Deep Gratitude.

It is related that the famous Sheridan went to a hairdresser's on one occasion to order a wig. The barber was a liberal soul, and on the orator being measured, a bottle of port was produced and so much hospitality was shown that Sheridan's heart was touched.

When they rose from the table and were about to separate, Sheridan, looking the barber full in the face, said: "On reflecting, I don't intend that you shall make my wig!"

Astonished, and with a blank visage, the barber exclaimed: "But, Mr. Sheridan, how can I have displeased you?"

"Why, look you," said Sheridan, "you are an honest fellow, and I repeat it, you shan't make my wig, for I never intended to pay for it. I'll go to another less worthy son of the craft." —Edinburgh Scotsman.

Yale's Fine Gothic Buildings.

In the Harkness quadrangle at Yale university the architect, James Gamble Rogers, has created, in keeping with the express wishes of the university authorities, a group of Gothic buildings that it is believed will bear comparison with any in the world. Based primarily upon Tudor Gothic, they yet embody many varieties of the style and include, as a matter of fact, elements that the curious student will find practically the whole story of Gothic development.

In their marvelous details and picturesqueness they are the most distinctive collegiate buildings in existence. There is a remarkable and enticing variety of designs in their construction and the most surprising play of fancy.

Janice's Compliment.

The other evening Janice was watching her up-to-date grandmother dress for a ball. The child surveyed her grandmother from all angles as the dressing progressed.

"Finally she said, 'Ganny, you look 'ust beautiful now.'"

"As her grandmother finished she put on a gown trimmed with lynx on which there were a few tells of the animal."

Janice looked the finished product over and exclaimed, "and now, Ganny, you look 'ust like a dog."

Chinese Wedding Customs.

On her wedding day the Chinese bride is clad in red and carried in a sedan chair covered with red. Any person who wishes may turn back the chair curtains and have a look at the bride. Haysseed takes the place of rice and confetti. The bride's hair is elaborately oiled, and so when the girls throw haysseeds at her they sicken. When she has reached the end of her journey she has come to the home of her husband and must bear the candid criticism of the whole family.

The wedding ceremony is nothing more than a rice affair. Instead of throwing it, the guests eat it. The husband-and-wife-to-be cut rice from each other's bowl, then mix the rice and both eat from the same bowl—and they are married.

Of course there is a feast, but the custom makes it such that the American father of a reception-giving bride might envy the Chinese father of the bride. Every guest contributes something, and so it costs very little.

Therefore Avoid Mean Actions.

One great trouble in doing a mean action is that you are compelled to associate with yourself afterward. If you could only have nothing to do with a man who was guilty of such meanness, it would be a relief.

LAWYERS WRANGLE IN ARBUCKLE CASE

Mrs. Kate Hardebeck, "aunt" of Miss Rappe, testified to the girl's good health preceding her death. Lawyers' arguments centered around the states attempt to impeach the testimony of Zey Pyron, one of the state's star witnesses.

Genius Composed in Bed. The composer Rossini's eccentricity took the form of laziness. He composed much of his music in bed.
