ANOTHER NEWSPAPER CREED

Several weeks ago we reprinted here a statement from the Burns Times-Herald covering its editorial policy and purposes as a newspaper.
It was a statement of which any newspaper might be proud. The purposes of the paper as there set forth were those that any newspaper might make its own. We now have another newspaper creed. This is from the Republican of Stanley, Wisconsin. It appeared on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the paper and we present it as another statement of the high purpose to which most of the country newspapers of the nation aspire.

"We commit The Republican to the task of doing for another generation the same service which it did for the past generation. The task of keeping the men of the community united and keeping their vision clear.
We commit it to the task of discouraging petty factionalism, individual selfishness and petty jealousies all with the purpose of making everything and everybody subservient to the one big idea. We commit The Republican to the task of helping men and women to see that what builds up the community, enriches it in community resources and adds to the individual wealth of every person in the community; and that most of the wreckage along the shores of time is the result of selfish methods to gain an undue advantage. There can be no community progress except with a united front. What progress Stanley has made has been due to the unanimity with which Stanley men have worked to achieve a definite purpose. The petty bickerings and factionalism and jealousies which have kept other towns at a standstill have been conspicuous by their absence here.

"It takes men to build a town. It requires leadership and brains and industry. The Republican has never hesitated to exalt men who were worthy of it and to give them credit

The Moon

The learned Professor Pickering finds life upon the moon; there men, perhaps, are dickering, and chasing the doubloon. We've always thought it tenantless and cold and gray and dead, without baseball, and penantless, with none to paint it red. But now Professor Pickering sees life signs everywhere, and maybe men are liquoring in soft drink joints up there; and maybe skates political as gifted statesmen pose, and kickers, dourly critical, denounce the movie shows. We've viewed the moon through telescopes, its craters and its vales; though fakers, in their yellow scopes, framed up some dizzy tales, of living beings dwelling there, we thought their tales were bunk; no orators were yelling there, no statesmen peddled bunk. We gave no time to bickering, our platform was so strong; but now Professor Pickering has shown us where we're wrong. He's found a lot of greenery, strange plants that grow and thrive; amid that ghastly scenery some cow feed is alive; and—is it merely vanity?—if such green things appear, there's sure to be humanity on hand, to profiteer. The learned Professor Pickering to our belief says, "Scat!" So play him on your Chickering and paste him in your hat.

for their achievements. It has never hesitated to ignore and help the community to forget men who were troublemakers and who sought to create strife and factionalism. This will continue to be its policy. Service has been our watchword. It there be men and women in this community fit to serve, it will be our greatest opportunity to assist them to serve as it has ever been."

EXPLAINS BOXING POLICY

To The Editor:
A change has recently been made in the manner in which boxing contests will be conducted in the city of Bend under the auspices of the American Legion, and as this change has not been widely advertised I have been asked to make a public statement through the medium of the newspapers setting forth my own ideas as to how these contests should be run and the views of the American Legion regarding such contests.

In the first place, the American Legion is not particularly anxious to become involved in the boxing game. The local post would a great deal rather that some outside promoter take it upon himself to put on these bouts and if he can make any money out of them he is welcome to it. So far the only ones who have made any money out of boxing in Bend have been the boxers themselves. However, it was thought that if the American Legion would get behind the matches and sponsor the bouts, appointing for that purpose one of their own members of oversee and pass on coming contests, the game would get back on its feet again in Bend. Acting on this opinion the local post of the American Legion agreed to back boxing matches provided they met with the approval of their appointed matchmaker and, in his opinion, measured up to a standard which the American Legion would care to lend their name and reputation too.

In my opinion there is only one reason why attendance has fallen away at the matches. If local promoters insist on putting on mediocre cards made up of mediocre boxers it can be taken for granted that people will not pay the prices asked to go to the matches. With the possible exception of one or two men there is nobody in Bend with ability enough to rate even a third class match in Portland and yet these same boys have been matched and rematched in semi-windup and main bouts in Bend until the public is tired of seeing them appear, and have had to pay a good price at that.

I have the backing of the American Legion behind me when I say that, starting with the Thanksgiving Day card next Thursday night, any card staged under the auspices of the American Legion will have at least two high class boxers of reputation on the bill. If men can be found in Bend who show promise of development they will be pushed as fast as possible and given a chance to show what they can do, but under no conditions will they be allowed to go against good men simply because they are a home product. They will have to earn their chance to meet the good ones. However, I believe that the public is entitled to see something for its money and I shall insist that at least two headliners appear on each card if their prices are anywhere within reason.

Another thing will have to be understood by anyone appearing on the cards here and that is that if for any reason the referee has reason to believe that either of the contestants is faking, stalling or attempting to throw the match the bout will be stopped, the offending fighter barred from further appearances in a Bend ring and the money which was to have been paid him for his services will be turned in as proceeds of the match and divided equally between the American Legion and the promoter after all bills have been paid.

The American Legion will also insist that the boxers conduct themselves in a gentlemanly manner while training in the city and that they be in condition on the night of the contests. It will not be necessary for any boxer to stage a fight in a poolroom to show how good he is as the promoter will do all the necessary advertising and there is a competent referee who will tell him just how good he is after the bout is over.

I believe that if these rules are carried out to the best of our ability that the boxing game can be put back into the prominent position it once held in Bend, but it can never regain its old place unless the public can be assured of clean square bouts.
Personally, I would rather pay five times the price and see a champion than to pay two bits to watch a couple of hams commit a murder. At any rate it is the intention of the American Legion to bring in the best men obtainable for future cards and if the public does not respond we are willing to let the boxing game die a peaceful death.

In conclusion, I wish to say that Matchmaker Charles Carroll and myself are working in conjunction on these affairs and he is in complete accord with my sentiments. I have absolutely no interest in the matches beyond the interests of the American Legion and the desire to see good boxers and good matches. I trust that the boxing fans of the city will show their appreciation of our efforts by turning out in force at future matches.

Yours very truly,
PAUL H. HOSMER, Matchmaker for the American Legion.
