of this booth and Mrs. Genevieve Perkins of the booth next which named A One Ring Circus. Here all who wore more than one ring were fined. An attractive display of posters, and bathing suits invited the tourists to see a "swimming match and upon entering the booth, Mrs. A. H. Oliver gravely displayed two matches floating on a bowl of water. At the Nickel show Mrs. John Herbert kept them all guessing until a 5 cent piece was spied resting on the edge of a table.

The Mystery Restaurant was the last to be visited where a delicious luncheon (real) was served by waitresses wearing harem veils which kept their identity a mystery.

When the last excursion party had seen the sights, dancing was enjoyed for a short time.

One of the most elaborate children's parties ever held in Bend took place last Saturday between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock in the evening, at the K. B. Weil residence on Broadway street at which time little Miss Muriel Weil appeared as hostess.

The party was given for the pleasure of Evelyn Simpkins with her mother, Mrs. N. F. Simpkins, has been a house guest at the Weil home for several weeks.

Upon arrival, the children were relieved of their wraps, and enjoyed an hour's play in the bright October weather. Prizes were awarded in two of the many games enjoyed on the lawn, Margaret Taylor receiving first prize in the apple game and Olga Dickson and Nell Newton first and second prizes in the peanut game.

At five o'clock the guests were invited within the house, where with many expressions of delight, they viewed the living room in its decorations of orange and black Hallowe'en symbols in the midst of which twin luncheon tables were placed. Each table was centered with a pumpkin with glowing eyes which was surrounded with candlesticks bearing orange candles with shades of the same color. Artistic place cards and tiny paper baskets filled with candies, each carrying a suggestion of the Hallowe'en season and paper service plates upon which pumpkin faces had been painted, completed the attractive setting. Little Miss Simpkins acted as the hostess at one table while Miss Muriel sat at the head of the other table.

Following the service of the menu, in which a color scheme of orange and white had been carried out, the children played a series of games which terminated in a quiet hour before the fireplace during which Mrs. Simpkins entertained the group with stories. Since a Hallowe'en party is scarcely complete without a glimpse of a mystic figure, such an apparition passed swiftly through the room and amid the excitement of settling the question "Who is it," the hour of departure arrived.

This proved to be the climax of the evening's fun for Mr. Weil found a place in and on his car for each of the nineteen little guests.

Those present were Marian, Margaret and Rosemary Hennessy, Olga Dickson, Margaret, Frances and Mary Katherine Taylor, Nell Newton, Virginia Houston, Gay Hamilton, Peggy Overturf, Doris Hudson, Elizabeth Keyes, Irene Buchwalter, Margaret and Jean Adell Goodman, Bernice Hoke, Roberta Linton, Muriel Stenseth, Evelyn Simpkins and Muriel Weil.

The Altar society of the Catholic church was pleasantly entertained Wednesday afternoon at the K. C. club rooms when Mrs. Kate McLaughlin, Mrs. Marie O'Brian, and Miss Rose Plunket received as hostesses. The afternoon was spent with needlework and conversation.

The What So Ever class of the Methodist church enjoyed a pleasant social afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Niswonger on Wednesday.

The guild of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. R. Simpkins where the afternoon was spent in planning for a bazaar and luncheon to be held on December 10. At the close of the afternoon, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church was entertained last Saturday evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Himan. Decorations were in keeping with the Hallowe'en season and clever games carried out. Late in the evening, the guests were seated about a luncheon table where Irving McNeil acted as toastmaster and Lou Meyers, Albert Kribs, and Winona and Dorothy Kleinfelt responded to toasts on topics relating to Hallowe'en.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church held a party in the church parlors Saturday evening. The usual Hallowe'en games were enjoyed and refreshments served by Mrs. L. L. Orr, Mrs. Christina Curry, and Mrs. Sadie Lucas.

A large crowd was in attendance at the dancing party given last evening by the Order of Elks. The Wilson George orchestra furnished the music and special features were a solo, "From a Brahmin Garden" by Logan sung by Mrs. Glen Goodman which especially suited the soloist's fine contralto voice and a ballet by Lola Whitmore, Ernestine Huppreich, Katherine Addink, and Marian Sather, who in costumes of black and yellow with large picture hats, danced the difficult French dance with much grace.

At the close of the evening a dainty luncheon was served in the attractive dining room of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, and Mrs. Frank Prince returned Monday from an auto trip to San Francisco. While in the city the party had the pleasure of being entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woolflen former residents of Bend.

In courtesy to Mrs. W. H. Presley and her aunt Miss Hattie Boulette of Minneapolis the Misses Mildred Simmons and Anna Dornecker entertained Saturday evening with a 8:30 o'clock dinner at the Presley home which was in the nature of a

Done So Well, So Quickly

The two big things you should get from an electric iron are quick action and good work. With these also should go low cost of operation and freedom from repairs.

Such qualities will not be there accidentally. They must be built in before you can get them out. This is partly a matter of good manufacture, but mostly a matter of excellence of design.

That is why the
