THE KELLY DECISION
 Unless appealed to the supreme court and there reversed, a recent decision by a circuit court judge in Salem is bound to cause considerable delay in the completion of the state highway system in Deschutes county.
 The decision, by Judge Kelly, is that roads already named as state highways may not also be designated as market roads in order to obtain market road funds for their construction.
 Highways affected in this county are from Sisters to Redmond and The Dalles-California from the Allen ranch to the Klamath line.

Both these state highways are partly finished through the expenditure of the proceeds of bond issues matched by the highway commission.
 Bond money available was not sufficient to complete the Sisters-Redmond highway and, at the suggestion of the commission, it was designated as a market road and the work carried forward with market road funds.
 On The Dalles-California, grading has been finished from Paulina prairie to the Klamath line and there remains sufficient bond money to pay for the grading between the Allen ranch and Paulina prairie. There are no funds for surfacing this road, however, and it had been intended to use market road money for this purpose. The Kelly decision, unless overturned, makes this impossible.

There can be no point in any argument here to the effect that Judge Kelly is wrong on the law. The supreme court has the final say as to that. In the meantime we can only regret that he has found it necessary to decide as he has, because of the most unfortunate result. The highways affected should be finished.
 Without reference to the statutory definition, they are market roads of great importance to Sisters, Redmond, La Pine and Bend. No one would have the temerity to propose a bond issue for their completion.
 Market road money may not be used.
 What can be done remains to be seen.

Memoirs

Now everyone is writing memoirs and kindred things, with criticisms blighting of cabmen, cooks and kings, of loving and of fighting, divorce and wedding rings. And some memoirs are classy, and rightly make a hit, and some are merely sassy, and please me not a bit; their authors, bold and brassy, mistake their gall for wit. With duchesses dictating the story of their lives, and butlers, teeth a-grating, exposing great men's wives, the publishers are crating the coin, and business thrives. And females who are nameless, with ink of lurid tint, write stories that are shameless, of wickedness they hint; and people who are blameless don't seem to get in print. I've read the "Recollections" of beldames twelve or ten, who wrote out long selections from diaries in their den, and gave, in smoking sections, punk tales of famous men. They hang some silly story on men who've joined the shades, great men who walked in glory, and led the world's parades; ah, they were sinners hoary, who winked at pretty maids! Thus Gladstone was a Willie who loved to chase a skirt, and Beaconfield was silly when he'd a chance to flirt; it makes my bosom chilly to find in print such dirt! Though modern books I dawdle and send up weary wails; it is an age of twaddle, old maids are telling tales; the fishwife is their model, with all her slime and scales.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Nature's Most Wonderful Laboratory and Out-of-Door Paradise

"The wildest geysers in the world, in bright, triumphant bands, are dancing and singing in it amid thousands of boiling springs, beautiful and awful, their basins arrayed in gorgeous colors like gigantic flowers; and hot paint-pots, mud volcanoes, mud and broth cauldrons whose whole contents are of every color and consistency, splash and heave and roar in bewildering abundance."
 "Here, too, are hills of sparkling crystals, hills of sulphur, hills of glass, hills of cinders and ashes, mountains of every style of architecture, ley or forested, mountains hotted soft like potatoes and colored like a sunset sky."
 "The air is electrical and full of ozone, healing, reviving, exhilarating, kept pure by frost and fire, while the scenery is wild enough to awaken the dead."—John Muir.

Appeals to Vanity Sells Cars

Too many large cars are sold by appeals to vanity of the buyer. A day of reckoning and regrets follow too many such deals. How much more sane and sensible it is to buy a car of modest proportions and avoid the anxieties and responsibilities that go along with operating a large car.

"Buy a Ford and spend the difference" is a common sense view that ought to appeal to the average prospective purchaser of a car.

All the automobiles sold in Bend, put together, do not carry service parts equal to the variety and quantity carried here by the Fords Agents for the Ford car.

Our next carload is now on the way and is due to arrive on June 22. Place your order now to insure delivery out of next arrival.
