ALL THE YEAR FACTS

The Bulletin is in full accord with every effort that is being made to further the construction of The Dalles-California highway, nor is its favorable attitude and desire to advance the work any newly developed feeling. For example, last spring when the question of voting additional bonds to aid in the construction of this highway in Deschutes county was before the voters it was actively in favor of the measure and not lukewarm or half opposed. It is now thoroughly in sympathy with the desires of The Dalles-California highway association.

In a large measure the goal of the recently formed association is now being reached before the association has begun active work. As we pointed out here some time ago the Highway commission is now planning energetically the advancement of the work on The Dalles-California. In another year, according to Herbert Nunn, engineer for the commission, the road will be graded from the Columbia river to Sand Springs in Klamath county. If Klamath county votes more bonds for the highway in that county as was proposed at the dinner to the caravan in Klamath Falls last week, the association can, however, take credit for having given the initial impetus to a realization of this need.

Much was said at the dinner to the caravan in Bend about insisting on the rights of this highway to speedy construction and seeing to it that the commission recognized the road. In view of the present attitude of the commission toward the road, as indicated in the work now going on, this sort of talk is quite unnecessary. The big job of the association, as we see it, is to get the road hard surfaced and that means getting the necessary money.

The recent suggestion that since the road had no California connection it could not be considered for any of the new Federal road funds suggests another job for the organization and that is to get that connection.

One other matter in connection with the recent trip of the caravan from The Dalles it seems to us deserves comment. The trip was taken, it was announced, to show that this was an all-the-year road. Our contemporary speaks of it as "to all purposes, an open road the year round." This is not so and we all know it is not so. There is no good in our saying so. Indeed to say so merely raises doubts as to our good

Bootleg Booze

He bought a half pint in a wynd where bootleg booze is dear, he looked before, he looked behind, so see no cops were near; then took his drink—it made him blind, and he's been blind a year. He was a large and stately man, an athlete, trim and strong, built up along the Milo plan, no pistons hitting wrong; and now a sightless also ran, he toils and gropes along. He really didn't care for drink, he had no costly thirst; but he was aye a haughty gink, his motto, "Freedom First;" he said, "I'll sip the scarlet ink, though all the statutes burst. My fathers fought at Bunker Hill that people might be free, and no outrageous Volstead bill can come and hog-tie me; so mark my curves and watch me swirl a bowl of graveyard tea." He poured the deadly biters down, and then fell on the floor, and had a fit, and rent his gown, and his long whiskers tore; and though he hobbles through our town, he'll see it never more. The bootleg merchants boost the tomb, and for the death-cart root; they kill the young men in their bloom, and do not care a hoot; the stuff they sell is liquid doom, distilled from Dead Sea fruit. It's made and sold by reckless knaves, this substitute for rye; its victims fill ten thousand graves, and hundreds daily die, and over them the willow waves, the sexton heaves a sigh.

AWNING DANGER SEEN

To the Editor:
While I regret very much that Mr. Sparks had to suffer the loss of several teeth before you got on the job and began panning people who persist in maintaining awnings which are what a sailor would call, a danger to navigation, I feel that the result will be one which will allow Mr. Sparks to realize that his sacrifice is not in vain.

Perhaps some of the goods in the windows protected by these awnings will not stand a little real daylight.

Consider Your Eyesight

Are you giving it proper attention? The glare of electric lights is harmful to even the strongest eyes and will subject them to undue strain. See that all your lights are equipped with proper shades and reflectors. Where there are no shades, put only White Mazda or frosted lamps in the sockets. You will never regret having thus protected your eyesight.

but that is no reason why the taxpayers in Bend to whom the streets belong, should have to do a tight rope stunt and walk out on the curb. Just why our merchant princes care to assume the risk of a costly damage suit with perhaps a resulting large verdict against them is something your contributor cannot understand. Many of our citizens wear glasses which in themselves are expensive, and a slight blow as a contact with an iron pipe brace would undoubtedly break them.

pieces of glass being forced into the eye, perhaps rendering the victim sightless. What a thing like this would cost is not a pleasant thing to contemplate and nothing could reimburse the injured person for the suffering he undergoes. It does not have to be a very tall person walking on the business streets of Bend who has his hat knocked off onto a muddy sidewalk every once in a while, causing the use of profane language. On a wet day such as we have had lately, nothing is better for the appetite than to run into one of those ragged scalloped fringes they use for decoration, and meet the splash in the face.

Sometime ago a Bend resident suffered from an awning and he took it into his own hands to remove it. It is hoped that perhaps the Commercial club can do job No. 36 and get these awnings fixed so that public opinion will not insist on their entire removal.

Don't stick with the prunes

MY DAD'S favorite yarn.
WAS THE one about
THE OLD storekeeper,
WHO WAS playing checkers,
IN THE back of the store,
AMONG THE coal oil,
AND THE prunes,
WHEN THE sheriff,
WHO HAD just jumped his king,
SAID "SI there's a customer,
WAITIN' OUT front."
AND SI said "Sh-h-h!
IF YOU'LL keep quiet,
MEBBE HE'LL go away."
NOW HERE'S the big idea,
WHEN A good thing,
HAPPENS ALONG,
DON'T LEAVE it to George,
TO GRAB the gravy,
FRINSTANCE IF,
YOU HEAR of a smoke,
OR READ about a smoke,
THAT REALLY does more,
THAN PLEASE the taste,
THERE ARE no hooks on you,
THERE'S NO law against
YOUR STEPPING up,
WITH THE other live ones,
AND SAYING right out,
IN A loud, clear voice,
"GIMME A pack of
THOSE CIGARETTES,
THAT SATISFY!"

YOU'LL say you never tasted such flavor, such mild but full-bodied tobacco goodness. You're right, too, because they don't make other cigarettes like Chesterfields. The Chesterfield blend can't be copied.

BARR'S QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE IRIS?
Nature designed the iris to automatically control the amount of light reflected through the cornea by enlarging and reducing the size of the pupil. It accomplishes the same purpose as the diaphragm in a camera. Our perfectly fitted glasses will make your troublesome eyes stop troubling you.
