"POLICE SYSTEM" IN COLLEGES IS SCORED

Professor Says American University Half Way Between High School And German Plan.

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 21.—That there is too much "police system" in American university education, was the declaration here recently of Adolph E. Anderson, associate professor of the English department of the University of California.

"The American university is at a half way station between the German university and the American high school system," said Anderson. "The English idea of being more mature seems to stimulate individual thought better than the present police system of this country."

"Too many professors think that college students must be watched.

That submitting to four years of boredom in order to obtain a degree is a waste of time, was the declaration of Anderson. Anderson favors greater personal relationship between student and professor.

are expected greatly to ease the labors of the mail carrier. The boxes will make possible the caching of packages at convenient points, making it unnecessary for the carrier to struggle along under a heavy load for his entire route.

SAYS COZY CORNERS CURE FOR DIVORCE

Thorough Acquaintance Before Marriage Declared Most Important In Curbing Evil.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Cozy corners are a cure for divorce in the opinion of Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist church, Chicago's "marryin' parson."

He suggests that every church and parish house have one, or two or three cozy corners for the girls who live in hall bedrooms.

"For," he told the United Press, "young people never have made love, and never will, under an arc light."

In place of legislation he would substitute a comfortable parlor.

He charged that the angels of the churches are so busy setting up bars at the exit from marriage that they have neglected the entrance.

"It is better," he suggests, "to give two young people a cozy corner by themselves where they may become acquainted."

"Corners are very important in my opinion. "And if there is to be a chaperon it should be one who knows a couple is company and three a crowd," he added.

GOLOSH IS BANNED BY STUDENT EDICT

Denver University Men Peeved At Women's Practice of Wearing Unfastened Overshoes.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 21.—Wool stockings got by. The low necked waist wasn't taboo by any means. Short skirts were even acclaimed. But the golosh must go.

This is the edict of social leaders among the male students at Denver University as regards co-eds at that institution. The men believe it's the girls' business to wear what they want, but the flopping of the ungainly golosh causes the university males some concern.

When it's snowing or raining, the golosh is quite the thing, the men believe, but they can't understand why the co-eds want to wear them down the streets when there's no dampness.

An Odd Superstition.
To break a looking glass is regarded by the superstitious as forecasting seven years of bad luck. Peacock feathers were once considered as bearers of bad luck, but now they are favorites with decorators.
