HUMILITY OF CHRIST:—Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.—Phil. 2: 5, 3.

DIM YOUR LIGHTS
 Some weeks ago there appeared a communication in The Bulletin from a visitor who pointed out the importance of observing the rule of dimming headlights when motors approach each other on our country roads. Now, we are glad to observe, the city authorities are taking cognizance of the importance of this action on our city streets. It would be difficult to say too much about the danger incurred when headlights are not dimmed. Dimming is not only a courtesy, it is a real duty that one motorist owes another. Only a few days ago several people were killed on the Pacific highway because of a non-observance of the dimming regulation. As yet no accident has occurred here from this cause but there is bound to be one sooner or later. Late last week, we are told, a driver who had dimmed his lights faced a car with bright lights on a narrow grade here in the city and being unable under the conditions to see the road slid off into a stone pile. By chance only a wheel was broken some providence preventing the car from overturning and endangering the lives of the occupants. Motorists who drive at night should think of the other fellow. The Golden rule is as applicable to car driving as to any other phase of human activity. Dim your lights when you approach a car in the dark. If the other fellow fails to do so it is no reason why you should play the hog.

COIN OF YAP VERY DURABLE

Chief Medium of Exchange Has Been Its Limestone Wheel—Arduous to Cash Check.

If any payment should be necessary in the readjustment at Yap between the United States and Japan, the currency used would not be that of the picturesque island in the Carolines, although the coin of Yap is not subject to fluctuation in value, is extremely durable, cannot be easily stolen, and is the despair of the counterfeiter. With such an excellent medium of exchange at hand one may wonder why President Harding would immediately decline a string of Yap coins, although the large hole in the center of each might facilitate a stringing together like the Chinese "cash." Possibly the difficulty will be better understood when it is stated that Yap's chief medium of exchange has been its limestone wheels which run up to 12 feet in diameter. To cash a Yap check would necessitate a motor truck. There are, of course, such other media as pear shell and bags of dried coconut kernel; but to be a plutocrat of the old type you must be able to point to your collection of great discs.

Flea's Travel on Fleas.
 A new "flea's flea" with an adventurous life history was described for the first time at a recent meeting of the Royal Microscopical society in London. The discoverer, F. Martin Duncan, F. R. M. S., explained that it started life in the underground nest of the humble bee. These nests are raided by moles, and during the assault the little mites attach themselves by means of suckers to the mole's parasite, the "great mole flea." These tiny pin points of life are obscure cousins to the scorpion, and it is believed that they travel on the mole flea until they come across a certain underground fungus, where they feed and mature.—Brooklyn Eagle.

To Preserve Sanctuary.
 In James Watt's attic workshop at Heathfield hall, near Birmingham, England, his tools still lie just as he left them a hundred years ago. The owner of Heathfield hall recently died and the Wait centenary committee now purposes to take steps to preserve this sanctuary of science to the British nation.—Scientific American.

The Storm
 It is a dark and stormy night, the winds around my dwelling roar, and, as my trusty lyre I smite, the rain is beating at the door; the rain is pelting at the door, and owing to that circumstance my nephew's head is passing sore—the storm has kept him from a dance. The storm began, a gentle shower, from vagrant cloudbanks overhead; but it grows fiercer every hour, and now its noise would wake the dead; the tempest now might raise the dead, and every minute swells its power, and all my folks are seeing red, and they are savage, mad and dour. For all had dates they hate to miss, the movie show, or bridge, or tea; and on a beastly night like this they can't go forth, the sights to see; they can't go forth, the sights to see, when darting lightnings round them hiss, and so they're sore, but as for me, a stormy night's a time of bliss. I have my good old easy chair, and storybook that's full of snap, so let the lightning rip and tear, and clouds unload their store of sap; let clouds discharge their valued sap, and I'll be happy in my lair, and read about the hero chap who shows us how to do and dare. A wild and stormy night for mine, when I've a goodly book to read, wherein the hero, brave and fine, pulls many a high and knightly deed; wherein he does the valiant deed, and makes the robber chief resign, and seeks the lady in her need, and dries her eyes of flowing brine.

Chinese Like Ulsters.
 Ulster overcoats have become popular with the Chinese in Manchuria. The wealthier class of Chinese always wear long outer garments of silk, which are easily damaged by rain or snow, and the long ulster, besides affording warmth, protects the silk clothing underneath.

Mister Formerly a Title.
 A man is called "Mr." for a reason that dates back to the time when men were called by their Christian names. Certain persons who had learned and practiced a trade, or "mystery," and were considered of a higher rank than common farm hands, had "mister" applied to their names as a title of respect.

What Do You Mean, Chicken?
 "A blonde chicken is an uncertain and confusing quantity where a brunette one is much more understandable," says an experienced automobilist.
 "Whenever I see a white chicken in the distance I instantly slow down, as they always flutter around in the road, running from side to side, seemingly unable to determine which way to go, whereas the brunette hen calmly chooses the side of safety and slips off the right of way."
 "Something very characteristic in the action of these two types of bird."—Columbus Dispatch.

No Haste About It.
 The burglar had just begun his term. Near him was an oldish man, who studied him intently and seemed to be awaiting an opportunity to say something.
 "How long are you in for?" he whispered.
 "Twelve years," replied the newcomer.
 The veteran looked around nervously and thrust a letter into the burglar's hand.
 "I'm in for life," he said. "Post this for me when you get out."—London Tit-Bits.

Oldest Religious Celebration.
 The Jewish feast of the passover is one of the most undying links that bind together this very old world. It is the oldest religious celebration known to mankind. It had its birth on the banks of the Nile 4,000 years ago in the twilight of history.

Stainless Needs Invented.
 If you have ever used a needle you will realize that steel rusts and stains. But now a stainless steel has been invented in the research laboratories of an English munitions factory. It will not tarnish when exposed to the action of different acids.

Better Get The Ball Rolling

The alleys at the American Legion Building will soon be ready for use, and Shelvlin Hixon wants to put a winning team out this season. Ye bowlers get together—start your talk now and do your acting when the season opens.

Speed? Say, this guy's name is Man-O-War!

TALK ABOUT being QUICK ON the trigger. ONE OF our salesmen. ONCE SAW a man. ROLL A cigarette. AND STOP to light it. JUST THEN a piece. OF FINE French pastry. (YOU KNOW the kind. IN THE one-arm joints. THEY CALL 'em "sinkers.") FELL ABOUT ten stories. FROM THE lunch-box. OF SOME wealthy plumber. AND BEANED the man. OUR SALESMAN dashed up. AND SAID, "My dear sir. WHAT HAPPENED?" THE MAN rubbed his dome. AND BEGAN, "I was just LIGHTING A cigarette." "GEE WHIZ," our man said. "HERE—TRY mine. THEY'LL LET you know. YOU'RE SMOKING. AND THEY satisfy. BUT THEY'LL never. KNOCK YOU flat." AND THE man grinned. AND SAID, "Son. IF YOUR smokes. HAVE YOUR speed. THEY'LL SATISFY, all right."

AND speaking of speed, the fastest-growing cigarette on the market is this same Chesterfield. The reason? Simple enough—people like 'em better. That "can't-be-copied blend"—that air-tight package—that moderate price—that "Satisfy" taste—no wonder Chesterfields are leaping ahead. On every count, they certainly do "Satisfy."
