THE BEAUTY OF HOLI-NESS:—Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; bring an offering, and come be-fore him; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.—1 Chronicles 16:29.

CAUSES

We are criticised by our morning contemporary for "not daring to uncover the real cause of the trouble" lying behind the antagonism against the school board which caused the defeat of the proposed school tax on school work, discipline and concen-Saturday. It takes issue with our statement that spite against the board rather than opposition to the tax decided the election, saying the school superintendent and not the board was the object of the animosity that expressed itself in the vote.

The Bulletin is quite ready to go a step further back in the analysis of the causes leading up to the defeat of the tax and to agree that dislike of Superintendent Moore was one of the foundation stones-the corner stone, let us say .- of the structure of opposition reared against the board. To say, however, as our contemporary does that this was the sole cause of the opposition ignores too much. Not only the feeling against Mr. Moore but all the other things that have happened this fall have been pooled in an antagonism to the board that found spiteful expression on Saturday. "There was the celebrated Dewey case, there was the strike, there was the discharge of Mr. Rockwell, there was the refusal of Mr. Paulson to allow Dewey to take Rockwell's place, and finally the discharge of Mr. Paulson."

To say that the tax was beaten because of spite against Mr. Moore is an even more severe indictment than there is in the reasons we gave yesterday. It means that to "get" that one man, and for no other reason whatever, not because it was thought that Paulson and Rockwell were mistreated, not because it was thought the board erred in dealing with the striking students, not because of disagreement with any board policy, the Parents' association was willing to wreck the schools by repudiating fi nancial obligations and refusing sufficient taxation for running expenses If opposition to Mr. Moore were the sole cause why was not the Parents' association formed last summer and why have board acts of recent months, acts wholly unrelated to anything Mr. Moore has done, been the subject of protest and condemnatory resolutions?

So far as Mr. Moore is concerned the attitude of the voters was expressed last June when they refused to re-elect to the school board directors whose only platform was that he be removed from the superintendency. In this election all voters participated, not merely those with a statutory property qualification, and there was no outcry raised against the result. Nor was there any outcry until this fall when "trouble broke loose in great gobs." trouble that had its origin in matters for which Mr. Moore was absolutely not responsible. But those who disliked the man and who saw the opportunity to make trouble for him injected him into the controversy. At

Here's Hoping

I hope the nations may decide to junk the implements of might, and scrap the battleships that ride the waters, spoiling for a fight; for such an outcome we have cried since this great confab loomed in sight. The great world war has done its worst, but still remain its wounds and smarts; for peace we hunger and we thirst, for long calm years of useful arts; but if we'd have it men must first scrap evil passions in their hearts. Oh, we may sink our ships at sea, and turn our swords to pruning hooks, and mold our shotguns so they'll be acceptable as shepherds' crooks, but man will find a snickersnee if he is bound to scrap, gadzooks! Disarmament's a noble plan, well worth the highest statemen's while, but it must be an also-ran, and carnage still must be in style, until we rid the heart of man of hatred, jealousy and guile. If he can't have a battleship with which to soak the measly foe, he'll heave a boulder from his hip and haply lay a dozen low, or he will let the arrows zip on deadly errands from a bow. If he can't send out poison gas, or train big guns on yonder camp, he'll take a ragged pane of glass, or brain the foeman with a lamp; I hate to say it, but alas, he's just that sort of rattled scamp! So we must scrap unworthy hates as well as battleships and guns, throw them forever from our gates with broken lances, tons on tons; and then for us the Great Peace waits, to last while there are stars and suns.

drawn across the trail; Mr. Moore's From this situation, however, the personality and every other unrelated subject was brought in until all the real issues were obscured and actual tration, order and progress given a set-back that the teachers have only just begun to pull away from.

For a time following Saturday's election it seemed as though another under the impression that state taxes every opportunity the herring was ple the schools on the financial side. best legal opinion in the state has assisting in the work found a way out. But again our contemporary would drag in Superintendent Moore, an undoubted privilege but not, as matters now stand, of any interest, importance or value.
