ARMISTICE DAY

GOD'S PLAN FOR DIS-ARMAMENT:—Many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up unto the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths.
 And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.
 But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.—Micah 4: 2-4.

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice day in this year of 1921 marks and is connected with events of a most momentous nature. It looks back to the past and forward to the future. It commemorates the ending of a terrible conflict. It celebrates the success of the American and Allied arms against a war machine that itself barely fell short of victory. It honors, in the funeral ceremonies over the American unknown soldier, both him and those whom he typifies. It begins the conference on the limitation of armaments that will either start the world on the long up-hill pull to permanent peace or plunge it into the despairing realization that the power of selfishness still rules.

When that hour of 11 came three years ago tomorrow morning the whole world breathed its relief and gladness. The soldier in the trench and the field stood up. The armies back of the lines and the people at home felt that a load had been dropped. And yet all that they dropped was the immediate need to fight. The load placed on them by wars, wars past, the war just fought, wars to come was still on their backs. It is on their backs today.

The conference may lift some of that load. It may bring us up out of our trenches of taxation and expense. It may make an armistice with war and write a treaty of enduring peace. It may leave us our dollars for schools and libraries and roads and health instead of letting them go for gas and shells and guns, torpedoes, murder and death.

If the conference will do these things this will be an armistice day, indeed.

"I cannot conceive of any greater disaster than the failure of the conference to achieve the ends for which it is called. It is essential that all should help make it a success. We can all help. We can help promoting goodwill, by not saying unkind things about other nations, by disarming our minds before we reduce our fleets."
 —LORD NORTHCLIFFE.

Fifteen Years Ago

(From the columns of The Bulletin of November 9, 1906.)

A deal is now pending whereby the Pilot Butte Development Co. may dispose of its interests in the town-site of Bend, and also its entire holdings in Crook county. After several days negotiations W. E. Guerin and John Steidl have secured figures on the company's properties at a valuation which these two gentlemen have announced is very reasonable.

C. W. Thornthwaite is living on his homestead northwest of Tumalo. A petition is being circulated in Redmond asking for a change in mail routes and for a direct route through Redmond from Bend to Shaniko.

The returns from Tuesday's elections show that the republicans will have a good working majority in the sixtieth congress.

A petition is being circulated praying for the establishment of a post-

Surprise Visitors
 When I decide to visit friends I write and tell them so; and if from them a roar ascends, I wilt, and do not go. "We have the flu to beat the band," my cousin wrote me back, when I informed him that I planned to visit at his shack. "The smallpox has us in its grip," replied my loving niece, "so do not make your threatened trip, but let us die in peace." And thus I give them every chance to dodge impending woe, when I, in pomp and circumstance, to their abodes would go. If they desire to have me there, they'll let me know, I wot, and if they don't it isn't fair to camp upon their lot. For I detest the giddy guys who visit unawares, who think it cunning to surprise poor victims in their lairs. I have a grist of ancient aunts who play this ghastly trick, and when they come my spirit pants to do things with a brick. Oh, one must rail at spiteful fate, and wring his hands and rant, who sees a taxi at the gate discharge a withered aunt. She has a birdcage in her hand, and earmuffs on her ears, and well he knows that she has planned to stay for seven years. If she had only written him that she was breaking loose, he might have had a broken limb, or other good excuse. If you invade another's home un-called, un-advertised, there is a puncture in your dome that should be vulcanized.
