Johnson Unrecognized By House Speaker

DAUGHERTY AT HEAD

Preparations Under Way For Prosecution of Fraud Cases—Special Grand Jury Nearly Ready.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)
WASHINGTON, May 26.—Efforts of representatives Johnson and Woodruff to force house consideration of the resolution ordering an exhaustive probe of war contracts failed in the house today.

Speaker Gillett refused to recognize Johnson when he sought as a question of personal privilege to force Chairman Campbell of the rules committee to introduce a previously ordered resolution paving the way for such a probe.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Attorney General Daugherty is in direct charge of preliminary preparations to prosecute war fraud cases. A special grand jury to specialize in the hearing of evidences of alleged war frauds, is virtually completed, and will start work early next week.

SHIP CHARCOAL AT BEND PLANT

Carload Consigned To Portland Jobber For Poultry Feed.

The first shipment of the product of Bend's newest industry will be made tomorrow night or Sunday when a car load of charcoal manufactured at the test plant of the Brooks-Seaton Lumber Co., will be sent out, consigned to a Portland jobber. It will be marketed to poultry raisers, and is being sent in three grades, chick feed, medium, and hen feed.

The car load, it is estimated, will run about 12 tons. The charcoal is shipped in paper lined burlap bags to prevent the sifting out of dust, so that preparing the consignment for transportation is no mean task.

Because of the small size of the plant which is demonstrating the economic possibilities of destructive distillation of wood, none of the other by-products have been put out in sufficient quantities to warrant shipping.

Wind Cave Discovered In Arnold District, Reports L. D. Wiest

Discovery of a "wind cave" on the John White ranch in the Arnold district was reported today by L. D. Wiest, engineer for the Arnold Ditch Co. The cave was discovered when the ditch crew blasted out a spillway for the north lateral of the Arnold canal. The wind was blowing out of the cave at the time, says Wiest. The entire flow of the lateral was emptied into the cave for 12 hours without filling it, he said. This is the fourth cave of the kind to be discovered in the vicinity of Bend, he stated, but is the nearest to the city.

CAMP QUESTION ISSUE TONIGHT

Special Meeting of Council To Consider Purchase or Maintenance.

For the discussion of possible ways of financing the purchase of the present auto park site voted at the recent special city election, members of the Bend council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the office of Mayor E. D. Gilson in the O'Kane building, responding to a call issued by the mayor. In the event of inability to purchase until the voting of another budget allows for this additional expense, the question of camp ground maintenance for the present season will be taken up.

Whether or not a canvass of the election vote will be made will be optional with the council as none of the questions submitted to the voters was in ordinance form. Because of this, it is considered that the decision at the polls is not necessarily mandatory.

ONE TIME DICTATOR LIVING IN POVERTY

Castro, "Wolf of Venezuela," Closely Watched By Gomez Secret Agents.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 26.—General Cipriano Castro, former dictator of Venezuela, is living in San Juan in poverty.

None of the glories of his past hang about the little wooden building in a side street of Santurce, a suburb, which houses "The Wolf of Venezuela" who, for so many years, held the power of life and death with an absolutism more complete than the Czar's over the people Simon Bolivar set free.

But despite his humble circumstances, Castro is said to dream still of the day when he may return to Venezuela and rule. As a consequence, secret agents of General Juan Vicente Gomez, present president of Venezuela, are reported to keep a constant watch on the movements of Castro.

MILK SAMPLES FAIL TO PASS SEDIMENT TEST

State Inspector Points To Ordinance Need

TEN FACE CHARGES

Uncleanliness, Short Weight, Improper Marking Among Law Violations Alleged In Justice Court Complaints.

Out of 19 samples of milk secured in Bend, only one was given a perfect score on sediment tests yesterday, declared State Food and Dairy Inspector L. S. Leach today in asserting his belief that the city is badly in need of a milk ordinance as a health measure. Leach is accompanied to Bend by Inspector E. L. Melton, and a thorough survey of establishments handling food supplies is being made during their stay here.

By an ordinance fixing a license fee for all persons engaged in the sale of milk, the possibility of revocation would constantly act as a preventive of law violation, while the license fees could pay for a few days work monthly by a local man, whose reports could be placed at the disposal of the inspectors on their visits to this locality. A number of the smaller cities in the state have already adopted such ordinances, and are obtaining excellent results, Leach said.

The first case brought into justice court here by the inspectors was that filed against Charles Boyd of the Palace Market, on a charge of uncleanliness. Boyd paid a $50 fine. Inspector Leach explained that in the main the market was in excellent condition, but that conditions found in part of the establishment prompted the complaint. Boyd also pleaded guilty to a charge of feeding hogs within 150 feet of his slaughter house. The fine was $10.

Charges Are Varied

Complaints filed before noon today charged I. S. Strassburger and Louis Dornecker of Bend, and W. H. Hobbs of Redmond, with selling bread weighing less than 15 ounces per loaf 12 hours after baking, and alleged that William E. Redman had misbranded butter by not having the net weight stamped on the package. Redman was also charged with selling less than 16 ounces of butter for a pound.

Five complaints filed this afternoon naming E. W. Richards, Mrs. B. F. Madison, Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell, C. T. Callan, and J. P. Bates, charged with selling short weight butter, and one charged Fred Metzger with selling butter in package form not marked "dairy butter."

Application by a neighbor boy of a lighted match to the cuffs of a pair of overalls which little Billy Hanson was wearing yesterday, caused serious burns, and might have cost Billy, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Hanson, of 2188 Awbrey road, his life. The boy who set fire to the overalls ran home, and Billy was left alone in the house, to fight the flames which crept up his clothing. Just by chance, Billy's father came home in time to wrap his coat around the boy and smother out the blaze, his own clothing catching fire in the process. The father was not burned.
