"Land of Happiness" Cast Shows Talent—Snappy Numbers Given For Benefit of "40 et 8."

Local entertainers taking part in "The Land of Happiness," the musical comedy to be given Wednesday and Thursday nights at the American Legion building, are among the most talented which the directors, R. W. Hillam, A. W. Stewart and Jack Alden, have had to work with in the three years they have been producing these shows, Stewart declared last night following the rehearsal.

Attendants at Saturday night's 10 et 8 dance at the Pilot Butte Inn were privileged to get a glimpse of the beautiful costumes which will be worn in the comedy and to observe fragments of the action, including some of the song numbers, comedy lines, and feature dances. Miss Fern Aellen appeared in an incense dance, and Art Stewart sang "Mimi," accompanied by the chorus. Stewart and Alden sang "Jabberwocky Town," doing a novel duet dance.

HISTORIC LOCATIONS USED IN VITAGRAPH PRODUCTION

Many historic locations furnished atmosphere for Vitagraph's special production, "The Heart of Maryland," which will be shown at the Liberty theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

One which is especially interesting is the manor house, where Aaron Burr was concealed. Another, Longwood, which is otherwise known as Knut's Folly, is a magnificent building, commenced during the Civil War and never completed. It is the most marvelous structure of this kind ever erected in the United States.

The Briars, that famous mansion used as General Grant's headquarters during the war, furnished another ideal location for the action of "The Heart of Maryland."

One of the most beautiful locations to be used was the Devil's Table, overlooking an enormous expanse of wonderful country in the Mississippi Valley. The long shots taken from this location developed in rich, velvety tones and the horizon several miles away is clearly defined.
