

"MORE FUN" PLEA OF PYTHIAN OFFICIAL

Churches As Well As Lodges Have Problem To Keep Interest of Young, Gleason Says.

"Churches as well as lodges must give the young people more fun if they expect to hold their interest," was the statement of Walter G. Gleason of Portland in an address last night before the Knights of Pythias lodge and visitors, during which he told of the value of Pythian teaching and practice. Churches in small communities are having a hard time to exist because they do not take into account the restlessness of the age, he said.

Gleason, who is grand keeper of records and seal for the Oregon domain of the lodge, expressed the hope that when the lodge here builds its new home this need will be kept in mind. Lodges for both men and women will be the rule within a few years, and will be the successful fraternities, Gleason added.

L. S. Finseth of Albany, grand chancellor for Oregon, declared that the real work of a successful fraternity is outside the lodge hall, and that an order is judged by the community for the service it renders. H. H. DeArmond, who presided, responded with an expression of thanks on behalf of the local lodge for the visit of the grand officers.

TOM AND GILBERT SAY NEVER AGAIN

Admit They Are Responsible For Fire Alarm In Zero Weather—Blaze Quickly Extinguished.

Chief Tom Gilbert and Councilman Gilbert have faithfully promised that next time they gossip in the fire house, it will not be when the temperature is zero. They were there yesterday, and willingly take the blame for the fire that occurred shortly after 5 o'clock at the home of H. E. Jones, 624 Hill street.

A spark from the kitchen stove fired the material in the wood box, and it flared to the ceiling. So quickly was the alarm turned in and so quickly did the firemen respond that they were able to extinguish the blaze before it did more than darken the walls.

Breathe Through the Side.
The caterpillar has no nose yet he does a regular A. No. 1 job of breathing. He has a mouth, but nature has so arranged it that he can utilize this organ exclusively for feeding and doesn't have to breathe through it. He does all his breathing through special apparatus consisting of nine holes on each side of his body.

Inveterate Punster.
Thomas Hood, the poet, was the prince of English punsters, and found his own name a fruitful subject of his wit. On being shown a portrait of himself very unlike the original, he declared that the artist had perpetrated a false Hood. When near his end he said he was dying out of charity to the undertaker, who wished "to urn a lively Hood."

NINETEEN IN HIGH ON HONORARY LIST

Students Have Grades Exempting Each from Semester Examinations In Three To Four Subjects.

While the high school semester examinations are being taken, 19 students are enjoying a vacation for the better part of the time. These are the ones exempt in three or four subjects—those whose grades were so high as to make the taking of an examination unnecessary.

Of the five seniors mentioned in the list given out by Miss Harriet Umbaugh, high school principal, Mildred Hoover is exempt in four subjects, the others, Louise Inabnit, Lloyd Blakely, Alice Stockman, and Wilbur Watkins, being excused in three.

For the other classes, exemptions listed are for three courses, and are as follows: Juniors, Lois Clark; sophomores, Billy Foley and Irving Daniels; freshmen, Kenneth Gales, Dorcas McMunn, Marie St. Clair, Bill Newton, Maybelle Winslow, Anna Mary McKinley, Ralph Van Cleave, Katherine Redfield, Harriet Heyburn, Robert McKee, and Kenneth Moody.

This list does not take into account grades which would entitle students to exemption in the minor courses such as manual training, as no exams are held.

Cement for China.
Dissolve one large tablespoonful of gum arabic in one-quarter cupful of warm water (it must be rather thick). Put in enough plaster of paris to make a thick paste. Apply at once to broken china before the paste has time to set. In half an hour the china will be firm.

Just as Ma Does Pa.
"Ma, I know what makes the waves angry," said a little Winthrop boy as he watched the breakers pound against the sea wall. "It's because the wind is blowing them up."—Boston Transcript.

PUT ANTIQUARIANS IN FLURRY

Historic Old English Building, Long Hidden Under "Improvements," Recently Brought to Light.

Lost for centuries, a building of historic and civic importance was discovered at Hereford, England, owing to the collapse of a modern chimney in the Booth Hall hotel during repairs. The building is an ancient, timber-built structure known as the Booth Hall. According to local antiquarians a license was granted in 1384 for the purchase of the site for a municipal building, and it was afterward used as a house of detention for freemen and bankrupts. When the chimney collapsed parts of the roof and the ceilings of upper bedrooms were brought down, and some fine oak beams and rafters were exposed. Closer examination showed the portions of carved and molded work. A member of the Hereford Woodhose club, a local society whose chief interest is the preservation of ancient work of the county, persuaded the owners to restore the building, and after the partitions and ceilings of the old attic bedrooms had been removed three handsome hammer-beam principals and two tie-beam principals were discovered, the hammer-beams having carved brackets, with figureheads, and the tie-beam principals with paneled king posts contained beautiful tracery panels. Cusped wind-braces between the principals decorate and strengthen the structure.

ROCK THAT CAN BE SAWED

Oregon Product That Would Seem to Have Peculiar and Most Valuable Properties.

Tufa, a volcanic ash rock, with properties possessed by no other stone, is being quarried near the town of Mount Angel, Ore., the only place in the United States where it has been found in sufficient quantities for commercial use. The stone is first blasted out and is then hauled to a mill and lundled like lumber. It is cut into blocks or "boards" of any desired dimensions. Saws, planers and drills are used on it exactly as in a lumber or planing mill. The finished product closely resembles lumber, but is cut only in short lengths. It is a light-gray color, with spots of white running through it, and weighs only 80 pounds to the cubic foot, about one-half the weight of common building stone.

A peculiar characteristic of the Oregon tufa is that it can be nailed. Nails are driven into it easily as into oak and other hardwoods, but are harder to pull out. Tufa furniture, nailed together, has been made experimentally. It is regularly used for fence posts, moldings, sills and many other purposes where nailing is required. Recently it has been discovered that when pulverized it makes a soft, velvety powder which is an excellent filler for rubber. It is predicted that it will supplant all other materials for this purpose, thus utilizing the refuse.—Home E. Thomas in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

To The Boy's Advantage

A thrifty young man says that one of the earliest possessions in his remembrance was a savings book, and further that he has never been without one. Theodore Roosevelt once said, "The habit of saving money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save." The boy whose interest in having money has been kindled is on the right track. He has a great advantage over the boy who thinks he must spend every cent he can get his hands on. The best and easiest time to start saving is when money is scarce and comes hard. When it comes easy it goes the same way.
